SECOND PLANT BLAST KILLS 15 BELGIANS

MALINES, Belgium (UPI) — A huge explosion ripped through a munitions factory and damaged several nearby homes today. Officials said 15 persons were killed and at least 55 injured.

The blast was Belgium's second disaster in 48 hours. Nine persons were killed and seven injured in a chemical factory explosion and fire at Charleroi Saturday.

Peace Talk Marks Manila Conference

By JACK BROOKS
Special to the Times

MANILA — Seven Pacific nations marched arm in arm through the first day of the Asian summit here today in a session that went better than anybody expected.

Probable goal of the conference is a four-point program for peace and prosperity in Asia:

- Determination not to surrender to Communism in Viet Nam.

- Flexibility towards any Communist peace overtures.

- Regional co-operation to improve the lives of all Asian people.

- Concentration on pacification programs in Viet Nam, including a new amnesty for members of the Viet Cong who switch sides.

One diplomat involved in the talks said tonight: "I thought the meeting went better than it could possibly go. There was more unity apparent in the talks than I could have imagined with seven states involved."

An official communique on the talks is to be issued Tuesday afternoon.

Those taking part are the leaders of the U.S., Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, The Philippines, South Viet Nam and South Korea.

JOHNSON SILENT

True to his promises, President Johnson played down his role in the talks. He spoke last and asked few questions. It is understood.

Sources also said no pressure was put on any state to join in or agree with the others.

"They seemed to have agreed on most things before they even got here," a source said.

Highlights of the day's session were all reflected in the opening speeches and behavior of the leaders—plus one speech made later by South Viet Nam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Highlights were:

The anti-war attitude of chairman Nguyen Van Thieu, chief of state of South Viet Nam.

The restraint of President Johnson and the hopefulness of Ferdinand Marcos, president of the Philippines. Thieu, with Premier Ky at his side, made his most peaceful speech yet.

In Honolulu in February he had talked of "defeating" and "crushing" the Viet Cong. Since then he has talked of invading the north.

But at the summit here he declared: "Providing the principles of (protecting the territory and liberty of his people) are respected, we are ready to examine any avenue which could lead to a just and lasting peace in Viet Nam."

NEGOTIATE WITH CONG

Presumably that would include negotiating with the Viet Cong which both Thieu and Ky have repeatedly said they would never do. Thieu also stressed his country is only "responding" to aggression and said its duration depends on what the aggressor does.

Then he added: "South Viet Nam has no desire of conquering or destroying any country or government. We shall ask in return no one attempt to destroy us and be happy to agree to stop fighting militarily once we are assured our freedom is no longer threatened."

Ky made his amnesty proposal in a speech devoted more to his "dream of a genuine social revolution" in South Viet Nam. He promised no retaliation on any Viet Cong who "come back safely and contribute to the task of rebuilding our nation." He said any who chose

DEATH TOLL SET AT 68 IN COLLISION OF SHIPS

MANILA (Reuters)—The death toll in a collision of two ships in Manila Bay rose to 68 today after the Philippine navy gave up hope of finding 21 missing passengers.

The missing persons are believed to have been trapped in cabins of the 778-ton inter-island passenger boat Pioneer Leye, which sank after being in a collision with the 7,583-ton American freighter Golden State.

A total of 161 persons were rescued after the ships collided shortly after midnight Sunday night. The Golden State had only minor damage.

7 CREWMEN MISSING

Flames Engulf Gasoline Tanker

MORGAN CITY, La. (AP)—

Flames raged out of control through a loaded oil-tanker 90 miles southwest of here today, forcing the crew to abandon ship. The U.S. Coast Guard said seven of the crew of 40 were missing.

The Gulfstar, a 572-foot vessel, was settling and believed sinking at mid-morning.

Another tanker, the Atlantic

Prestige, picked up 28 survivors, including Capt. Larry Larue. Two others were rescued by the Western Sun and seven were missing.

Larue said he believed the entire crew got off his burning ship. Most of the crew members were from Port Arthur, Tex., and sailed Sunday.

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter brought three badly burned sailors to a Morgan City hospital.

Coast guard planes, helicopters and cutters converged on the scene after the Gulfstar sent out an SOS distress signal, reporting a fire in its engine room and pump room.

Rescue ships were forced to keep their distance by the danger of an explosion. The Gulfstar was reported to be carrying 163,000 barrels of gasoline and intermediates.

Smoke and flames poured from the stricken vessel. The fire was believed to be feeding off bunker oil.

BLAKE: WHOSE SIDE WAS HE REALLY ON?

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto newspaperman claimed today that George Blake, British master spy who escaped from a London jail Saturday night, was in fact a double-double agent still in the pay of British intelligence even after he drew a 42-year sentence for spying.

Greek-born Philip Deane, who spent 33 months with Blake in a Korean prison camp, told a reporter he believes that Blake's trial, sentence and escape were all staged by British authorities to delude the Communists.

Extra Help To Education

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister L. B. Pearson today offered the provinces over $90 million more next year for higher education, with additional amounts to come in the years ahead.

He said the federal government is willing to pay half the operating costs of education plus all the costs of job training for adults, amounting to $100 million next year. Ottawa already pays most of the cost of training and retraining adults for technological change.

He also dropped a broad hint in his opening statement to the federal-provincial conference that his federal government will have to raise taxes to provide this support for education. "I feel bound to point out that the cost of this support for higher education must be carried by the taxpayers of Canada in one way or another — including the replacement of the revenue transferred," said the prime minister. A federal government spokesman stressed at the opening of this crucial summit meeting that finance minister Mitchell Sharp's declaration made last September still stands. Sharp said that if provinces want more money they will have to impose their own taxes to raise it.

Education Exception to Rule

He explained however that Mr. Sharp had made an exception in that statement at the tax structure committee meetings last month, to the question of education. "We regard education as having such a high priority and so vitally important that the federal government makes an exception and is prepared to offer the provinces additional funds from the federal treasury, funds that will probably have to be made up by additional taxes," said the federal spokesman.

The federal government proposes to transfer four percentage points of individual income tax revenue and 2.2 per cent corporation income tax to the provinces.

How To Measure Provincial Need

The federal government suggested that the expenditure needs of the provinces in the field of higher education would best be measured by totalling the operating expenditures of the post-secondary institutions in each province. This referred to the expenditures of universities, technical institutes and other post-secondary schools or colleges that arise from the training of students who have their senior matriculation.

The prime minister's statement was complicated in its proposed fiscal transfer to the provinces to assist them in meeting rising post-secondary education operating and capital costs. The provincial premiers were analyzing it to see just how much more money their respective provinces would stand to gain.

Premier Daniel Johnson is expected to challenge immediately the move made by federal government to pay the costs for adult training on the grounds that it did not come within the definition of "education" and therefore was not invading the province's jurisdiction. This new definition of "education" was laid down for constitutional purposes by the prime minister applies to students but does not apply to those who have been part of the labor force and return to class rooms to learn new skills.

Premiers Withhold Comment

The Quebec premier declined comment Sunday night. Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba could not be reached Sunday night and was reported arriving in Ottawa later in the evening. Premier W. A. C. Bennett and his group of experts were

Heavy Rains Flood Kitimat Business Area

KITIMAT (CP) — The Kitimat River, swollen by a week-end of torrential rain, flooded the low-lying business district in this northern community of 10,000 and severed nearby highways in at least three places early today.

At least 50 businesses were inches deep in water at the height of the early morning flooding. Six inches of water covered the lobby of the Gordon Hotel.

Six inches of rain fell during the weekend, but it stopped raining about 3 a.m. However, more showers are forecast for today.

The residential area, on high ground, escaped the flooding. The Aluminum Company of Canada plant, the town's main industry, also escaped and was operating even though the eight-mile road from the residential area to the smelter was under 18 inches of water at 7 a.m.

The community's only road link to the outside — Highway 25 to Terrace — was severed in two places.

Quebec Claims Challenged By PM on Eve of Meetings

By STAN McDOWELL
Special to the Times

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson directly challenged major Quebec constitutional claims in his advance statement to the federal-provincial conference opening here today.

First indications from the Quebec delegation were that the challenge, even though sweetened by cash which the province badly needs, would mean a fight.

Pearson's statement, issued on the eve of the conference, asserted the federal government's right to act in the fields of manpower, culture and research, all of which have been claimed by the Quebec government as matters of provincial jurisdiction.

At first glance provincial officials estimated that the federal government's plan to transfer funds unconditionally to the provinces to meet their educational needs would mean between $25 and $27 millions to Quebec in the next fiscal year.

This would be a substantial step toward the 45 million Quebec had asked for as the first instalment in a five-year step-by-step transfer of resources from Ottawa to Quebec which would total $225,000,000 by 1971-72.

The fact that the transfer of funds proposed by the federal government would be unconditional, even though dictated by the expanding needs of the provinces in education, is not known if this would soothe Quebec's constitutional scruples.

The federal claims staked in the fields of manpower, culture and research directly rebuff Quebec claims to exclusive jurisdiction in these fields.

Quebec ministers have made a point recently of including cultural affairs and research as inseparable parts of the educational field which belongs to the provinces under the British North America Act.

And the Union Nationale government of Premier Daniel Johnson, like the Jean Lesage government which it replaced last June, has also claimed the province as a field to which manpower is entitled and which it needs as the heartland of French-Canada.

Premier Johnson was closeted with his ministers and senior advisers in his Ottawa hotel suite Sunday night and refused any comment on Mr. Pearson's statement.

But sources close to the Quebec government said that the province could not accept the clear rebuff to its constitutional claims without a fight.

Students Riot Outside Hotel

MANILA (UPI)—Anti-American student mobs battled police in a wild, gunshot-punctuated melee today outside the hotel where President Johnson and other heads of government are staying during the Manila conference.

It was the worst outbreak of anti-U.S. sentiment the president has experienced during his Far East tour. The Asian students, about 3,000 in number with 400 or so actually participating in the riot, shouted "Johnson go home!" and called the president an "Asian butcher."

One student was wounded in the neck and police said later he was hit by shots from a homemade gun carried by another demonstrator. Other students and some of the 150 police officers who quelled the riot dripped blood as rocks, bottles and firecrackers were hurled through the air.

The demonstration took place on

SCOTLAND YARD SLEUTHS HUNT ESCAPEE

Master Spy 'Sprung' by Russians?

LONDON (UPI) — Speculation grew today that a super secret Russian organization operating under the very nose of British security officials had engineered the prison escape of master spy George Blake, the man who betrayed Britain's own spies to the Kremlin.

There was no comment from Scotland Yard on the reports but it placed a "discreet" watch on the Soviet embassy, on Russian ships in the Thames and on Iron Curtain planes leaving England.

Many thought Blake already had been spirited out of the country.

Press reports today said Blake was responsible for the death or imprisonment of at least 40 of Britain's most important foreign agents and that the number of lesser spies betrayed to the Kremlin may never be known.

A political storm descended on Prime Minister Wilson over the escape.

Conservative legislators served notice they will seek to censure the government for failing to keep Blake, a double agent, under closer wraps. Sentenced in 1961 to 42 years as the most dangerous spy of the post-war years, he was kept without special security in a jail from which eight escapes already had been made this year.

The Daily Sketch reported that escapes from British jails now are running at the rate of 10 a week. Three more prisoners, as yet unnamed, vanished today from London's Wandsworth jail, from which one of the Great Train Robbery gang got away two years ago.

Home Secretary Roy Jenkins announced today that Admiral of the Fleet Lord Mountbatten will head a committee of inquiry into security conditions in British prisons.

The Conservative Opposition protested at once against the government's refusal to name a special committee specifically tax and five points in corporate income tax.

B.C. GROWS RESTLESS

He also urged elimination of no-diffusion of equalization payments to the provinces tempered by an increase in federal-provincial shared-cost programs.

Mr. Bennett opened his special pleas for B.C. with a statement that his government feels Ottawa has been unfair in its past treatment of all sectors of the country and this has "compounded the problem" of provincial fiscal requirements.

PEOPLE RESTLESS

"The people of British Columbia are growing restless with the federal attitude and, on their behalf, I will point to examples of unfair treatment by our province by the government of Canada," he declared.

In a chapter headed provincial economic development, he continued the strongly-worded tone of introducing specific complaints.

"The province of British Columbia has progressed rapidly over the past decade but its people have become highly resentful of the government of Canada continuing to ignore their pleas for equal fiscal treatment," he said.

"I have pointed out many times in the past that any prosperity enjoyed by B.C. is more than shared with the rest of Canada."

ADDITIONAL BURDEN

"To place an additional burden on an industrious people by way of discriminatory treatment is certainly not in the national interest."

He said B.C. is entitled to federal assistance for its two-river power development program in view of Ottawa's help to the other provinces including:

- More than $77 million for the South Saskatchewan River dam project; $120 million financing for Manitoba's Nelson River project; $20 million for the New Brunswick Mactaquac hydro project; most of the $160 million for Quebec's nuclear power plant at Three Rivers; and $70 million a year towards Ontario's nuclear power program.

CORRECTION

Mr. Bennett — whose previous claim that the 11 per cent sales tax on hydro building materials was imposed by Ottawa after the Columbia River treaty's completion was denied last week by Mr. Pearson — amended his position with the statement:

"This tax measure was introduced in the final stages of negotiations on the Columbia River project and was never considered in determination of the costs in the agreement."

He said B.C. was not formally notified the new tax would apply to Columbia project materials so it "came as a great surprise" that they were not exempt.

However, after conceding the tax was introduced before the treaty was signed, Mr. Bennett escalated his estimate of the impact it made on provincial hydro costs.

NEW ESTIMATE

Previously, he said it added $30 million to the Columbia River project costs but in today's brief he said this burden was $100 million when calculating all the sales tax paid on both the Peace and Columbia projects and the extra interest because of larger borrowings to pay the tax.

"British Columbia would stress it is completely unjustifiable that the government of Canada should be enriched at the expense of crown provincial developments in British Columbia while other provinces enjoy substantial federal subsidies and assistance on similar projects," he added.

The premier also pointed out that the Pacific Great Eastern Railway does not receive grants similar to those having been given other developmental railways in the past.

He said that in 1955 Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent told the Commons that the federal government had rejected a B.C. request for a subsidy on a PGE extension but might reconsider later if the prospects for economic development appear sufficiently promising to warrant a federal subsidy.

"If 'sufficiently promising economic development' is to be the guide-line — surely the rapidly expanding economic base of the northern areas served by the (PGE) which is a fact now, not conjecture, justifies federal sharing in the construction cost of this railroad at this time," Mr. Bennett said.

Citing the rise of northern prosperity, he said between 1953 and 1963:

Prince George region's number of income taxpayers increased 168 per cent and their total income rose 282 per cent;

Peace River region's taxpayers rose 471 per cent and their combined returns increased 718 per cent;

By comparison, the overall provincial increases were 64 per cent in number of taxpayers and 141 per cent in their total income.

$19.7 MILLION DUE

Mr. Bennett demanded a $25,000-per-mile subsidy for past PGE extensions and said on this basis the federal government now owed the railway $19.7 million.

He also demanded operating subsidies similar to those paid the CNR and CPR to help cover wage bills.

Mr. Bennett also repeated his earlier request for a retroactive grant towards the cost of the Second Narrows bridge in Vancouver.

He wound up his brief by recalling that Liberal MPs have said Ottawa has $200 million available for B.C. if it is sought.

"The truth is, British Columbia has been asking for fair treatment and assistance with certain projects for its citizens over the years," he said.

"The government of Canada, however, has failed to recognize our requests and, at the same time, has continued to favor the other provinces with special treatment."

"It is time, Mr. Prime Minister, the government of Canada stopped overlooking British Columbia in its fiscal relations."

Airing Next Week On Proposed Treatment Centre

A proposed residential treatment centre for emotionally-disturbed and brain-damaged children in Saanich will go before a public hearing next week.

The centre is planned on a 25-acre site at 5575 West Saanich Road by Victoria psychiatrist Dr. Charles Gregory.

Also before the public hearing is a rezoning application by Ker and Stephenson for warehouse and retail use at Whittier Avenue and Ardiesier.

This has been mentioned as a possible site for a new Eaton's store following rejection of a bid for a warehouse and retail outlet behind Town and Country Shopping Centre.

Another item before the public hearing, tentatively scheduled for Wednesday Nov. 2 in the municipal hall, is a proposed commercial recreation development at the end of Meadowbrook Road near Killarney Lake.

This application went before an earlier public hearing but was adjourned.

Ouster Protested

PEKING (AP) — Thousands of Red Guards and other young people put on a massive demonstration outside the Soviet Embassy today, chanting slogans in protest against the Russian expulsion of Chinese students from the Soviet Union.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The pattern which established mild air over the province on the weekend is rapidly breaking down. The cloud cover broke open in the interior overnight while rain conditions in the north coast quickly ended as cooler air swept into this region.

This cooler air will continue eastward accompanied by a wide band of showers, and will pass through the lower mainland by noon today. Temperatures will be a little cooler Tuesday along the coast and much cooler in the interior.

ally to investigate Blake's escape:

Lord Mountbatten, 65, former chief of the British defence staff, is a cousin of the Queen.

The Daily Express said police were working on the theory that a section of Russian intelligence known as "the illegal apparatus" working independently of the Iron Curtain embassies had engineered the escape.

There were many clues — and all were baffling. There was the pot of pink chrysanthemums placed by the wall of Wormwood Scrubs prison at the exact spot where Blake went over the wall to a waiting car. There were the nylon ladder and the 20 grey knitting needles that reinforced it.

PREVIOUSLY ALOOF

There was the mysterious actions of Blake himself, a taciturn intellectual who held himself aloof from the other prisoners but suddenly turned gregarious Saturday before his escape and held animated conversations with his fellow inmates as they watched television during a "free period."

There also was the growing belief the Blake escape may have been connected in some way with the death of three Scotland Yard detectives who were shot one by one last Aug. 12 as they stopped to question a suspicious trio outside the prison where Blake was held.

Two men are in custody for the triple murder — John Duddy, 27, and John Edward Winney, 36. Police were expected to question them even more closely about their proximity to Wormwood Scrubs and to step up their search for Harry Maurice Roberts, a third suspect who is still at large.

Underworld sources said Blake's prison break might have been organized by an "escape committee" which, they said, organized the getaway of two of the men arrested for the Great Train Robbery of 1963.

This "escape committee" might have "offered" Blake to the Communist countries, the sources said.

CONVICTS QUESTIONED

The flying squad of Scotland Yard was reported questioning former convicts who might have known Blake in prison.

One of the former prisoners appeared on a television interview Sunday night and described the scene of the escape — a darkened landing inside the prison where long term prisoners could play cards of games or watch TV.

It was from this landing the window bars were mysteriously broken — not cut as previously reported. From there was an 18-foot drop to the pavement below. Then a prison yard and the prison wall.

The prison break was audacious. It was, fellow prisoners said, out of character for Blake. It obviously was carried out with the help of accomplices.

might be prepared to comment later Monday.

Under the proposals Quebec stands to gain the largest amount by the fiscal transfers, equalization payments plus "phase out" of vocational capital grants.

Quebec's share will be $127,054,000; Ontario, $100,582,000; Manitoba, $18,594,000; Alberta will get $20,958,000; Saskatchewan, $20,510,000.

the provinces varies to such an extent.

A tax structure committee has been working in preparation for this federal-provincial conference for several months. It is regarded as one of the most critical summit conferences ever to be convened in Ottawa coming as it does on the eve of this country celebrating its one hundred birthday.

Statements made at the tax structure committee meetings last month by Premier Johnson of Quebec aroused concern. He suggested his French-speaking province might eventually decide to break away from confederation if it did not get 100 per cent of the income tax revenues and 100 per cent of the corporation tax.

As a result the additional amount the provinces will gain is approximately $38,974,000.

Federal officials said they could provide no breakdown on a per province basis of this $30 million figure because the expenditures on adult training in the provinces varies to such an extent.

At those meetings all premiers complained that the soaring costs of providing services to their citizens were imposing such financial burdens on their provincial treasuries that they needed much more money from Ottawa. They emphasized that educational costs were climbing steadily.

Premier Johnson has warned that if he does not get substantial sums from the federal treasury he will be forced into "double taxation" for Quebecers.

Premier Roblin of Manitoba declared that Finance Minister Sharp's new equalization formula as set out in September might force him into imposing a sales tax.

The federal government now pays $5-per head of provincial populations for university operating costs and shares with the provinces the technical and vocational training.

These programs are costing the federal treasury about $270 million for the year 1966-67, excluding the amount attributable to adult training.

Impaired Drivers Follow Pattern; So Do Penalties

Two Victoria men were sentenced in central court today on parallel charges of impaired driving.

Steven Force of 1568 Brooke Street and Joseph Kovacs of 1710 Fort Street pleaded guilty to driving while impaired at 12:30 a.m. Sunday. Both were fined $400 and had their licences suspended for four months except for business purposes on weekdays.

Force was arrested when he ran two red lights on Quadra Street and ended up on a Blanshard Street sidewalk police told the court.

He gave a false name to police at the time.

Kovacs ran a red light at Pandora and Blanshard and when apprehended a breathalyzer examination revealed an alcohol content of .21 per cent.

THREE NATION PEACE CALL

NEW DELHI (CP)—The government chiefs of India, Yugoslavia and the United Arab Republic called today for an immediate halt to the American bombing of North Viet Nam "without any pre-conditions" and the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Viet Nam.

In their closing communique, the leaders of the three non-aligned countries also said participation of the Viet Cong in any peace talks was essential for the talks to be successful.

The communique was issued by Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and Presidents Tito and Gamal Abdel Nasser after four days of talks.

THATCHER 'GRATEFUL' BENNETT NOT

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Ross Thatcher said today he was delighted and grateful at the provisions contained in the federal brief to be presented today to the Dominion-provincial fiscal conference.

Mr. Thatcher said the federal brief, under which the federal government makes a radical change in education aid to the provinces, required more study.

"But initially my reaction is pretty favorable. I'm a bit grateful."

The B.C. delegation has made no official comment. But it is known that Premier Bennett is unhappy.

Education Minister Peterson of B.C. would only say there was much in the brief to evaluate.

INQUEST AT ABERFAN

'Children Murdered' Bitter Parents Cry

ABERFAN CABLE:

'All Safe' ... Writing' Says Cable

All safe! These glad words were flashed to Victoria today in a cable from the ill-fated village of Aberfan, South Wales.

They were shared by five Victoria residents who had waited anxiously all through the weekend for news of relatives in the area.

"It seems like a miracle," said Mrs. H. V. Green, 6509 Old West Saanich Road, who received the cable from her cousin, Mrs. Brown Jones of Aberfan.

"All safe — writing," was the dramatic message. Mrs. Jones lives close by the Pantglas school at Aberfan, which was buried in a black avalanche of coal slag and slime last Friday.

"IN THICK OF IT" "Knowing my cousin, I'm sure she has been in the thick of the rescue operations," Mrs. Green said.

Mrs. Green is one of five Victoria residents — all members of the same family — who attended the school at Aberfan before they came to Canada.

The others are: Her brothers, Reginald Powell, 1135 McKenzie, and Edmund Powell, 4481 Markham Road; her sister, Mrs. G. H. Smith, 4551 Markham Road; and their nephew, Anthony Searle, 983 Cloverdale.

"We have aunts, uncles, cousins, nephews and nieces living in Aberfan," Mrs. Green said. "It seems a miracle they have all escaped."

Victoria residents of Welsh ancestry have started a fund to aid the villagers of Aberfan, South Wales.

Victor Williams, past president of Victoria Cymrodorian (Welsh) Society, announced the opening of the fund Saturday.

"We are hoping for a generous response," said Mrs. Phyllis Hill, president of the society, who comes from Cilfynydd, about 15 miles from Aberfan.

Welsh residents of other towns and cities across Canada, including Vancouver, have also launched appeals.

ABERFAN, Wales (CP)—Bereaved parents, shouting "They killed our children", brought uproar today to an inquest for young victims of the coal slag avalanche that buried Aberfan's village school.

A man whose wife and two sons died in Friday's "black glacier" told the coroner to record a verdict of "buried alive by the National Coal Board."

The board, which runs Britain's state-owned mines, has been accused of neglect in allowing the giant slag heap to grow to the point where it collapsed, with the feared loss of 200 lives.

To date, 143 bodies have been recovered, all but a few of them children.

Sixty parents were present at the inquest for the first 34 victims identified. In the uproar, women called out: "They killed our children." Coroner Benjamin Hamilton tried to calm the distraught mothers and fathers by saying: "I know your grief is such that you may not realize what you are saying."

He reminded the parents that an inquiry will be held at a later date when you will be able to voice your grievances.

One father, his face twisted in sorrow, replied: "We had an inquiry on Friday night when we stood and saw our children murdered."

LARGE floral wreath in memory of fallen comrades was placed at Victoria Cenotaph Sunday afternoon by Imre Klima and Miklos Kovacs to commemorate 10th anniversary of the Hungarian uprising in Budapest. Nearly 400 Hungarians and sympathetic local citizens attended.

CENOTAPH CEREMONY

Hungarian Rebels Recall Fight With Soviet Tanks

Hundreds of Victoria's Hungarian residents paraded to the Cenotaph Sunday afternoon to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the Hungarian uprising against Communist rule. Many had taken part in the revolution which began in Budapest at about 3 p.m. on Oct. 23, 1956. The revolutionaries demanded the withdrawal of Russian troops and the right to hold free elections, but were crushed by Soviet troops and tanks.

In a solemn tribute to thousands of their countrymen who died in the uprising, Victoria's Hungarian residents formed a procession of 100 cars at the Mayfair Shopping Centre at the anniversary hour of 3 p.m.

The procession travelled along Douglas Street to Beacon Hill Park and up Government Street to the Legislative Buildings where a wreath was placed at the foot of the Cenotaph by Imre Klima and Miklos Kovacs.

DEAD HONORED The wreath bore two inscriptions: Remember Hungary 1956-66 and In Memory of Those Who Died for Our Freedom.

Geza Benko, a native of Budapest who has lived in Victoria since 1956, gave the memorial address.

"We have to remind the world that the aims of the revolution are still as far from being fulfilled as they were 10 years ago."

"Those 20,000 men, women and children who died could not free their country from the terrors of Communism. They could only free themselves from the misery of life under dictatorship; and give freedom to 20,000 of their fellow countrymen who poured out of Hungary, full of bitterness, sorrow and tears."

SAME PURPOSE Mr. Benko said many people had asked him why Hungarians should commemorate the revolution at the war memorials of Canadian soldiers.

"I think there is no more appropriate place to remember our heroes. They were fighting at different places, at different times, but for the same purpose.

"The Canadian soldier and the Hungarian people were both fighting for the dignity and freedom of the human race; for the happiness and safety of the family home, and for the love of God and country."

"Can you imagine what would happen if a Canadian prime minister, say Mr. Lester Pearson, were taken out of the country and executed by a foreign power?"

"This is what happened in Hungary. The guilt of our prime minister, Imre Nagy, was that he represented his people's desire that the Russian Army should be withdrawn from Hungary."

After the Cenotaph ceremony, 200 Hungarians met in the White Eagle (Polish) Hall to discuss ways and means of forming a Hungarian organization in Victoria.

Red Troops 'Hidden' As Uprising Recalled

VIENNA, Austria. (Reuters)—Soviet soldiers were kept out of sight in Hungary Sunday as the country quietly remembered the 10th anniversary of the bloody 1956 revolution in which more than 20,000 Hungarians were killed.

Elements of the Red army, stationed in Hungary within the Warsaw pact agreement and believed to number 50,000, were confined to barracks.

It was the same army that suppressed the uprising 10 years ago after tens of thousands of Hungarian workers and students overthrew the Communist government and forced the Soviet Union to promise withdrawal of its forces.

the Communist life would be allowed to go and live in North Viet Nam.

For once Ky made no mention of victory and called only for "peace with honor."

CIVILIAN GOVERNMENT He said he wanted full democracy with civilian government for his country and promised to co-operate with other Asian states in building a new Asia.

President Chung Hee Park of South Korea said a military victory is the best way of achieving peace in Viet Nam.

Speaking during the afternoon session, he made it clear he was speaking as the representative of the "hard line" in the Viet Nam War.

Park asked that all countries participating on the U.S.-Saigon side in the conflict be fully consulted on all questions or initiatives.

Park said Viet Nam is the responsibility of all nations of the "free world."

South Korea's contribution in manpower to the Viet Nam conflict is, in proportion to population, the largest of all allies involved in the war at the side of the Saigon regime, he said.

He came out strongly against any recognition of the Viet Cong as a party in peace negotiations. Peace would be restored in Viet Nam only after "aggression" had ceased.

Meanwhile, it was learned that a new build-up of allied troops in Viet Nam will likely be one of immediate results of the conference.

"Although billed as "peace" conference, the summit is considering military requests for more troops within the next year.

Reason for it is that in spite of continued bombing of northern supply lines, more and more Communist troops are pouring into the south through Laos and across the demilitarized zone.

More troops are also needed to take part in pacification projects — keeping areas cleared of Viet Cong "secure."

Sources here who have seen the military reports say "an across-the-board increase" will be required.

No figures were given.

MANILA CONFERENCE

The reports also say that any build-up will have to come from the allied nations and not from the South Vietnamese themselves.

No mention of a new build up as made in the published version of a report given the summit meeting today by U.S. general William Westmoreland, the Viet Nam commander.

However he did say "the war in Viet Nam is far from over."

Miners Trapped BOGOTA (Reuters)—At least 50 miners were reported trapped underground today after an explosion rocked a coal mine about 150 miles northwest of Colombia's capital. An unconfirmed report said up to 200 miners were trapped below ground at the mine in Samaca, in Boyaca.

Protest Harassment GRENADA, Miss. (UPI)—Police arrested about 200 chanting and singing Negro students today as they demonstrated outside two recently integrated schools to protest alleged harassment by white students.

FOR PROPELLOR REPAIRS

Russian Trawler at Neah Bay

SEATTLE (AP)—A disabled Russian fishing trawler is at anchor two miles off Neah Bay for propeller repairs by divers from a Soviet salvage tug.

The 134-foot trawler Azimut and the 201-foot tug Dekabrist were escorted into the Strait of Juan de Fuca Sunday by the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Winona.

The coast guard said the cutter Henelope from Port Townsend, Wash., would maintain surveillance of the two vessels during the repairs, expected to take two days. The Russians will not be allowed ashore.

The captain of the tug, identified only as Kurbatov, radioed Saturday night from 26 miles southwest of Cape Flattery asking to be allowed to bring the Azimut into protected waters for the repairs. The U.S. State Department approved the request Sunday.

The trawler lost the propeller in recent storms while operating with the Soviet fishing fleet off the Pacific Northwest.

Australia's Cross-Roads

ONE OF THE CURIOUS EFFECTS of President Johnson's visit to Australia—aside from greatly enhancing his political image at home—has been the schizophrenic after-effect on the Commonwealth nation down under.

This has been described by some correspondents as a hangover as Australians, and to some extent New Zealanders as well, asked themselves what it would mean to them to become more closely involved in the war in Viet Nam and the president's Asian version of the Great Society.

Mr. Johnson pushed strongly for closer links between the United States and Australia. He spoke of the Second World War days, when hundreds of thousands of American servicemen were stationed in Australia, and of the 10,000 Australian war brides now living in the United States. And he wanted Australia to look on itself as a "have" nation with a responsibility for joining the United States in a spending campaign to bring prosperity to Asia.

The president's reception was enthusiastic; he drew the greatest crowds ever assembled for a visitor to the country. But now that he has gone questions are being asked as to just what it all meant. Prime Minister Harold Holt told his people that now that the mother country is withdrawing as a Far East power Australia must look elsewhere for its defence. But this comes hard on a people who are the most strongly Anglophilic in the Commonwealth. The Canberra Times cautioned in an editorial that despite Mr. Johnson's blandishments Australia must be careful not to lose her identity. "As Canadians know better than we," the paper said, "there are problems living in the shadow of a giant."

The Sydney Morning Herald stated that Australians have been taken aback by the way the president has "taken it for granted that Australia is part of the new Asia and it must come to us for help." Well they might be, for Australia's ties, despite geography, have always been with Europe and its immigration policies have been firmly designed to keep out Asians and thus to avoid Asian involvement.

Even without the Johnson visit, which merely dramatized the fact, Australians have recognized that they are now at a crossroads in their history. The election campaign which culminates November 26 has been much concerned with the rapid increase in American investment, the growing commitment to what the opposition calls "America's war" in Viet Nam, and to Australia's role in an Asia which the United States is apparently determined to dominate. Prime Minister Holt is an "all the way with LBJ" man and reportedly considered the president's visit as a strong boost for his reelection.

But after the excitement has died down there is always the possibility of a reversal. Australia's familiar ties with Britain are still strong. Inextricably linking her destiny with that of the United States, as well as plunging headlong into Asian affairs, may not be as popular as the heady excitement of the Johnson visit seemed to indicate.

A Vital Search

THE SUCCESSFUL COMPLETION of management-labor negotiations is a matter demanding tact, understanding and a large degree of co-operation from both sides. This is true at any time; it is particularly fundamental during a period of rapid technological change, such as the world is experiencing today.

In establishing a task force six weeks ago to tackle this problem, Prime Minister Pearson called for a complete re-examination of industrial relations and the mechanism for dealing with industrial disputes in this country. The commission is not likely to solve the whole problem, but there is hope that it can contribute to a forward step in this major national question.

Productivity must in the end be the criterion of wages or any other form of return from human endeavor. When the means of production are changing drastically almost overnight, when new processes and techniques send production zooming in terms of man-hours, then the worker reasonably demands a share of the increased returns. But technological advance does not take place uniformly throughout industry and commerce. Some processes are readily adaptable to increased output through the use of automated machinery, computers and other scientific aids. Other processes are limited in this regard and may, indeed, show no prospect of increased productivity.

The catch, of course, lies in the fact that the workers in both fields of industry must live in the same world, compete for the same supply of goods and services, and maintain their social lives in interlocking communities. And the natural demand of the workers in less productive manufacturing fields is to keep up with the standard of living of those in areas of increasing unit production.

It is here that the inflationary effect of wages is felt, for where an increase in wages is not matched by an increase in production, the net effect must be a tendency to higher prices. That is an economic law, not a quirk of management or government.

The result is that modern society is now faced with the task of finding a better way to equate production and its returns and human need, a less wasteful way of arriving at agreement between labor and management on a fair return for work done. It is a tall order, but it is an urgent one, worthy of a major effort by all concerned.

Sooner or later there must be a break-through in the problem—just as there must be a break-through in the search for a means to abolish war as a settlement of international disputes. The commission under McGill University's Dean H. D. Woods could well prove to be one of the most important bodies appointed by this country.

Two Questions To Answer

AS THE ANNUAL CAMPAIGN of the United Appeal goes into its final days with approximately half of its collection reported, the people of this community—from Sooke to Sidney—should give full thought to the importance of the drive.

The principle of the United Appeal has been adopted in many communities across this continent. Through a concerted effort of volunteers, a number of worthy agencies are able to make their bid for public support for the coming year. These agencies range through the direct charities to those which give counselling services, help in finding adoption and foster homes, in caring for the sick or impoverished, in assisting our youth, our aged, our needs and our recreations.

No element of the community fails to feel the benefits of the United Appeal resources; no part of our population would fail to feel the effects of a breakdown in these services.

It is not a matter of leaving it to the government. Basic human requirements are looked after through public funds, but there is clearly a place for the exercise of individual generosity and the freedom of action that personal participation brings. The question is not merely: what will the community be like with these services. There is also the important question: what would this community be like without these services.

If each individual faces these two questions conscientiously, there should be no fear that the objective of the United Appeal will not be met.

Small Powers May Imperil a Nuclear Ban

By WILLIAM R. FRYE

A wave of optimism is spreading through the UN over prospects of Soviet-American agreement on a treaty to bar the spread of nuclear weapons. At very long last, it is believed, there may really be a genuine prospect of looking and bolting the doors of the nuclear club.

Frye

Whether the optimism is fully justified is hard to determine. Informed diplomatic sources say the principal reasons behind it are these: 1. The United States is processing through the top levels of government a new draft of key treaty language which would make clear that under the proposed regime West Germany would not be allowed a "hardware" solution to its nuclear-sharing ambitions, but would be restricted to a "software" in "collective nuclear defence" (in United States delegate Arthur J. Goldberg's phrase).

This has been a critical point in Soviet eyes. If finally cleared, and approved by the NATO council in Paris in December, this new American policy would bury for good the so-called multilateral and Atlantic nuclear forces in which West German personnel were to have participated in handling nuclear weapons.

The "McNamara solution"—a standing NATO committee to plan strategy—would displace "hardware" solutions.

The Russians, having been alerted to this possibility, have responded encouragingly and are correspondingly reviewing their policy, it is said.

Leaders Talk

2. Two meetings between United States Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko this fall, followed by a session between Gromyko and president Johnson, encouraged both sides to think the other was serious about a treaty.

Specifically, the United States got the impression Russia would be willing to sign despite the Viet Nam war.

In between the Rusk-Gromyko and Johnson-Gromyko talks, William C. Foster, director of the United States disarmament agency, and A. A. Roschin, Soviet disarmament negotiator, had a series of unpublished working sessions. More are expected.

Goldberg described these private negotiations as "businesslike" and "promising."

3. Western sources believe Russia has awakened to the fact that if India, Pakistan, the United Arab Republic, Israel and Sweden—among others—get the bomb, the pressures on Germany to go nuclear too will become virtually irresistible, and the long-range threat to Russia's security which Moscow so greatly fears will have been increased.

4. The Russians have hinted to British disarmament negotiator Lord Chalfont that they may at last be prepared to let their seismologists sit down with Western experts and discuss technical possibilities of detecting and identifying underground nuclear tests.

Disagreement on whether it is technically possible to identify such tests mechanically at a distance has held up a comprehensive test-ban treaty. The United States contends on-site inspections are needed.

Whether all this adds up to enough encouragement to justify current optimism is disputed here.

There are, it is acknowledged, at least two major obstacles to a non-proliferation agreement still remaining: rivalry between the two Germanies, and a potential "revolt" by small powers which, under the treaty, would be permanently barred from joining the nuclear "club."

Inspection

Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany have offered to place their nuclear reactors under inspection and control by the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) if West Germany and other non-nuclear NATO countries will do the same. Such inspection would be an important part of a treaty.

West Germany, however, has balked because East Germany insists on being admitted to IAEA as part of the deal, thus winning international recognition.

The possibility of a small-power "revolt" against freezing the great-power nuclear monopoly is also worrying diplomats.

Many small powers have been insisting that the atomic "five" be required to reduce or eliminate their stockpiles, under inspection, if the rest of the world is to forego the right to make bombs.

In Small Powers' Interest

Both Russia and the United States are arguing with them that their security will be reduced, not enhanced, by going nuclear; that the danger of war will be increased; and that therefore they will be doing themselves, not the big powers, a favor if they agree to a self-denying ordinance.

Not all the small powers buy this thesis. If they do insist on restricting the big five, there clearly will not be a non-proliferation treaty—because Russia is still firmly opposed to the inspection that would accompany the kind of measures the small powers are asking.

Nor is Red China considered likely to accept restrictions in any circumstances.

A Note of Independence Among Marxists

By CHARLES BARTLETT

A noteworthy independence of spirit is being exhibited by the Asian Communist leaders who have recently broken their close ties with Peking and decline now to be led by the Soviet Union into a formal league against Red China.

The Kremlin has been anxious since Khrushchev's time to convene Communist leaders in an international assembly to condemn the Red Chinese for their sins against the solidarity of the proletariat. This had seemed to be the moment. Indignation against Mao Tse-tung's policies is running high among Communists.

Nationalistic Mood

But a new mood, a nationalistic disinclination to be dominated by any Communist power, has arisen. Disillusioned first by the Soviet Union and now by the People's Republic of China, small fry Communists in Asia are asserting their right to be equal partners in the socialist camp. They refuse to join the Soviets in an anti-Chinese club because they sense that they can work the split to better advantage.

Kim Il-sung chairman of the North Korean Workers' Party, put the new mood boldly at a party conference on October 5. "Should anyone ask us what side we are on," he said, "we would answer that we are on the side of Marxism-Leninism, on the side of the revolution."

Kim went on to maintain there must be equality among the fraternal parties and a recognition that their policies cannot be the same, because their revolutionary tasks are different. Each national party, whether it be Cuban or North Vietnamese, should be left to work out its own destiny with the blessing and support of all the other socialist nations.

The North Korean's precept that all socialist nations are equal in the socialist camp is an echo of the theme that Khrushchev rejected in crushing the Hungarian revolt ten years ago. This philosophy, enunciated then by Imre Nagy, stirred the uprisings of October 23, 1956.

"The situation today is different from the days gone by when the Soviet Union was making revolution all alone," Kim declared in outlining a doctrine that no Communist country should poke its nose into the internal affairs of another.

Japanese Shift

The Japanese Communists, more mealy-mouthed toward Peking until recently than any ally except the Albanians, have quickly caught the spirit. The party in Japan was being hurt by the policies in Peking and so the Japanese have cut loose. Relations are now so bitter that Japanese students studying in Peking were beaten two weeks ago by Red Guards.

The Albanians have stayed silent in the emergence of the Red Guards but their failure in recent weeks to flatter the Chinese with their usual Yahoo chorus has raised suspicions that they are manoeuvring to accomplish the transition that will leave them as independent of Peking as they are already of Moscow.

The implications of this de-polarization are enormous. The dissolution of the Communist bloc into an aggregation of states united only by their mutual embrace of Marxism is a long step away from the unity which Khrushchev described in 1958 as an "inalienable condition" for achieving Communist domination of the world. But such a dissolution may well develop after the Vietnamese war is settled.

Kim's proposals for equality, flexibility, and tolerance among Communist nations is a realistic response to the inability of these nations to agree upon a future course. Asian Communists do not want European Communists to negotiate peace with the West because the United States can then focus more pressure upon Asia. But the European Commun-

Letters

The Perpetual Borrower?

Some days ago you published a letter from me in which I sought to project the Canadian image in a discussion of integration and unification in off-armed forces.

As a result of its publication I received an interesting letter from retired Admiral Landmore which closed with the following paragraph:

"We have a democratic way of life—borrowed from the British. We have a judicial system borrowed from the British. Our Protestant churches borrowed quite a lot from the British, which you would know if you are of the Protestant faith. Surely it's not a sin to borrow a little from the military, too!"

The former admiral can doubtless support his references to borrowing, which are not in dispute. But how long shall Canadians continue to borrow? How long should they wait before they stand on their own two feet as Canadians? — Tom Skelton, 4068 Grange.

Like a Sinking Star

Isn't it refreshing to read of people like Karl Darwin, who hopes to sail to Montreal, via Panama, in his 27-foot boat? It reminds us that there always were, and still are, folks who must climb mountains, shoot rapids, and sail oceans in small boats.

And isn't it depressing to read the stuff written by your Terry Izzard, who, if he had his way, would soon put a stop to such goings-on. Unless, of course, the participants were wealthy enough to own a 100 footer, with crew and all.

These adventures are following a great tradition, in the wake of hundreds of others, from Slocum to Guzzwell, who, you may recall, sailed around the world in a home-built boat much smaller than Darwin's. Shame on you, Mr. Izzard. No doubt you would have stopped Captain Voss and his Tillicum, too.

Leave them alone. If you don't like what they are doing, you don't have to go. There are few areas of individual freedom and independence remaining. One of them is going to sea in your own boat, to use your knowledge, skill, and courage, to be a man for a while.

Good luck to the adventurers. I hope they make it, and if they don't... they are doing what they want to do. — Donald W. Gladman, Maple Bay, B.C.

Simple and Painless Giving

Our local United Appeal canvasser has just left, and I was surprised to hear from her that we are the only family she has ever canvassed who, not being on a payroll, have our contribution deducted monthly from our bank account. Perhaps contributors and canvassers alike do not realize how very simple and painless it is to give one, two, three or more dollars a month to the Chest, and yet that is little enough when shared among over 20 agencies.

This method of contributing also gives the satisfaction of giving far more than a family could afford at any one time—and the receipt looks wonderful among the income tax deductions.—E. M. C.

Weak Team

Montreal Le Devoir

The convention that brought 2,000 Liberals together in Ottawa was, from many points of view, a remarkable success...

The delegates participated in large numbers at the study sessions; the quality of debates often reached a very high level; demagoguery was avoided.

Another, interesting fact: the democratic character of the work... At no time was it felt the weight of an invisible authority was being imposed...

From the point of view of participation, two facts attracted attention: the very active role of delegates from the West and the feeble participation of delegates from Quebec.

The intervention of our representatives in the debates... was thin and marginal. There are several possible explanations. Here are ours:

1. The Quebec parliamentary group, around which participation of Quebec delegates would normally have been organized, was without leadership. Ailing Mr. Guy Favreau, the official leader, apparently had not delegated his responsibilities to any of his colleagues...

2. In addition, an unfortunate incident occurred at the very start of the convention... Visibly angered by a questionable interpretation which the party hierarchy had given Monday to a compromise reached several days earlier on medical care (a compromise to which he had given his consent), the minister of Immigration (Jean Marchand) decided to remain in his hotel room for almost two days. Rumors of his resignation were heard through the corridors of the Chateau Laurier. Net result: The morale of Quebec delegates was seriously affected.

Back Looking

From The Times of Oct. 24, 1966:

OTTAWA — Hon. Wm. Pugsley, attorney-general of New Brunswick, back in St. John from the provincial conference, said it was the evident desire of all members to come to such conclusions as would be satisfactory and just to the provinces. It was a matter of regret that it was not possible to make a recommendation to the complete satisfaction of the Premier of British Columbia, but the conference felt they could not advise a larger amount, although there were exceptional conditions attached to that province.

The implications of this de-polarization are enormous. The dissolution of the Communist bloc into an aggregation of states united only by their mutual embrace of Marxism is a long step away from the unity which Khrushchev described in 1958 as an "inalienable condition" for achieving Communist domination of the world. But such a dissolution may well develop after the Vietnamese war is settled.

NOT TOO MUCH MUSCLE BEHIND CHINESE FIST

By CONRAD FINK

Does China really enjoy overwhelming economic and military odds on the Asian scene? Statistically, the odds already are against China and are getting worse.

Non-Communist nations of Asia today are potentially strong enough in total population, armed forces and economic power to counter-balance China.

But there is a flaw in all this that prevents statistical theories from being transformed into military and economic realities — the non-Communist nations along China's periphery have not shown the will to band together.

The statistics which, despite their unreality, must worry Peking give this picture:

1. China has a population of more than 700,000,000. Asian nations that would be threatened by any spreading of Peking's influence weigh in collectively at more than 1,000,000,000.

2. China can field upwards of 3,000,000 men in its regular armed forces. Non-Communist Asia today has more than 3,700,000 under arms, but some of the forces are of dubious value.

3. China has an economic-industrial machine which, although it can manufacture nuclear devices, has trouble feeding its people. Japan alone outstrips Chinese industry and the rest of non-Communist Asia possesses natural resources which if developed could make China look more of a pauper.

Low Income

4. China can provide its people with little more than a $100 annual per-capita income. Even South Korea — at $104 — does better than that. The Philippines, currently in economic trouble, boasts of $157.

Among developments working for China:

1. An effort to fashion a joint India-Pakistan bulwark on China's southwest flank dissolved last year with a new eruption of centuries-old south Asian hatreds in a three-week war.

2. India, preoccupied at

home with critical economic and political problems, refuses any "big brother" role in Southeast Asia. There is serious doubt in Asia that India is strong enough or has the prestige to assume a leader's role even if it wanted to.

3. Japan, sometimes described as a military leader in Asia, is mostly interested in business profits and shuns deep involvement in Asian politics.

How much muscle is behind the Chinese fist?

Japanese economists estimate that with good luck China might rack up a five-to-seven per-cent annual economic growth rate during the next 20 years. But a population increase of more than two per cent annually, they estimate, would eat up much of the gains and leave China at the end of the 20 years with about the same per-capita annual income as the Soviet Union had in the dreary 1930s.

Advances Negated

And even if the Chinese spend the next 20 years in an all-out drive for nuclear missiles, anti-missile technology in other nations, primarily the United States, would improve so much that any Chinese advances might be negated.

The awesome estimates of China's military potential sometimes frighten China's neighbors. India, which in 1962 got a bloody taste of China's powerful land army, lives in dread of Chinese pouring southward through the Himalayas.

China has its military problems:

1. The Soviet border, for years guarded by Sino-Soviet friendship banners, now is manned by thousands of troops.

2. An estimated 15 divisions are stationed in Tibet to watch the Indian frontier. Another huge contingent is far away facing the Formosa Strait and the strong Nationalist China regime. Still other troops are in the distant north, on the Manchurian frontier with Korea.

Weak Air Force

As for China's air force, some experts feel it has only a few obsolete Soviet-built medium bombers, with 20 or so submarines, a few destroyers and some smaller craft forming its nucleus of power.

There are reports China is working on, or already possesses, medium-range missiles and perhaps has a few submarines capable of firing missiles. But China does not have an air arm capable of effectively delivering nuclear weapons over vast distances.

China's navy is fourth-rate by most standards, with 20 or so submarines, a few destroyers and some smaller craft forming its nucleus of power. Some Asians regard the current political upheaval in China as more than an ideological cleansing ordered by Mao Tse-tung. They hope it is proof that China has encountered serious internal difficulties that would limit its appetite for directly entering the Viet Nam war or other Asian quarrels.

World Government Now! Art Makes Its Own Freedom

A Practical Demand or Idealistic Fantasy?

World Federalists of Canada believe that the grave dangers to mankind inherent under the present system of international nuclear deterrence demand vigorous and immediate action to achieve the rule of law in the world through the establishment of a limited form of world federal government.

Although the dangers cannot be precisely evaluated, the magnitude of the threatened nuclear catastrophe is such that the elimination of these dangers demands the highest priority among mankind's concerns. There is every evidence that the government of Canada shares these views.

Minister of External Affairs Paul Martin, while addressing the Midwest Regional Conference of Attorneys General in Detroit, on December 6, 1965, said:

"The security of any part of the world must, in the present day, be considered as an international objective which can be realized only by the achievement of a strong and stable international legal order."

Must Recognize National Interests

"In working toward this legal order, we must recognize the conflict of national interest, however. Even if we leave out of the question major ideological disagreements or conflicts of interest at the level of the few big powers, the differences in outlook, in background, in economic interest and in power among most nations are formidable."

"They can be overcome only by the unending effort of nations dedicated to the ideals of a world community and the rule of law."

Later in the same speech, Mr. Martin said:

"The measures taken to preserve and give more adequate expression to old friendships, the common commitment to principles and interests among allies extending far beyond national boundaries and the determination of states large and small to implement the provisions of the United Nations Charter are evidence of the strength of this conviction. We have begun to develop additional loyalties and to create new realms for the activities of man and his search for peace, security and freedom."

Then in an address to the World Veterans Federation on May 1, 1966, Prime Minister Pearson stated:

"Those principles, on which action and policy for the protection of peace and the prevention of war must be based, require the subordination of national policy to international imperatives — including the ultimate one of survival itself."

"They require the full recognition of the inter-dependence of all peoples as something having priority over the sovereignty of each state. They require the acceptance of the necessity of collective action for collective security; the recognition that no nation, not even the most powerful, can guarantee its own security, let alone the security of others, by its own strength."

Foolish, Archaic In Nuclear Age

"To fall back on nationalist policies and national organization for defence and security in the nuclear and jet age, is as foolish and archaic as a cavalry charge against a tank armed with a nuclear cannon."

But it is not sufficient to merely observe on the world's present perilous dilemma, or suggest the need for peace and security through international arrangements. The time has come for political leaders to translate their beliefs in world government and the rule of law into concrete and meaningful proposals.

Short of a catastrophic nuclear conflict which would provide a compelling demonstration of the folly of relying upon outmoded national approaches to world peace and security, man is unlikely to move closer to a world rule of law unless a major program is launched to determine the nature of world institutions necessary for the maintenance of world peace and how they may best be achieved.

World Federalists of Canada believe that Canada is one of the few nations qualified and able to embark upon a major program to advance world peace through the rule of law. We consider the following factors to be relevant to this view:

(1) Canada, through its participation in all United Nations peacekeeping operations and its close association with other nations — particularly its Commonwealth ties — is in a strong position to encourage other nations to support the rule of law through a limited form of world government;

(2) Widespread support for

The World Federalists of Canada, a national organization with an active branch in Victoria, last week presented a brief to the Canadian government outlining a proposal to make world federation a cornerstone of Canadian policy.

This would not be a policy of acceptance of world federation at some time in the remote future but of actively fostering the idea now as the best hope for preventing a drift into nuclear catastrophe.

In a world driven by ideological and nationalistic rivalries, the plan may seem unrealistic. But the World Federalists point out that significant progress has been made in this century toward a world rule of law and that there is a foundation to build on.

this program exists among all sections of the Canadian population, and among all political parties; and

(3) Official, academic and other intellectual resources in Canada are adequate for a thorough study of world peacekeeping institutions and the best approach to their attainment.

While many persons regard the task of achieving world government as too momentous, and its ultimate estab-

LESTER B. PEARSON

ishment too remote, it should be remembered that the peoples and nations of the world have made significant progress toward world order since the establishment of the League of Nations in 1920.

While the League was largely a western club and ultimately a failure it was nevertheless a start in man's journey toward a governed world. The United Nations is a much stronger organization. Since its founding 21 years ago it has grown toward universality (from 50 to 121 nations) and it has helped maintain today's uneasy peace.

The UN is now of course experiencing difficult circumstances, but present difficulties are not unrelated to several defects inherent in the UN Charter. These defects are becoming increasingly apparent as the UN seeks to reconcile its purpose with the realities of our contemporary world — a world moving ominously toward nuclear anarchy.

As recently pointed out by Lord Chalfont, Britain's Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, "... events simply will not stand still." This is the turning point, and perhaps the point of no return. The time to begin correcting the shortcomings of our present UN, and thus to provide nations with the security so essential to progress toward genuine disarmament, is now.

Crucial Failure Could Be Result

World Federalists of Canada therefore believe it is imperative to launch a comprehensive program to accelerate progress toward world law and order. Should we fail to begin such a program, either through timidity in embarking upon so major an enterprise, or a false belief that positive action is premature, events as they unfold in the years ahead could well point to a crucial failure of world leaders to act while there was still time in the 1960's.

We therefore recommend that Canada declare that advancement toward world peace founded upon world law is a matter of extreme urgency, and that bold new initiatives should be taken now. We suggest that there are two specific steps which the Canadian government could and should take immediately:

● Make an unequivocal public statement that the achievement of a world rule of law under an effective supra-national authority is the primary goal of Canada's national policy in the world community. Such a statement would not only have a positive influence upon Canadians and citizens of other nations but would serve to provide an orientation to Canadian foreign policy goals.

● Establish a new branch of government (possible names are World Affairs Council or Department of Peace) charged with the responsibility for all activities directed toward the achievement of world peace. This proposed branch could be established within the Department of External Affairs, or it could be established as a separate department of government similar to the new United Kingdom department of Foreign Affairs under the British Minister of State, Lord Chalfont. Activities which could be placed under this branch include:

Use Advances In Social Sciences

i) Research to achieve a better understanding of the forces affecting the climate for war and peace (through organized application of recent advances in the social sciences) and determine appropriate solutions for existing and incipient international conflicts;

ii) Research into the nature and scope of institutions required for the establishment of a world rule of law;

iii) Research into arms control and disarmament measures, the need for and effect of alliances and the interaction of such programs;

iv) Canadian policy relating to the United Nations and Canadian participation in UN operations; and

v) Assistance to developing nations, including economic, educational, personnel and other assistance programs.

We strongly recommend that the Canadian Government give early and serious consideration to the above proposals. A vigorous Canadian initiative to begin a program to actively work for the achievement of a world rule of law could be of inestimable value to all humanity.

Frankfurter
Allgemeine Zeitung

The big event at the opening of Wuppertal's Schauspielhaus was Heinrich Boll's speech. The theme was "The Freedom of Art." Among other things Boll said:

"What art needs, the one and only thing it needs, is material ... It does not need freedom, it is freedom ... Someone can take away its freedom to show itself ... No one can give it freedom, no state, no city, no society."

"If it breaks the barriers, goes too far, it feels it: it is shot at ... How far it can go or could have gone, no one can say beforehand. It therefore has to go too far to find out how far it can go ... In the place of society, I would be able to say state, if we had one; I do not see the state at the moment ... so let us not talk about it until it shows itself again."

"Let us talk about what has taken its place: about this incomprehensible and disconcerted mass, which we all belong to, of society."

"Worst of all, in the disconsolateness of poetry is hidden a certain consolation ... Because we are among ourselves, together in society, stateless inlanders who amuse ourselves quite nicely, I must explain quickly that it is not being lasting is important for those who are looking for it."

"I only say for emphasis: he who is concerned with it (art) does not need a state — he needs a certain provincial administration for which he pays taxes: lamp-lighters, who offer him light when he comes home drunk, dustmen who free him from his rubbish ... This is what literature with heavy bread and under heavy fire has always done and is doing: breaking through taboos, not because it understands anything about love, but because it is searching and searching in vain for it — something which neither state nor church have ever understood."

Famous Last Words

Marie Rainer Rilke
(1875-1928)

The German poet died of blood poisoning from the prick of a thorn. His last note said pessimistically: "If still think of the world — poor shard of a vessel that remembers being of the earth." But his dying words to his wife were: "Never forget that life is magnificent!"

A Machete for the NDP And an Axe for the FLQ

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, lectures in Canadian government at Carleton University.)

There are two publications on our desk we would prefer to get along without. The first is La Cogne (The Axe), official publication of the Front de Liberation de Quebec (FLQ), which seeks to separate Quebec from the rest of Canada, and the second is The Commonwealth, official publication of the New Democratic Party in the prairie provinces.

The current issue we have of La Cogne was mailed in Montreal to an organization in that city, and is of special interest in that it was mailed postage free On Her Majesty's Service in an envelope bearing the following printing in the upper left hand corner, Canada, Department of the Secretary of State, Ottawa, 4.

The fact that the young separatists of the FLQ have managed to distribute their publication with government stationery and postage is not the most offensive feature. In fact they deserve some marks for their achievement, and extra marks for their selection of the envelopes of the department of the cultural chief, Miss La-March, in their unauthorised centennial project.

Nor is it the fact that it is a separatist publication. The Premier of Quebec has presented as an alternative to the people of that province an "associate state" arrangement which at every important point would demand the establishment of a separate state, a new country. So it would hardly be offensive but on the contrary, most helpful, to have a paper spelling out the details, advancing the supporting arguments, and commenting from a separatist view on English-French and federal-provincial relations.

But what is so offending about La Cogne is that it has so little to say. It has a clear objective, a strong will, and inexhaustible venom, but it does not have history, facts or ideas. It is as if its editors have chosen Mein Kampf as their model when they should have been reading the works of Thomas Paine and the speeches of Patrick Henry.

The other dispensable publication, The Commonwealth, arrives weekly from Regina. Its main objective, which is abundantly clear, and which it pursues with single-minded intensity, is to remove Ross Thatcher from the premiership of Saskatchewan. But what is unclear is whether it wishes to replace Mr.

Thatcher with CCF Leader Woodrow Lloyd or with Ho Chi Minh.

From issue after issue one could easily draw the conclusion that one of the leading departments of the Saskatchewan government is the Department of External Affairs. And what is the principal problem on the international scene, the prime threat to the peace of Saskatchewan? One sentence from the editorial page of a recent issue will perhaps suffice:

"If I were a cartoonist I would picture President Johnson with a scoop-shovel shoveling men into the furnace of war."

The paper hacks away at American policies like a machete in a canebreaker.

The unhappiness of the leadership of the New Democratic Party — and the leadership is in Ottawa, not Regina — with the war in Viet Nam is well known. So is the unhappiness of the Canadian Government, and for that matter so is that of the American government. The reasons why the United States became mired in Southeast Asia and why it became more and more difficult to disengage are as complex as they are tragic, but in the main they are public, established reasons.

These are subject to examination, to questioning, to debate, and to rebuttal. But it must be said of The Commonwealth as of La Cogne that while it has a clear objective, a strong will, and inexhaustible venom, it does not have history, facts or ideas.

The treatment of the issue of Viet Nam in all this is not more important than the attitude toward the United States. Sorting out relations between Canada and the United States is one of the two fundamental problems of our political life.

The only basis upon which this conceivably can be approached is on the assumption of a close, friendly, neighborly relationship with a high degree of mutual trust and generosity of feeling. Geography, history, economics, political and social systems, the realities of power, individually support and collectively dictate this assumption.

For the New Democratic Party the tenor and the substance of the deeply felt eulogy delivered by Mr. Douglas on the death of Adlai Stevenson mark an attitude consonant in every way with the philosophy and purposes of the party.

Criticize the foreign policy of the United States? By all means criticize it where one feels it merits criticism. With the New York Times, Walter Lippmann, I. F. Stone, Senator Fulbright, Morse and Kennedy, one is not lacking these days in source material. But let it not be overlooked that these sources are American. And let it not also be overlooked that our first concern should be with the foreign policy of our own country.

NDP Denounces Injunctions

VANCOUVER—The provincial New Democratic Party Sunday called for an end to ex-parte injunctions in labor disputes and for a new labor relations board setup.

Provincial council of the party approved demands drafted Saturday at a caucus of party MLAs and issued a policy statement.

The policy statement said ex-parte injunctions—those issued with only one party being heard by the judge—are not only arbitrary and unjust but have aggravated rather than promoted the settlement of industrial disputes in the province.

The statement also called for discontinuance of injunctions issued in labor dispute through more notice to the parties concerned.

It said trade unions and employers should have resort to a full-time labor-relations board under completely reconstituted labor relations legislation. This legislation, it said, should provide for a full-time board and a full-time minister of labor and should improve conciliation services.

Application to the new board, the statement suggested, could be made by a union or an employer for cease and desist orders subject to safeguards to protect the interests of both parties as well as the community. And no such order should be issued without a full hearing from both sides in a dispute.

The statement also called for the right of free dissemination of information by placard, leaflet, or by press, radio and television and urged the re-establishment of the right to disseminate information by peaceful picketing.

Stargazers View Site On Mountain

PENTICTON (CP)—Canadian astronomers studied the view from Mt. Kobau Sunday at the spot where one day they will peer into space.

The astronomers, delegates to the Canadian Committee of the International Astronomical Union, were looking at the proposed site for the multi-million-dollar Queen Elizabeth observatory.

The observatory will not be ready for at least six years, said Dr. Graham Odgers, a member of the federal energy, mines and resources department and head of the design team.

He said the 19-ton lens, currently being fused at the Corning Glass Works in New York, will be shipped to the University of B.C. sometime during the next two years.

"We will attempt to polish the lens ourselves," Dr. Odgers added.

"It will be the first time this is attempted in Canada."

APPOINTED director of conciliation in the federal labor department is William Kelly, 42. He is a vice-chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. (CP Wirephoto).

double your money with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series

Centennial Series Canada Savings Bonds offer you their highest interest yield ever—5.48% a year when held to maturity.

The new Bonds pay annual interest at the rate of 5% for each of the first four years; 5½% for each of the next three years; 5¾% for the following year and 6% for each of the last five years—a total of $72.25 in interest on every $100 Bond.

And for the first time, there is a special compound interest option. To take full advantage of it, leave all the annual interest uncollected until Nov. 1, 1979, and you will get interest on your interest, amounting to $27.75 extra on every $100 Bond.

It all adds up to total interest of $100 on every $100 Bond. It's a safe, sure way to save. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series.

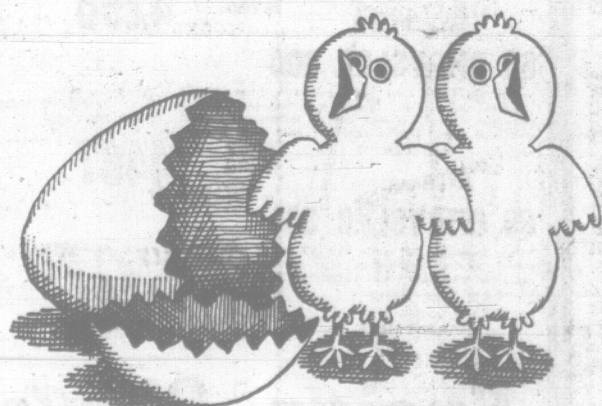

This Series retains all the traditional features which make Canada Savings Bonds Canada's most favoured investment.

They are still easy to buy for cash or on instalments where you work, bank or invest.

You may buy as little as $50 or as much as $10,000. Every Canadian resident may buy up to this limit. So can estates.

They are still simple to cash, anytime, at any bank in Canada for their full face value plus earned interest. Just fill out the redemption form on the Bond, present it to your bank and you'll get your money right away.

And now they're better than ever to keep with the highest interest yield ever and interest on interest. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series.

BIGGEST SWEDISH LABOR CONFLICT IN 20 YEARS

Teacher Strike Spreads to Civil Service

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Many of the civil servants belong to the teachers' union. Sweden's biggest labor conflict in 20 years deepened today when 25,000 teachers and 10,000 civil servants started a three-day strike to retaliate against a government lockout of a number of teachers.

The lockout was ordered last week to try to break a strike started by nearly 1,300 teachers Oct. 11. When the three-day strike ends at midnight Wednesday the original strikers will continue their action, together with 2,600 of the civil servants who went out today. The dispute started when teachers felt unable to accept board of education demands for a longer academic year or a compromise wages agreement which would have given increases of 15 per cent compared with 1962 salaries. Grammar school teachers earn between 39,000 crowns ($7,500) and 47,000 crowns ($9,200) a year. University staff gets upwards of 60,000 crowns ($11,200).

Canadian Unions Continue Fight

By JOHN LEBLANC
TORONTO (CP) — The long tooth-and-claw battle between two tough unions in Canada's base-metals field is coming to another crucial turning point.

All indications are that soon the old foes — the United Steelworkers of America and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers — will merge their United States memberships.

The marriage could end up with a deep impact in this country, though at the moment the eventual Canadian effect is a big question mark.

While the big sections of the unions have been engaging up in the U.S., the Canadian factions are far from that. Steel here has been extending an olive branch with one fist and clouting Mine-Mill with the other. The Canadian Mine-Mill proclaims its determination not to have its Canadian identity and autonomy swallowed up in the larger USWA.

But below the border events are moving swiftly towards a merger, or more correctly an assimilation of the 40,000 U.S. Mine-Mill members by the 1,100,000-member Steelworkers union. A no-outraging pact was signed in late August, and the USWA convention authorized a full merger. An American Mine-Mill convention is expected to follow suit, with the absorption coming early in the new year.

STRICTLY AMERICAN

Nothing like that is happening in Canada, partly because the Canadian section of Mine-Mill became a separate entity in 1955 and has the final say on whether it would be drawn in. In any case, the American negotiators of the parent unions have been careful to make clear they are affecting a purely American merger.

However Steel's Canadian

Island Firms Join Action For Price Cut

Local and Island businessmen make a concerted pitch Thursday to try to bring down domestic gas price.

Those concerned will hold a mass meeting in the restaurant hall, 562 Yates, at 7:30 p.m. where some 100 representatives of the legislature and lay plans for making briefs to the government.

William Webb, president of the Island Canadian Restaurant Association, has led a sustained attack on B.C. Hydro for a reduced gas price, to no avail.

He said all merchants on commercial rates and manufacturers on industrial rates should join the protest. Gas here costs up to 2 1/2 times the price which mainland users pay, he charges. Mr. Webb insists gas rates ought to be standard, as are electricity rates.

Six associations of businessmen and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce are expected to make briefs.

Mac Raises Price

VANCOUVER — MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. announced today it will raise its newsprint price $3 a ton to lower mainland, Vancouver Island and west coast U.S. customers, effective June 1, 1967. The new price will be $133 in the B.C. areas, $137 in the U.S.

"We here in Canada have no intention of becoming hand-maidens to the Steelworkers. What the officers of Mine-Mill do in the U.S. is their own business."

Larry Sefton, director of the USWA's District 6, extending from the Quebec-Ontario border to the West Coast and taking in territory where Mine-Mill has most of its membership, said his union will continue to drive for "unity" in the metal-mining industry.

"Canadian members of Mine-Mill will make the final decision and I think they want unity," he added.

Enraged Strikers Throw Bricks, Set Lawn Fires

LACHUTE, Que. (CP)—Private guards were posted early today at the residence of Gilbert Ayers, president of Dominion Ayers Ltd., where about 250 demonstrators converged Sunday to hurl bricks and set fires.

The demonstration, in this community 50-miles northwest of Montreal, was in support of a strike at the company's wood division plant here.

Police said the demonstrators, members of the separatist Rassemblement pour l'indépendance nationale and the Quebec Socialist party, arrived at the Ayers house about 4:30 p.m.

Before they left one hour later two security guards were injured, electric lamps on the Ayers' lawn were broken, a fire truck windshield was shattered, a police car door kicked in and shrubs on the lawn were burned.

Police Chief Real Chartrand said one of the demonstrators was hit on the leg by a projectile fired from a gas gun by a company security guard, but was not injured.

Jacques Gibeau, president of a local of the Confederation of National Trade Unions which represents striking employees at the Ayers plant, reported that three demonstrators were hurt and one was in hospital.

Fifteen members of the Lachute police, 10 provincial policemen and nine security guards met the demonstrators as they arrived at the Ayers residence carrying placards.

The demonstrators started to throw bricks at the home but were moved back out of range of the windows by security guards using water from the company's own fire prevention system.

During the brick and water exchange one guard was hit in the face with a brick. Another guard was hit on the elbow.

Chief Chartrand said the demonstrators started for the house again and a guard fired two bombs containing "sickening gas which is something like tear gas." One bomb hit a demonstrator in the leg.

Police reinforcements arrived and the crowd was dispersed a half-hour later.

Canadian Operations Begin Today

MILL VILLAGE, N.S. (CP)—Satcom, Canada's first satellite communications station, begins commercial operation today.

Built by the federal transport department at a cost of more than $9,000,000, the station near this south shore community will relay trans-Atlantic telephone and television signals to and from the Early Bird satellite on a regular schedule.

Operated by the Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corp., the station provides 60 channels for Canadian use and 240 for the United States.

At the start, the Nova Scotia station will normally operate about one day a week in rotation with a similar station in Andover, Me.

The United States Communications Satellite Corp. plans to launch another mid-Atlantic satellite late next month to provide greater circuit capacity.

The Canadian ground station may go on a full daily operational basis then.

COTC officials already have announced plans to build a second station in the Mill Village area by the middle of 1968.

HALL RETURNS TO HAWKS...

... a money matter

Orr Draws Ovation, Big M a Suspension

Lucre, alias money... green stuff... cabbage, took the spotlight from the athletes as the National Hockey League marched boldly into the 1966-67 season on the weekend.

For Boston Bruins, Bobby Orr proved money was everything. The 18-year-old defenceman, heralded as another Doug Harvey, made an impressive first return on the $40,000 the Bruins forced on him.

Orr drew a standing ovation from 13,909 Boston Garden fans Sunday after his 55-foot slap shot eluded Gump Worsley in the Montreal goal.

It didn't help the Bruins—they lost 3-2 to Montreal—but it did give Beantowners hope for the future.

Orr didn't score Saturday but he was the picture of poise and grace as Boston bowed 3-1 to the Habs in Montreal.

For Toronto Maple Leafs, $40,000 was Frank Mahovlich, dressed in civies.

The large right winger wants that much to autograph a Maple Leafs' contract. Punch Imlach, Toronto's general manager-coach-cash box custodian, was a non-believer.

Imlach said he offered "Mahallavitch" a 20 per cent raise or $5,000 more than he received on a four-year pact the Big M just finished.

Mahovlich attended a team meeting before Saturday's game with New York Rangers (the Leafs blew a 3-0 lead, settled for a 4-4 tie) but did not accompany his team to New York Sunday (where the Rangers won 1-0 on a goal by Wayne Hillman).

"I guess I'm a holdout," Mahovlich said Sunday.

"But I'd like to get back as quickly as possible. I can't say how far we are apart, because I look on contracts as things to be negotiated privately."

Lions' Roar Fizzles On Winnipeg Plains

Imlach said: "He is suspended now and that means he loses wages from Oct. 19, when the season started. He also loses on the players' pension every day he sits out because we don't contribute our share for any players not signed."

"So far as I'm concerned, he'll have to come and see me. I won't be phoning him."

For Glenn Hall, money, stacked high, was reason enough to end his talk of retirement.

The veteran goalkeeper announced Sunday he had signed with Chicago Black Hawks. Earlier he had said he would remain on his Alberta farm "unless the Hawks come up with a lot of money."

With Roger DeJordy in the nets, Chicago missed Hall much less than Toronto did Mahovlich.

The Hawks tripped the winless Detroit Red Wings twice, 7-4 and 4-1.

NHL RACE TIGHTENS

Cowboys Chilled By Interceptions

By The Associated Press

Almost every time Dallas Cowboys' Don Meredith cocked his arm to pass Sunday, Ross Fichtner was there to make the catch.

Meredith's only problem, though, was that Fichtner was playing safety for Cleveland Browns. He intercepted three passes as Cleveland defeated previously unbeaten Dallas 20-21. The loss was the 11th in a row for the Cowboys in Cleveland.

The victory tightened the race in the National Football League's Eastern Division, moving the Browns within one game of first place St. Louis Cardinals and keeping Dallas a half game out. St. Louis also lost its first game, a 26-20 decision to Washington Redskins.

Green Bay Packers trampled Atlanta Falcons 56-3, Baltimore Colts edged Minnesota Vikings, half. Rookie Donny Anderson 20-17, Chicago Bears defeated scored twice for the Packers, Los Angeles Rams 17-10, Philadelphia Eagles dumped New York Giants 31-3 and San Francisco 49ers shaded Detroit Lions 27-24.

Fichtner's three interceptions—the Browns had four in all—gave him a league-leading seven so far this year, equalling his personal high for one season.

Two touchdown passes from Sonny Jurgensen to Bobby Mitchell in less than three minutes of the fourth quarter enabled Washington to stop St. Louis.

Greedy Bay had no trouble remaining on top of the Western Conference as Bart Starr hit for Atlanta Falcons 56-3, Baltimore Colts edged Minnesota Vikings, half. Rookie Donny Anderson 20-17, Chicago Bears defeated scored twice for the Packers, Los Angeles Rams 17-10, Philadelphia Eagles dumped New York Giants 31-3 and San Francisco 49ers shaded Detroit Lions 27-24.

Sorry, Kitty, they didn't bar the door at the weekend, but still managed to pop up with a pair of victories that propelled the Bucks to the top of the ladder after the first week's play.

Offense, expected after manager-coach Hal Laycoe brought in Len Lunde and Alain Caron, carried Portland. It was 6-5 over Vancouver on Saturday and 5-4 over San Diego Gulls on Sunday.

Seattle Totems and Oakland Seals skated to a 1-1 draw Saturday and the California team bounced back Sunday to defeat Los Angeles Blades 4-1.

Lunde and Caron each came up with two goals at the weekend, one in each game. Veteran centre Larry Leach popped in three including an important pair Sunday.

In Los Angeles Sunday night, the Seals spoiled the home opener for the Blades. Seals, playing their first 10 games on the road awaiting the opening of

Victoria 3; San Diego 1

By DOUG PEDEN

Few people will argue Max McNabb's reputation as a hockey instructor and it appears his San Diego Gulls are willing pupils.

Now if Max can get his fledgling Gulls to do some heavy homework on the art of scoring goals they could make things uncomfortably hot for the Victoria Maple Leafs Wednesday night at Memorial Arena.

Making their debut in the Western Hockey League this season, the Gulls gave up nine goals while dropping their first two games. Six of the tallies were yielded while San Diego had a man or more in the penalty box and manager-coach McNabb went to work to teach more about the penalty-killing business.

The Gulls apparently learned their lessons well before they stepped out against Victoria Maple Leafs at Memorial Arena before 3,650 fans Saturday night.

TWO SHORT

They took six of the game's 10 penalties and didn't give up a goal while they were short-handed, even when they were two short for almost two minutes in the second period.

Unfortunately for Max, they didn't do as well when the teams were at even strength and the Gulls went down to their third straight defeat while the unbeaten Leafs were prevailing 3-1 for their third successive win on home ice.

One San Diegoan certainly wasn't in need of lessons Saturday night. That was goalie Les Binkley, who had the best goals-against average in the American League last season. Binkley probably won't collect the same award with the Gulls, but his Saturday effort suggests he's going to win more than a few games for San Diego.

LIKE A BURGLAR

With the Gulls solidly outplayed most of the way, Binkley was an acrobat and a burglar as he managed to get in front of 50 shots and keep the visitors in the game until the final two minutes.

In the end, it was only Victoria's punch line of Andy Heberton, Milan Marcetta and Bob Barlow that could pierce Binkley's armor.

Heberton, in another strong two-way game, got the Leafs in front in the second period and made it 2-1 with six minutes remaining in the third. Marcetta added the clincher with less than two minutes to play and Barlow collected assists on all three goals.

PANAGABKO SPOILER

Although he stopped only 19 shots, rookie Victoria goalie Al Smith was giving nothing away to his rival at the other end. Young Al came within seven minutes of collecting his third straight shutout on home ice and he yielded only when Ed Panagabko bounced a deflection into the net on Gordie Sinclair's long drive.

Coach Frank Mario's Leafs slipped out of a first-place tie with Portland when the Buckaroos nipped the Gulls 5-4 Sunday night at the Rose City and they'll be trying to pull even again when the Gulls come back to town Wednesday.

But those four goals were the most San Diego has scored in one game and that might mean the Gulls are learning McNabb's new lessons quickly enough to cook up a kettle of trouble.

CANADA SECOND

Marlene Tops World Tourney

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The United States survived the loss of seven strokes on two closing holes and, led by 17-year-old Shelley Hamlin, of Fresno, Calif., beat Canada by nine shots for the women's world amateur golf championship. France, the defending champion, was third.

Marlene Streit of Toronto captured individual honors with a final round 74 for a 72-hole score of 289. She won by three strokes over Mrs. Teddy Boddie of Shreveport, La., who weathered a nightmarish eight on a par-four hole for a closing-round 73 and total score of 292.

Miss Hamlin, a last-minute addition to the American team, fired a final-round 72 with a two-over-par six on the last hole for the best U.S. performance Sunday. Her score was added to Mrs. Boddie's 73 for 145 and a final team score of 580.

Anne Welts of Mount Vernon, Wash., who led the first two days, fell to a 78 after taking a three-over-par six on the short eighth hole where she hit three traps.

Canada's final tally was 589 on the remarkable comeback of Mrs. Streit, who was four over par at the turn on the closing round.

Other Canadian scores were Gail Harvey Moore 72 and Gayle, Hitchens 76. Both are from Vancouver.

Mrs. Streit wilted on the outward nine Sunday, returning with 40. But she had a birdie at the 10th and another birdie at the 11th.

She produced all her graceful rhythm and control on the homeward half with 34—two under par—which included three birdies. The only blemish was a one over par at the 17th when she missed a short putt.

"But, Ed... isn't 299 a rather good score?"

ARGOS THUMP OTTAWA

IN THE East-Hamilton Tigercats clinched second place and Toronto Argonauts proved they can win games that don't mean anything.

The Ticats dumped the Alouettes 31-14 in Montreal in a preview of the IFC sudden-death semi-final Nov. 5 between the two clubs. The win insured Hamilton of home grounds for the game, winner of which meets Ottawa Rough Riders in the IFC final.

The Argos, who clinched last place a week ago, surprised a Toronto crowd of 16,064 by defeating the Rough Riders, who won first place last weekend, 35-12.

Defence Sparkled In Steelers' Win

BOB BOYD

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Pete Ohler went back to work but if there is any time-and-a-half owing on Saturday's Pacific Coast Football League game at Macdonald Park, then it should go to the defensive dandies of the Victoria Steelers' team.

Ohler was definitely a guiding light, but it was the defence that worked overtime for Victoria's first-ever victory in the six-team league... Steelers 13, Portland Thunderbirds 2.

A safety touch with less than two minutes to play was all that Portland could muster for the scoreboard, and that's fair indication that the Victoria defence did its job. Very well, thank you!

Ohler, on a quarterback keep, and the veteran Ron Morris, on a pass from Ohler, scored the Victoria touchdowns. But the points that counted were the ones that Portland couldn't get. That is why defensive coach Bob Boyd and his boys shone so brightly through the mud and slop.

Boyd, a six-foot-three Texan, played himself into near-exhaustion. The likes of Leo Kosak, Gary Schwertfeger, Joseph Flood, Art Shannon, Jack Truran et al backed Boyd with timely tackles and recovered fumbles.

FLOOD FOILED 'EM

Flood and Kosak both gathered in Portland fumbles to snuff out early Thunderbird scoring threats, and Victoria's inspiration became a muzzling threat thereafter.

The big break was Flood's recovery. Taking the opening kickoff, Portland picked up a first down but then was forced to kick. Victoria's Jim Pannell called for a fair catch, but dropped the punt. Portland recovered on the Victoria 15.

Steelers promptly were tagged with an offside penalty, and seconds later Portland had a first down from Victoria's five. Fullback Sam Owens got the next call for Portland. But barred by a hard tackle, he tumbled and Flood was there. Ohler played in his first game since suffering a head injury three weeks ago. He completed 15 of 26 passes for 133 yards and, more important, called an excellent game.

TIMELY DIRECTION

It was his direction that took Steelers from their own 14 to touchdown territory in the second half. Ohler eliminated the march with a three-yard flip to Morris in the end zone.

Steelers had a great chance to add another major to their total in the final minute before half-time. They moved from their own two to Portland's doorstep, only to lose the ball on downs on the visitors' four-yard stripe.

A Portland fumble set up Victoria's second major. Steelers recovered on the Thunderbirds' 20. Pannell squirmed for two yards and on second down Ohler passed to Jerry Jones. The big end was all alone but couldn't help stepping out of bounds on Portland's one-yard line.

Ohler barged over on the next play and Art Shannon converted to make it 13-0.

THE POINT AFTER: Kosak and Portland's Ollie McIlrath both wrapped up their chores early... They were chased to the showers early in the final quarter for slugging...

Steelers back Bill Taylor was lost early in the game when he reappeared a problem shoulder... Major Lincoln was Steelers' big man offensively with 39 yards in 32 carries...

Lincoln also showed excellent pass-catching ability, taking in five passes for 43 yards... Jones took two for 50 yards and Morris caught five for 28... Barry Taylor, a two-way performer, caught three passes for 12 yards...

Ohler recovered on the Thunderbirds' 20. Pannell squirmed for two yards and on second down Ohler passed to Jerry Jones. The big end was all alone but couldn't help stepping out of bounds on Portland's one-yard line.

Ohler barged over on the next play and Art Shannon converted to make it 13-0.

THE POINT AFTER: Kosak and Portland's Ollie McIlrath both wrapped up their chores early... They were chased to the showers early in the final quarter for slugging...

Steelers back Bill Taylor was lost early in the game when he reappeared a problem shoulder... Major Lincoln was Steelers' big man offensively with 39 yards in 32 carries...

Polo Victories

Two Victoria Olympian Swimming Club teams chalked up Victoria Water Polo League victories Sunday at the Crystal Garden. Olympian Neptunes doused University of Victoria 7-3 and Olympian Tiger-Sharks nipped YM-YWCA 4-3.

Wouldn't it be nice to forget your feet?

You can, if you remember a cool, refreshing sprinkling of Dr. Scholl's foot powder as part of your everyday grooming.

Dr. Scholl's makes three kinds to keep your feet comfortable.

- Dr. Scholl's Foot Powder, for cool dry feet.
- Dr. Scholl's Bromidrosis Powder to neutralize odors.
- Dr. Scholl's Solvex Powder for athlete's foot.

Remember Dr. Scholl's and you can forget your feet. Unless, of course, you want to stop once in a while and think how good they feel.

Give everyone in your family the same good feeling too.

Victoria 3; Burnaby 0

VANCOUVER — Goalie Barry Sadler is limping a bit today but he's still as stingy as ever and Victoria O'Keefes are still the only unbeaten club in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

Sadler collected his fourth shutout in five games and O'Keefes moved within one point of first place Sunday as they blanked Burnaby 3-0 before a surprisingly small crowd of 392 fans at Callister Park.

Villa is the only club to mar the records of O'Keefes and Sadler. The Burnaby squad beat Barry once and held O'Keefes to a 1-1 draw in an earlier match at Victoria.

In Saturday's matches, University of B.C. Thunderbirds and North Shore Luckies remained in a first-place deadlock. UBC nipped New Westminster Royals 1-0 at Callister and Luckies lashed St. Andrews 4-0 at North Vancouver.

Sadler wasn't very busy during a scoreless first half Sunday. Play was about even as Villa was using a long-kicking system and disrupting Victoria's smoother approach. The pattern was Villa kicking and O'Keefes working the ball back up the field only to be thwarted by Burnaby defence.

Victoria Attack 'Sweetened' Later

Victoria coach Frank Grealy brought in Geoff Sweet for George Paul at right half as the second session started and the Victoria team seemed to acquire more cohesion.

At 12 minutes, Victoria centre-forward Jim Schulz drew a defender and let a long pass from Don McIntosh go through his legs. Winger Dunc McCaig nipped in behind Schulz and scored with a low shot.

England's Side Blanks Ireland

BELFAST (AP)—Roger Hunt and Martin Peters gave England a 2-0 victory over Northern Ireland Saturday in a game that lifted the victors to the lead of a qualifying group in the European Soccer Cup of Nations tournament. It was England's first match since winning the world title last summer.

Washington Coach

WASHINGTON (AP) Dan Eckner, a former Swedish international soccer player, was named coach of the Washington team in the National Professional Soccer League Saturday.

One minute later, Schulz swung out to the side and centred to Ike MacKay, who headed the ball off a defender and then alertly turned his own rebound into the goal to make it 2-0.

Burnaby then made several changes and suddenly took command. Sadler was under pressure for 20 minutes but he had all the right moves. The tall netminder ranged well out to grab high lob in the middle and was forced to make three diving saves to save his shutout.

O'Keefes settled down to take over in the late stages and got their final goal after Russ Ball, out with a knee injury for several games, came on for MacKay. Peter Bret did the honors, hooking home a shot from a pass by Schulz, who had again swung to the wing.

Play was rough and rugged in the closing stages and Sadler, pestered most by Normie McLeod, came out of the fray limping on a leg bruised and sore from a kick.

Dodger Bats Hot in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, showing a lot more hitting power than they did against Baltimore in the World Series, hit six home runs Saturday and won the opening game of their Japanese tour 16-5 from the Yomiuri Giants, Japanese champions.

Willie Davis and Jim Lefebvre each hit a pair of homers for the Dodgers, pacing a 21-hit attack. Claude Osteen and Tom Hutton also hit home runs for the visitors.

Akira Kunimatsu hit the only homer for the Giants, who collected just five hits off four Los Angeles pitchers.

Nagle a Winner

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australian Kel Nagle fired a five-under-par 68 Sunday to win the Wills masters golf tournament. He finished with a 72-hole aggregate of 278. Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina placed second with 280.

Chinooks Fail To Fan Flame

Kerrisdale 54; Chinooks 50

Victoria Chinooks couldn't keep the fires hot at Central Junior High School Saturday night and dropped their opening game of the Inter-City Basketball League season.

Several times appearing ready to take command with their ball-control game, the Chinooks could never quite keep the flame burning against Kerrisdale Merchants and finally dropped a 54-50 decision as the scrappy Kerries cashed in on a last-minute flurry of free shots.

Terry Weins, who suffered a painful hip bruise in a first-half spill, bounced back to spark the Kerries after the clubs had reached the half in a 27-27 deadlock.

Weins scored 10 of his 12 points in the second half and directed play to keep Kerrisdale in contention during the see-saw struggle.

Chinook rookie Mike O'Connor potted a pair of foul shots to even the score at 50-50 with three minutes remaining, but in the hectic final minute the Chinooks got caught with their fouls showing.

14 FOR STEEVES

Gary Cooke and Paul Bazely each cashed two gift tosses and the unexpectedly-strong Kerries had their upset victory.

Weins, Bob Steeves (14 points), Ross Molberg and Doug Dougan were standouts for the winners.

Freshman coach Moe Turner gave most of his Chinooks a good amount of time on the floor but was unable to find a combination that could take charge.

O'Connor set the scoring pace with 14 points and Rick Hubner and Rod Fields turned in strong rebounding efforts.

In a preliminary game, the Bantam Chinooks were clipped 44-35 by Mount View High.

North Shore Mountaineers also snapped a deadlock with a late flurry to edge Simon Fraser freshmen 62-57 in Vancouver Saturday in another Inter-City League clash.

Tim MacDonald fired 23 points for Simon Fraser and John Hart collected 19 for the Mountaineers.

KERRISDALE (54)—Paul Bazely 6, Bob Steeves 14, Terry Weins 12, Doug Dougan 7, Barry Galley 5, Ross Molberg 5, Les Miller 2, Dave Churchland 1, Gary Cooke 6, Eric Walker 4, Dave Pettie 3, Barry Turner 3, Rod Hubner 2, Mike O'Connor 14, Doug Gregory, Rod Fields 5.

Some people think imported economy cars don't look too hot. The new Toyota Corona looks devilishly cool.

As you're reading these words, a lot of thinking people are buying a lot of economy cars because they're built like finely-crafted Swiss watches and they don't cost the earth to drive.

And we'd be the last to complain, because we believe in fine imported quality and economy too.

But we think there's much more to a car than quality and economy.

We believe a car should look good too.

That's why our new Toyota Corona doesn't have a fly in the ointment when it comes to styling.

Starting at the front (which is a logical place to start because that's where we put the engine), you'll see a beautifully uncluttered grille mounting four headlights.

Then, moving back, you'll come to a big, but handsomely-contoured windshield. This gives you an exceptional view of the road because the hood-line is styled with an Italian-influenced downward curve.

Four big doors let you stay cool no matter how many times you have to get in and out.

And when you do get inside, you'll find the same sophisticated beauty. A padded dash with a clean simplicity of design that lets you read the instruments and operate the controls so easily you'll never get heated (unless you turn the Corona's massive heater on). Fresh air vents on both sides. A big, lockable, glove compartment. A parcel-sized parcel shelf. And luxury carpeting matched to the upholstery.

And the Toyota Corona finishes as beautifully as it starts.

When you look at it from the back you'll see the same cool Italian influence in the rear deck styling. And sophisticated safety extras like oversized stop lights, turn signals, and back-up lights.

The only thing that isn't exactly cool about our new Toyota Corona is its engine. With 90 horsepower, it's so hot it leaves others cold.

You can get a Toyota Corona for $2298*, and if you wish to be real cool, an automatic transmission for a little more.

Aside from the best looks in its class, the Corona's price includes 32 luxury features including electric washers, seat belts, and safety glass all around.

When you see what the cool Toyota Corona looks like, we don't think it'll take too long before you get hot to drive one.

Cowichans Ask $35,000 For Five New Residences

DUNCAN — Pushing its fight for improved housing, Cowichan Indian band is making a request for an additional $35,000 grant this year.

Ronald Sampson, Cowichan Indian Affairs agent, will take the local request to Vancouver regional office today.

Louise Underwood, band secretary, said: "The $35,000 would be sufficient for an extra five houses."

The Cowichans have only been allotted two new houses this year, and neither have been built.

The bands recently formed

Two Motorists Survive Brush With Dayliner

LADYSMITH—Motorist Robert John Ostle, of Ladysmith, escaped serious injury Saturday afternoon when his car was struck by the E. & N. Dayliner. Ostle told RCMP his car was struck by the E. & N. Dayliner, broadside on a level crossing at the Crown Zellerbach logging road near here.

He said he was in conversation with a passenger at the time. He heard the train whistle at the last minute but it was too late to stop.

Private Funeral For Centenarian Here Since 1891

A private funeral service will be held in Hayward's funeral chapel Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. for Mrs. Josephine Carmichael, who died in Mount St. Mary's Hospital Thursday.

She was in her 101st year.

Mrs. Carmichael was the widow of Herbert Carmichael, British Columbia's first provincial assayer and mineralogist who died here in 1944.

Born at Belfast, Northern Ireland, she came out to Victoria to marry Mr. Carmichael in 1891. He had preceded her by two years.

AN ARTIST

An accomplished artist, Mrs. Carmichael worked in wood, metal and oils and was active in many charitable enterprises.

When Mr. Carmichael travelled the province as provincial assayer and mineralogist, she often accompanied him.

Their only child, Maurice, was founder of the Carmichael silversmith firm in Victoria, since closed. He died here in 1954.

Mrs. Carmichael is survived by three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

ERIC CHARMAN FAIRFIELD REALTY

TALKING ABOUT REAL ESTATE!

I have often been asked if we only handle properties in the Fairfield area. The answer to this is "No." In fact approximately 40% of our sales during the last few years have been in the Oak Bay Municipality. We actually sell properties, residential and commercial anywhere on Vancouver Island. Recent sales have included properties in Oak Bay, Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich and the Peninsula. We have also negotiated sales of properties in the Gulf Islands, Duncan, Qualicum and other up-island areas.

People have asked whether I only handle huge mansions and outstanding residential properties. It is true that I have been fortunate enough to have had the privilege of selling a large number of the expensive homes, but I also sell just as many low-priced properties. In fact I am interested in any real estate regardless of the price range!

At Fairfield Realty Ltd. we take pride in the fact that "We Sell What We List," having sold over 50% of our listings during the last 15 months!

Due to our record sales this year, we are now desperately trying to find properties for a host of cash buyers who are presently waiting for the right property—perhaps you can help us.

If you are thinking of selling a home, large or small, or a revenue property, please telephone me and let's discuss the possibility of handling the sale for you.

I will gladly discuss your real estate problems without any obligation whatsoever.

Incidentally we still have lots of Mortgage funds available for new Mortgages, and of course we specialize in selling existing Mortgages and Agreements for cash.

Thieves Raid Summer Home At Shawnigan

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Gordon Dalziel, 5282 Santa Clara, Victoria, was jolted Sunday when he visited his Shawnigan Lake summer home.

He found his boat trailer, 15-foot boat, 60-h.p. engine, a 5-h.p. engine, chain saw, tiger skin and cougar skin had been stolen.

He told the RCMP he last visited the home a week ago. The thieves had forced the door of his summer cottage on Old Victoria Road.

RCMP ask for help in finding the boat, which was registered 14K-15537.

Thieves at Lake Cowichan Saturday night stole a television set and a rifle.

The TV set was taken from the I. & H. appliance store on North Shore Road.

The rifle was stolen from Ed's Fix-It Store on South Shore Road.

THEY HAVE PROBLEMS TOO

What About Postmasters?

PORT ALBERTI — Postmasters are far worse off than postal clerks or letter carriers, says Les Hammer, past national president of the Canadian Post Masters' Association.

Mr. Hammer, mayor of Port Alberni, is also the postmaster.

He said the majority of Canadian postmasters receive about half the wages of their counterparts in the United States and even after many years of service most receive less salary and work longer hours than newly-hired postal clerks and letter carriers.

He said a recent reclassification plan in Ottawa means that postmasters, while being given greater responsibilities and more work, receive little or no favorable salary revision.

Mr. Hammer said postmasters are in full sympathy with postal workers but feel that a fair deal for themselves is long overdue.

THE QUESTION "Is there a Canadian History?" will be examined by University of Victoria professor A. E. Loft in a lecture to the English Speaking Union Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Art Gallery.

Steam Buffs Plan Lake Excursions

LADYSMITH—A group of steam locomotive buffs is planning weekend excursions from Ladysmith to Nanaimo Lakes.

If the West Coast Railway Association can get approval to use the Crown Zellerbach railway tracks the familiar sound of a steam locomotive may again be heard in the area.

The association owns an old

Comox Logging and Railway Company locomotive and four coaches which it would use for the excursions.

The association points out the service could handle up to 500 persons per operating day for the scenic trip.

Ladysmith town council recently agreed to meet members of the association to discuss making a formal presentation to Crown Zellerbach which owns the tracks.

The association is a non-profit organization comprised of persons interested in steam locomotives.

Group Captain To Present Flag to Wing

The flag and standard of the 800 (Pacific) Wing of the RCAF Association will be presented to wing officials by Group Captain D. B. Wurtele, commandant of Canadian Services College, Royal Roads.

Presentation will be made at a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday at headquarters on Wilson St., following a dedication by Rev. O. Foster.

Receiving the colors will be wing president Clarence House and past president Bill Stevenson.

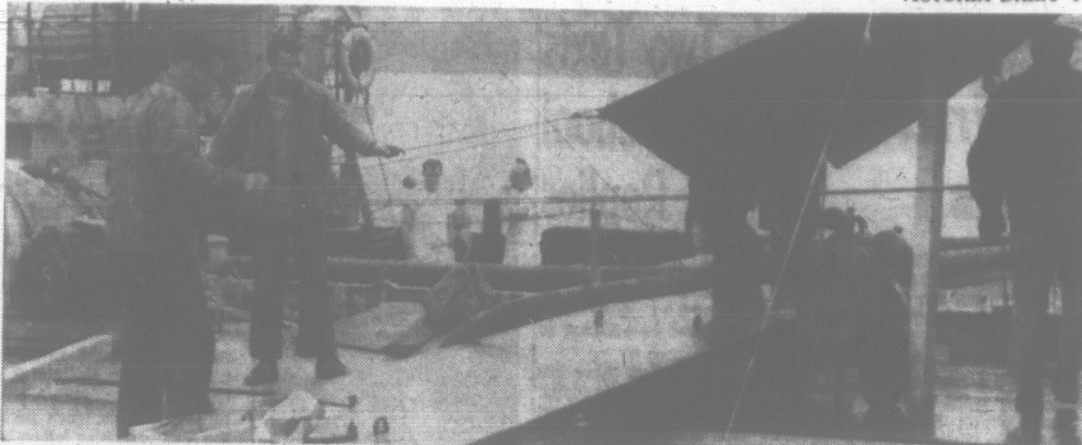

The centennial military tattoo will be topic of a talk, with color slides, by Lieut. Dennis Ryan, HMC Dockyard Information officer.

Torpedo Boat Hobbling Home After Mishap

NANAIMO — The holed U.S. Navy torpedo retriever ship 520 is heading for her home base at the Keyport naval torpedo station in Puget Sound in slow stages.

The 520 was badly holed Friday when she struck Rudder Rock 15 miles northwest of here in Georgia Strait. Her captain ordered her beached to prevent her sinking and she was pumped and patched and then sailed to Nanoose Bay for survey.

Sunday she steamed from the bay to South Pender Island where she spent the night. She will make the next lap back to her base today, accompanied by the Royal Canadian Navy tug Clifton.

AMERICAN TORPEDO RETRIEVER ship 520 was on the last leg of its journey home today after being holed on a reef west of Nanaimo last week. She is shown being pumped out at Nanoose.

DATSUN Expands! Merger makes Nissan Motor Co. Japan's Largest

A merger effected recently between Nissan Motor Co. of Tokyo and Prince Motors Ltd. has put the makers of Datsun cars in number one spot among Japanese automobile manufacturers — and among the world's top ten builders of passenger and commercial vehicles.

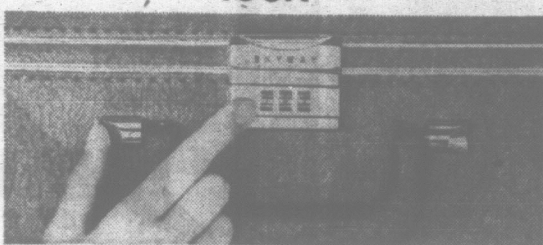

The merger increases Nissan's working capital to $120 million and its employees to more than 31,000. Monthly production is now in excess of 50,000 units.

Nissan has long held first place among Japanese auto exporters. Its new Mexico City assembly plant, opened only three months ago, has already produced over 5,000 vehicles. Other assembly plants are operating in Australia and Holland. Total Datsun exports this year will exceed 100,000 units!

According to Mr. S. Hirai, President of Nissan's Canadian subsidiary, sales growth in this country has also been impressive. Approximately 100 Canadian dealerships have now been established in six provinces, backed by factory offices, parts warehouses and car pools at Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal. Sales to Canadians have increased 360% over the last two years.

Mr. Hirai noted that the traditionally heavy imbalance in Japanese-Canadian trade has been improving steadily. Canadian purchases of Japanese products now equal approximately two-thirds of Canadian sales to Japan. Datsun car and truck sales have been a major factor in achieving this improvement.

WEEKEND RACING

Variable Wind Tests Sailors

A variety of wind conditions added zest to Royal Victoria Yacht Club's weekend race to Bedwell Harbor and back.

It provided almost a full scale of weather conditions.

The race to South Pender Saturday morning gave no indication of the challenge to be thrown on Sunday's race back. Strong winds turned Moresby Passage into a test run for both boats and crews.

Saturday's soft winds died to nothing once the 14 competing yachts had rounded Dock Island. All had quit and motored for Bedwell Harbor before a single boat had passed the second mark, Canoe Rock, at the mouth of Swanson Channel. With no wind and adverse tide, the yachts had no hope of making the course before the time limit.

Sunday was a different story. Starting at Hay Point Light, the yachts romped down Swanson Channel on a reach, rounding Canoe Rock to find themselves in a stiff wind and choppy sea that at times looked like a roller coaster.

No boats were ever in real trouble. The only mishap was to the Thunderbird Aureola which suffered two knockdowns, one of which opened a stern hatch, filling her bilges with water.

Blast Kills Nine

CHARLEROI, Belgium (AP)—Nine persons were killed in an explosion at a chemical products depot here Saturday. Seven others were injured. The exact cause of the explosion was not known.

Changing his Genoa to a storm jib and reefing down his main, skipper John Weir continued the race, ending in 13th spot.

Winner of Sunday's race was Theo De La Mare's Tandem. Behind her were Don Lawson's Te-Pah, Frank Bush's Conouline, Walter Steiner's Alberg 30 Encore (a new boat being raced for the first time), Roy Denny's "Solo, Russell Potter's Sunbeam, Peter Coombs' Doxy 11, Don Evans' II, Stuart Law's Trio, George Dufour's Galenala, David Angus' Tiffany, Fred Gardiner's Shu-Yen and Aureola. Bert Buchanan's Maria 11 did not finish, completing the last half of the course by motor.

KINDER WINDS

At Oak Bay Marina, wind conditions on Sunday were kinder to yachtsmen, providing light to fresh breezes and three small races in which 12 boats took part. These included three auxiliary cruisers, three Haida sloops, five Shark sloops and a Cal 20 sloop.

First of a new series to promote racing among skippers who have never raced before and experienced racing skippers who keep their boats at the marina during the winter months, the new series will be run on a performance handicap which will take several races to establish. Sunday's races will help set the standard.

Al Mothershead provided his power boat as committee and starting vessel. Starters and recorders were Mrs. Frances Barker and Mrs. Carol Ferguson.

Only Two Texts Late for School Official Replies

F. R. Levirs, provincial superintendent of education, today said "I can't comment" on complaints that curriculum guides are slow in arriving in the schools.

But he denied that there has been any delay in supplying school districts with the text books they ordered, except for two titles.

"Last week the B.C. Teachers' Federation said that teachers have to play a guessing game without curriculum guides.

"It is absolutely inexcusable for these important publications to be delayed," a spokesman said.

The statement also said text book shortage is hurting programs for thousands of students.

Mr. Levirs said that "so far as I am aware, the original orders for text books were filled on time, except for two new titles which were not received from the publishers."

He said there has been delay in supplementary orders of text books from school districts which did not accurately calculate the number of texts they would require.

Horse Causes Pileup

ULM, West Germany (AP)—A runaway horse caused a series of collisions which left 40 cars virtually wrecked and 10 persons injured Sunday. The horse strayed onto the Stuttgart-Ulm Highway after escaping from a van. He was hit by a car and killed, and the succeeding vehicles piled up one after another.

RE-ELECTED for a fourth term as mayor of Montreal Sunday was Jean Drapeau, 50. A lawyer, Drapeau was elected first in 1954, largely for his reputation as a crime buster. De-feated in 1957, he returned to win three consecutive terms in office.

HOSPITAL ACCIDENT KILLS INFANT

SASKATOON (CP)—A seven week-old infant, Kevin Kuntz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benedictus Kuntz of Saskatoon, was killed Saturday night when a piece of hospital equipment fell on him.

Police said the baby, who was being treated as an out-patient at City Hospital for a chest condition, was lying on an X-ray table when part of the X-ray machine fell on him. His mother and an X-ray technician were standing by at the time of the accident.

Laos Rebels Crushed

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—National Laoian forces appeared Saturday to be in firm control of the country after recapturing the Savannakhet air base strong-hold of rebellious Brig-Gen. Thao Ma, who is said to have taken refuge in Thailand.

'DIRTY FINKS' WIN

Rockwell Rally Fizzles

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—George Lincoln Rockwell's anti-Negro "white power" rally was drowned out by more than 1,000 counter-demonstrators Saturday and then cut off by police when it appeared antagonism toward the American Nazi party leader might erupt into violence.

With placards reading "Go home Nazi," "Ban the bigots" and other anti-Fascist slogans dotting San Francisco's civic centre, Rockwell tried for about 12 minutes to speak to the booing, jeering, egg-throwing crowd.

At one point he said: "I'm going to stay up here until you dirty finks let me speak."

The crowd, which was swollen to several thousand by curious spectators, was expected by police, Rockwell had announced at a press conference earlier in the week that his Nazi followers and members of the white-supremacist Ku Klux Klan would hold the rally and student groups at San Francisco State had promptly promised a counter-demonstration.

END OF COLORFUL LIFE seems to be near for famous Victoria tug Sudbury. Laid up at the Island Tug & Barge wharf for nearly a year, the Sudbury is to be scrapped, according to waterfront rumors. The heroine of many deep-sea towing jobs, she requires extensive work on her boilers before being classed seaworthy again. A spokesman for Island

Tug & Barge, Ltd., said no definite decision has yet been made on her future. But he admitted it would be costly to re-equip her, especially since the company now has the Sudbury II to handle deep-sea tows. Built as a naval corvette in 1941, the Sudbury was bought by Island Tug in 1954 and refitted for rescue operations.

Halfway House For Women Proposed Here

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Halfway Houses for women recovering from alcoholism are needed in Canada.

So says Miss Beatrice Wilson of Toronto, associate secretary of the national board of women of the United Church of Canada, now visiting Victoria.

The United Church now operates Halfway Houses for men at Hamilton, Calgary and Edmonton. They provide a home-like atmosphere for men who have been cured of compulsive drinking but lack the confidence to return to normal life.

"They have proved their usefulness," Mrs. Wilson said, "and with the spread of alcoholism among women, I believe we could cater for them also."

EXPERIMENTING
Miss Wilson said the United Church is experimenting with two Halfway Houses for men who have completed terms in jail.

"The idea is the same—to restore their confidence in a natural, home-like environment and to help them find employment. We try to avoid any kind of institutional atmosphere."

On a national speaking tour, Miss Wilson is guest of honor at a one-day conference of United Church Women in First United Church today. She was to speak at a dinner beginning at 5:30 p.m. at which Mrs. R. J. Young, vice-president of the Victoria Presbyterian, was to be in the chair.

TOO SILENT

"Women are active in many fields of our church work," Miss Wilson said, "but I believe they should take a more active role in policy-making. Too often they are the silent members at church council meetings."

"I believe, too, that we should be more active in social service effort such as senior citizen activities, home nursing and auxiliary work in hospitals."

Miss Wilson became the first woman member of the Toronto Presbyterian of the United Church in 1944. The Presbyterian now has 25 women out of a total membership of 100.

The Victoria conference of United Church Women opened with a worship service this morning and was followed by group discussions, reports and a question period.

50 Callers Support Drive To Cut High Food Prices

The man who wants housewives to protest high food prices said today he has had about 50 telephone calls of support in the last few days.

Gerry Gieskens, 558 Sumas, said a small meeting of interested persons was held and another will be held shortly.

Then, he hoped, a public meeting could be called.

BALLROOM RECEPTION MARKS LAUNCHING OF CARR BOOK

Publication of the book, "Hundreds and Thousands, the Journals of Emily Carr," will be marked with a reception tonight in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

Invitations for the affair, which is not open to the public, have been issued by Mrs. W. H. Clarke, president, and the board of directors of Clarke Irwin & Company, publishers of the book.

Chief speaker will be provincial archivist Wilfrid Ireland and a group of Emily Carr's paintings taken from private collections will be on display.

Art Critic Rapped On Emily Carr Book

A sharp reply to Times art columnist Robin Skelton was issued today by Mrs. W. H. Clarke, president of Clarke, Irwin & Co., the publishers of "Hundreds and Thousands: The Journals of Emily Carr."

She took issue with his bitter attack on the book in his Saturday night column on the eve of Emily Carr Week, which also marks the launching of the publication.

Mrs. Clarke is in Victoria as hostess of a special reception in the Empress Hotel tonight to honor the famous artist.

NO REVIEW

Text of Mrs. Clarke's statement:

"I have read the article by Robin Skelton given such prominence in the Saturday issue of the Victoria Daily Times on 'Hundreds and Thousands: The Journals of Emily Carr.' I cannot call it a review because the writer completely fails to attempt an evaluation of the author's work; he concentrates instead in an immoderate way on matters which, after mature thought, the publishers had decided were out of place in a volume of this nature—an index and footnotes—and he showed a complete ignorance of production costs in his comment on the 12 colored plates contained in the book. His doubts about the reliability of the text are insulting and utterly unfounded. Whatever his motivation, it was not that of the publishers who have taken a genuine pride in bringing to the public this valuable record of the years between 1927 and 1941 in the life of Emily Carr, a period during which her work and thought underwent a profound change and development. Even a cursory examination of the book would have revealed to him what a rich and wonderful document it is.

"In view of Mr. Skelton's extraordinary distaste and the curious report headlined in the Daily Times of October 7th it is perhaps also necessary for me to note that the publishers postponed the publication date of the journals for a month, to coincide with Emily Carr Week, at the request of its Victoria sponsors, and that any change in the arrangements to launch the book was solely due to an unfortunate breakdown in the original plans made in conjunction with the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria. Rather than abandon our support of Emily Carr Week altogether we were forced to make alternative arrangements.

"Although mystified by the implications of these two articles, we are pleased to support the Centennial Society who are enthusiastically and imaginatively seeking to honor Emily Carr, the B.C. writer and artist whose genius is now internationally acclaimed."

Film Klee Wyck Showing Tuesday

The film Klee Wyck will be shown Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. at Assembly Hall of Metropolitan United Church, to mesh with other Emily Carr Week activities.

The Amica Unit of Metropolitan United Church Women is sponsoring the showing of the centennial commission film.

Man Pleads Not Guilty To Assault

A young Victoria man pleaded not guilty in central court today to a charge of assaulting with intent to rob a 64-year-old man Saturday.

James Griffiths, address unavailable, was remanded on $1,000 bail until Thursday afternoon.

Victim of an assault, James Barr of 2424 Wark Street, is in Royal Jubilee Hospital with a broken right arm. He is reported in "quite good" condition.

Mr. Barr told police he was attacked at 2:30 a.m. Saturday by a "wrench-wielding youth" as he walked north on Quadra Street.

When Mr. Barr told the youth he wasn't carrying a wallet he said the youth clubbed him and fled.

General Allard Here Tuesday On First Visit

General J. V. Allard, chief of defence staff for the Canadian Forces, will pay his first official visit to Victoria Tuesday since taking over his present position.

The general will meet Pacific Maritime Commander, Rear Admiral John A. Charles, during a tour of Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, in the morning.

During the afternoon he will tour Work Point Barracks.

U.N. Charter Anniversary Marked Here

Today's world is an international one, and the globe in a few hours, United Nations Association members were told Saturday.

Dr. Malcolm Taylor, University of Victoria president, was speaker at a gathering of 150 persons in Empress Hotel marking the anniversary of the UN charter 21 years ago today.

People of the world are no longer abstracts to one another, Dr. Taylor said. They are becoming known as people.

They live in an "international village," made by the tremendous advances in communications in the space of a few years.

And about some things they can be distressingly casual—as in references to "nuclear hardware"—without stating the implied horror.

'LOVE — OR DIE'

Dr. Taylor said it is a time when, in the words of W. H. Auden, people "must love one another or die."

The role of the United Nations had not diminished—it is still a forum for nations split by different ideologies and political aspirations.

But it also needs a vehicle at its disposal for speedy and decisive action when danger threatens, Dr. Taylor said.

What of the future role? The speaker quoted American foreign secretary Dean Rusk, who pointed out the most dramatic reversal of intended role for the United Nations.

The UN may not always bring nations together, but on occasion keep them apart by becoming "man in the middle" as it did so effectively in the Congo and Middle East.

Dr. Taylor said the development of the international community is striking, no longer an ideal, but a fact for better or for worse.

Man Jailed For Stealing Friend's Car

A 28-year-old Duncan man who stole a drinking companion's car to drive home was given a four-month jail sentence in central court today.

Harold Lucier pleaded guilty to the Saturday auto theft.

Police told the court Lucier parted from his friend in Victoria saying he was going to call a taxi to return to Duncan.

Several hours later his friend noticed his car was gone.

Lucier was arrested at Mill Bay in the stolen auto.

THEY KNEW HE WAS COMING SO . . .

A cake in the shape of a ship was presented to Premier Bennett by a B.C. Ferries crew Saturday to mark the premier's 25th year in politics.

The impromptu tribute was made to the premier by D shift on the Queen of Vancouver on the 9 a.m. run from Swartz Bay to Tsawwassen.

Ship cooks just finished decorating the cake as the ferry approached Tsawwassen. As the premier was leaving he was asked to stay in the dining room where the crew assembled to make the presentation.

FINANCING PLAN

Oak Bay to Bare Hospital Formula

By JIM HUME

Greater Victoria municipal leaders will meet this week to discuss an Oak Bay proposal designed to solve hospital financing problems.

But Oak Bay Reeve Alan Cox today declined to reveal his proposals.

"This is just an Oak Bay proposal for other municipal leaders to consider," he said. "I don't think it would be right for them to read those proposals in the press before I have had a chance to state my case or my reasons for the proposals."

He did admit, however, that a meeting will be held in the near future to discuss his formula.

"I have requested a meeting and I think it could be said that it will be held in the near future, in fact almost immediately."

In Parksville Friday, when the Vancouver Island Regional Hospital Council met for its annual fall meeting to discuss hospital financing, one of the ## Second Ferry Due For Big Trailers?

By AB KENT

A site for its own freight ferry terminal is being sought near Swartz Bay by Canadian Pacific Railway.

A company spokesman today confirmed the company is planning to build a terminal to eliminate its temporary use of British Columbia Ferries facilities at Swartz Bay.

The CPR brought its first freight truck-trailer ferry into service this fall after a lengthy conversion of a tank landing craft into Trailer Princess.

It planned to use a government dock at Sidney to load vehicles for the voyage across Georgia Strait to downtown Vancouver.

But Sidney village commission passed a bylaw preventing trucks from using its streets from 10 p.m. to 10 a.m., forcing the CPR to move the terminal in order to provide overnight freight service.

The CPR is looking ahead to when it will be sole carrier of freight vehicles between the lower mainland and Vancouver Island.

SECOND FERRY

It is speculated the company will bring a second ferry into service within the near future, although spokesmen said they had no information on that subject.

By early next year the economics of freight-ferrying will force more carriers to use the CPR service, which is expected to necessitate an expanded operation.

Truckers who have relied on a drop-trailer system to keep down freight charges and operating costs on the waterborne portion of Victoria-Vancouver shipping, have been increasingly restricted in the number of trailers their trucks can drop on the government ferries.

They fully anticipate the discontinuation of drop trailers by next summer sailing season, when the ferries have all the private vehicle traffic they can normally handle.

ONLY ALTERNATIVE

The use of CPR freight-ferry service is the only alternative, which some truckers believe the government ferry authority is forcing.

B.C. Ferries general manager Monty Aldous said the original policy of the service was to cater to passengers and private vehicles and drop trailer restrictions merely extend this policy.

Wage Talk Reports Promised

The public will be kept informed about progress of teacher salary negotiations, school board chairman John Porteous said today.

The chairman was replying to a newspaper report that negotiations this year will be conducted in secret. The report was attributed to a teacher's representative.

Mr. Porteous said the board will issue a press release after each negotiating session.

He said the board so far does not know the cost of this year's proposals by the teachers. He said officials are trying to work out the exact sum.

Mr. Porteous said teachers are asking increases ranging from 7 to 25 per cent in various categories.

On Saturday, Gerald Guest, a negotiator for the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, said both board and teachers want to avoid publicity while negotiations are under way.

INCREASE PROMISED

Mr. Campbell also noted in his reply to Coun. Elford that a further increase in per capita grants had been promised by the provincial government for 1967.

His comments sparked a lunch discussion on the possibility that he had jumped the gun on an Oak Bay formula promised Oct. 12 by Reeve Cox to a meeting of the Victoria and District Hospital Planning Council.

At that meeting Reeve Cox said his proposal—which he declined to outline—was an interim financing plan for hospital construction.

He said then, as he repeated this morning, that he was not prepared to divulge details until formal discussions had taken place with other municipal leaders.

But at Parksville the Oak Bay secret was the topic of several conversations.

SET ASIDE

It involves the setting aside of future per capita increases to handle immediate hospital needs which, in the Greater Victoria area, have reached the critical stage.

Asked this morning if his council had approved such a move, Reeve Cox answered with an emphatic "no."

He repeated that his suggestion was at present no more than that.

"Whatever I have to say, and I am still not prepared to state details, it is as yet only a suggestion. It must remain so until after full discussion with other leaders," he said.

ENGLISH STUDENT HITCH-HIKES 9,000 MILES

It's All Tucked in His Rucksack

By TERRY IZZARD

Home to John Lewin is whatever he can carry on his back.

The 18-year-old Englishman arrived in Victoria today complete with wardrobe, dining room suite and bedroom.

All were packed into a rucksack barely large enough to hold a month's sock supply.

But in John's case, his wardrobe consists of a couple of shirts, a spare pair of slacks and miscellaneous sweaters.

His dining room suite is a plate, a cup and a knife, fork and spoon.

And his bedroom is a sleeping bag.

Not much of a home. But for John it's all he's going to have for the next year.

A university student from Cambridge, the blond-haired teen-ager is hoping to see the world—compliments of his thumb.

Since arriving in New York on a university charter flight in July, he has hitch-hiked some 9,000 miles through Canada and the U.S.

With only a few hundred dollars in his pocket, he has worked at various jobs from Chicago to Vancouver in order to keep the wolf from the door.

In Kitchener, Ont., he worked as a pipe cleaner at a rubber factory.

In Catskill, N.Y., he was a dish washer.

In Vancouver he was a banquet waiter.

Not bad for a youngster who, until arriving in North America, had no experience at anything except school work.

Son of a school principal, his trip began the day he was accepted as a geography student at Leicester, England, university.

Instead of entering the first year, he decided on a year of adventure and travel.

Now, he'll start his university course in the fall of 1967. Meanwhile, he'll head for California in the next few days to see the places that so far have been only names on a map.

After that he'll cut across the southern U.S. before deciding what country to see next.

"Maybe I'll go to Japan for a while," he said. "Then I'd like to see Australia and New Zealand."

"But before going back to England I'm going to return to Canada to see Montreal and the World's Fair."

While in Victoria, John has one special desire:

"I've heard there are some fabulous homes here with butlers and maids. I'd love to see inside one."

SEEING THE WORLD before starting university next year is John Lewin, of Leicester, England.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert H. Byers, 1679 Cedar Avenue, announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Sylvia Mae, to Mr. John Gordon Sanderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sanderson, 940 Queens Avenue. The wedding will take place on Saturday, November 5, at 8 p.m., in Centennial United Church. (Chevron Studio.)

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

As my readers know, I do not believe in age consciousness. In fact, I think it is as damaging as some chronic diseases, and it is a ailment many women at about the same age.

I think that middle-aged women should be interested in new styles and experiment with new ideas in makeup. However, one rule should always be adhered to. Is it flattering to you? If not, don't use it or wear it. There is always enough leeway so that you can follow this rule and still look up-to-date. You do not have to wear skirts above your knees or white makeup in order to do so.

There are definite hazards to remember. Very few women this age look best with hair to the shoulders. Hair should be off the neck and arranged in one of the soft up-to-date styles. The latest idea is to have long and straight-hanging tresses. There are extra hairpieces available for this fashion. However, these are for rather dressy occasions and not for the club meeting or church or shopping or putting the soup on or baby-tending. The vogue now is for more color in powder and foundation. The blusher is popular. The whitish, no-makeup look, simply makes an older woman appear exhausted and washed out. She is most flattered by a foundation which matches her skin tone. However, if the latter needs a little pickup the foundation might have a bit more pink in it. The powder should be slightly lighter in color than the foundation.

Another hazard; the habit of applying makeup with too heavy a hand. Sometimes, in the wish to compensate for signs of aging, women use too much makeup. I do not mean that they use too many cosmetics, but that they apply them too heavily.

For instance, apply powder and base lightly over wrinkles. As a matter of fact some makeup experts suggest using only the foundation and not any powder over wrinkles or on a crepey neck.

If you use rouge, use it lightly and high on the face. If it is placed lower it adds to any droop you may have. The blusher are much more popular today.

DEAR ABBY...

How Do You Look Upon Beauty?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Your advice is usually pretty good, but this time I think you flopped. No, Abby, a pregnant woman is not beautiful. Unless you want to call a woman whose face is puffed up, and whose ankles are swollen to twice their size, and who appears to be concealing a 55-pound watermelon under her dress "beautiful."

SEES MYSELF.

DEAR ABBY: In 1914 a little 12-year-old boy named Harry watched his mother as she stood at the kitchen stove stirring a pot of oatmeal. Harry suddenly noticed an unusual radiance in his mother's face. Never before had she looked so beautiful! When he remarked on it, she only smiled.

A few months later the mother gave birth to a baby boy. Harry did not know at the time of his remark that his mother was expecting a child, but he couldn't fail to notice the exceptional radiance that fairly beamed from her face.

I was that boy, Abby. And no one will ever convince me that a pregnant woman does not have a special heavenly beauty about her. I saw it.

H. I. S. (DALLAS).

DEAR ABBY: I usually agree with you, but when you made the statement that there was "beauty" in a pregnant woman, that's where you lost me.

Anything that is not normal is not beautiful. And the shape that a woman gets into (or out of) while she is with child is anything but normal. Granted, it is only temporary, but it's abnormal all the same.

I have been married for 12 years, have nine children with a tenth on the way, and I have been in that blimp-like condition enough to know how unlovely I look.

OUT OF SHAPE.

DEAR OUT: If you have been pregnant 10 times in 12 years, then I would say that pregnancy is the normal condition for you. DEAR ABBY: I am glad you said you thought a pregnant woman is in a sense "beautiful." I agree with you. And it is because they are playing such a big part in the miracle of God's creation that they are.

Over in France during the First World War, I noticed Frenchmen of all ages tipping their hats to pregnant women as they passed them on the streets. I inquired about this, and was told it was a custom to show respect. I thought this was a lovely gesture and have often wondered why we don't do it here?

W. L. S.

DEAR W. L. S.: Maybe it's just as well. What with the new fashionable "tent" dresses, a gentleman couldn't be sure which ladies qualify for such "respect."

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

All Ties in Knots? Hang 'Em All on This

By Penny Saver

If your closet is like ours, it is an adventure to open it—you never can tell what is going to jump out. Our cats find it a wonderful place to curl up in during the afternoon, and if their nap is disturbed by an intruder, they come leaping out with hackles rising and mean looks in their eyes. They usually attack the intruder from either side—the noise you hear is stereo growling. I was almost strangled one time when I ventured a little farther into the dark closet. A tangled mass of neck ties fell from out of nowhere.

If you are at loose ends as to what to do with all those neckties, you are in dire need of the item that I found. It's a tie rack perfect for your closet. This German import is like a double ladder with a leather division between the sets of "rungs." There are 12 of these rungs in all, which leaves plenty of room for all the ties in the house.

There is a hook on top of this device so that it can hang safely with the rest of your clothes. Priced at $3, this item may save your neck!

I don't know about you, but when I travel I carry an assortment of pills—some for simple headaches, colds, air sickness and a variety of others. This shop has a very interesting and different type of pill case. It contains five vials, each with a different colored lid that snaps on. Above this is a chart with each of the five colors, with a space above where you write the type of pill in each bottle.

The case itself has a metal bottom and side pieces. When you open the lid, which is attached to the side pieces, the whole metal "shell" of pills is pulled up so that you don't have to turn the case upside down or anything in order to lift out a vial. This leather case with the plastic bottles is priced at $7.50.

Why just hope for fast relief from pain—be sure to get DOLCIN. Money back unless fully satisfied.

For Daughter's Vows

HERE FROM PERU

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davies travelled from their home in Lima, Peru, to attend the recent wedding of their daughter, Viviana, and Brian Michael McCoy in St. Andrew's Cathedral. Also attending from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Evans of Winnipeg.

The groom's guardians are Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Culverwell, 634 Admirals Road.

Floral arrangements in gold, rust and bronze tones decorated the church for the service at which Fr. W. Kennedy officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an exquisite floor-length gown, enhanced with a panel of lace on the bodice and skirt. The lace was repeated on the sleeves of the gown and on her gloves. Her short veil misted from a tiara of pearls and she chose pink and white carnations, roses and chrysanthemums for her bouquet.

Her only attendant, Miss Elizabeth King, was in a floor-length gown of pink and she carried a bouquet of roses on tone.

Brian Fagan was best man, and ushering the guests to their pews were William Dichte and James McGhee.

Tom Wheatley proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed in the Tally-Ho Travelodge.

The couple will be making their new home at 224 Shelbourne Street, following a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs. For travelling, the new Mrs. McCoy donned a navy blue suit which she accented with red accessories.

A treat to tempt even the most reluctant palate is offered by these women at the bazaar of Victoria Chapter Hadassah. Casting approving eyes at some of the items to be featured at the home-baking stall, Wednesday, are, left to right, bazaar co-conveners Mrs. M. L. Greene, Mrs. A. Klenman, Mrs. L. Shaffer, Mrs. H. Alexander and Mrs. G. Conn. Also convening the affair is Mrs. R. D. Burer. Miss Elizabeth Forbes will open the event at 11 a.m., in Holyrood House. Other attractions besides the authentic Jewish foods to be sold for luncheon, at the home bake table and delicatessen will be a French room, white elephants, handicrafts, lucky dip and a display of Israeli-made patina ashtrays and dishes. Proceeds will go toward the buying of food, clothing and medical supplies for the state of Israel. (Robin Clarke.)

Held in St. Patrick's Church

SMITH-SCHWAGLY SERVICE

Following their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth George Smith left on a honeymoon tour of California, Nevada, Washington and Montana. The bride is the former Johanna Maria E. A. Schwagly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. P. Schwagly, 1759 Carrick Street. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Smith, 910 Foul Bay Road. St. Patrick's Church, Oak Bay, was decorated with arrangements of chrysanthemums in autumn shades for the ceremony at which Fr. William Mudge officiated.

Plan To Live in Burnaby Following Honeymoon Trip

Following their honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Earl Kirkwood will travel to South Burnaby, where they will be making their home. The bride, the former Diane Marguerite Copp, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Copp, 1320 Burleigh Crescent, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. Kirkwood of Malarie, P.Q. Arrangements of pink carnations and white chrysanthemums decorated First United Church, Saturday evening, for the service at which Rev. Marvin G. Fowler officiated.

During the signing of the register, organist Mrs. U. Bunt accompanied Mrs. E. Irwin who sang "All Joy Be Thine." Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire-line gown of white satin brocade, which she made herself. A full train swept back from the shoulders of the gown and the bodice featured a round neckline and 11 1/2 point sleeves. A white satin coronet, set with mother-of-pearl accents, held the bride's three-tier veil of silk illusion net. Deep pink sweetheart roses and ivy formed her bouquet and she wore pearls as jewelry.

Matching empire-line gowns of pale turquoise brocade were worn by matron of honor Mrs. Floyd Haller and bridesmaid Miss Donna Palmer. Their

Mother Here from Saskatchewan For Daughter's Recent Wedding

Mrs. Joe A. Elder travelled from her home in Revenue, Sask., to attend the wedding of her daughter, Margaret, to Mr. David H. Alsdorf. The bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gerien, travelled from Unity, Sask., for the ceremony.

The wedding took place in St. Andrew's Cathedral, with Fr. A. I. MacDonald officiating. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Philips, 3570 Beach Drive.

Organist Jack Lennaghan accompanied soloist Mrs. M. J. T. Fortune, who sang "Ave Maria."

Given in marriage by George Molnar, the bride wore a gown of satin starred with velvet floral appliques. The train extended back from the empire waistline. Her veil was shoulder-length, and she carried a bouquet of Baccara roses.

Similar gowns in aqua tones were worn by the bride's attendants. The floor-length gowns were styled along empire lines. Bridesmaids wore matching gossamers, and they carried single long stemmed roses.

Miss Donna Carpenter was maid of honor and bridesmaids were the Misses Cherrie Dobbie and Sharon Lynch.

Charles McGilvery was best man, and ushering guests were David Broad and Tom Glenay.

Coffee Party

Conveners of the annual festival of Christmas Decorations, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service, will gather in the Cook Street home of Mrs. D. C. Caldwell, Wednesday, for a coffee party. Plans and changes will be discussed.

STUDENTS ASK

Does Berton Really Believe It?

By ELIZABETH FORBES
If I got the message, Pierre Berton seemed determined to put across when he spoke in the Student Union Building on the Uvic campus, then there is a war going on in Canada.

It's a bloodless war of course, but a war nevertheless. The struggle is centred around transfer of power from the "old guard" to the new, from the "image makers" who would keep the status quo and a generation that says break it.

This take-over generation is much younger than any that has gone before. Much stronger and much more vocal because it includes for the first time in the experience of this country, Second World War babies grown now to impatient maturity.

Although he stands with the old guard by accident of birth, Mr. Berton insisted his sympathies are all with the new. In fact, he conceded nothing to the older generation, not even the benefits of experience gained from the years.

"Time," he said, also brought hardening of the arteries. In one of the few instances that he quoted statistics, it was to show that today 50 per cent of Canada's population is in the 25-and-under age group.

It is from this restless, seeking mass, that he believes leaders in every field, from politics to business, would soon be recruited.

He warned that this new guard would scrap many of our accepted rules of procedure, change our moral standards (they are out-of-date anyway, he inferred) and replace them with freedoms that would allow everyone to do pretty much as he liked.

He tossed off some of these freedoms as "taxi cabs" to be saved and then acquired. They included free love and free living, less work and more leisure, freedom to read anything that is printed with no restrictions of any kind and at the other end of the scale, years of free education.

It was even suggested that eventually, those who seek education will be paid to remain in university as long as they wish.

In a question period that followed, the speaker was asked how such freedoms would be financed. By taxation, he said. "If you want the good things of life, you must be prepared to pay for them."

Who would pay these taxes he was asked, presuming that 50 per cent of the population was still 25 years and under and enjoying leisure time, free love and continuing education. The other 50 per cent, was the quick reply.

No one pointed out that in that group there would be a hefty number of the despised "old guard" nearing pension age and therefore not eligible for higher taxes.

Another questioner urged Pierre Berton to explain how he would convince the people that such taxes were necessary. He'd leave that to heads of government far better qualified for the job than himself, he said glibly.

Then he passed quickly to another raised hand.

It all made for an entertaining evening. And I suppose it left those students still young enough to believe in some sort of far-out Utopia, fully convinced that anyone over 25 in the audience was very definitely "old guard."

Not all, however. There were students who accepted Mr. Berton's ideas with reservations.

For instance, the group near me as I moved out of the hall.

A tall young man with an earnest questioning face was saying to those around him "I wonder how much of that he really believes."

The answer was a succession of raised eyebrows and expressive shrugs.

'Scotland on the Screen' At McPherson Theatre Soon

A series of film shorts, entitled Scotland on the Screen, will be presented at the McPherson Playhouse Nov. 3 at 8 p.m. by the St. Andrews and Obedson Society.

The six color films on Scottish life and natural beauties range from 15 minutes to half an hour. Narrator will be H. Forsyth Hardy, director of Films of Scotland and Edinburgh Film Festival secretary.

Films on the program are: Holiday Scotland, a tour of castles, abbeys, Loch Lomond and the Trossachs; The Edinburgh Festival, featuring music, art, ballet and opera events; Hebridean Highway, following the Road to the Isles; The Hollow Mountain, which spotlights Scotland's recent industrial development; Living in

U.K. CHAMPIONS MEET UVIC DEBATING TEAM

Four University of Victoria students will match wits Nov. 1 with two British debaters.

The Britishers are students—Lord James Douglas-Hamilton of Edinburgh University and Ian Forrester of Glasgow University. They are touring Canadian universities.

They will take a stand against the Uvic proposal "That Extremism in the Defence of Liberty is No Vice" in a formal debate at 12:30 p.m. in the student union building. Uvic debaters will be Mike Hutchison and Gail Nash.

The Britishers will split to debate with Uvic students Steve Stark and Nick Lang in an evening session at 8 o'clock on the topic "That Party Politics is for Men Without Principle."

Judges for both debates are still to be chosen.

Lord James Douglas-Hamilton, 24, second son of the Duke of Hamilton and Brandon, attended Eton, Oxford's Balliol College, and Edinburgh University, where he is working towards his LL.B. honors degree.

He is a former president of the Oxford Debating Union and president of the debating group at Edinburgh University, where he organized a "teach-in" on Rhodesia in 1965.

Ian Forrester, 21, holds MA and LL.B. (Hons) degrees from Glasgow University and is president of the Dialectic Society there.

Toy Pekingese Wins Opening Day Honors

Alderbourne Ogle of Coughton, a toy Pekingese owned by Lloyd Stacy of Tacoma, Wash., captured the award for the best dog in show at the Victoria City Kennel Club trials Friday at Sanscha Hall.

The best Canadian-bred dog in show was Karasea's Silver Nikki, a samoyed owned by Mrs. Vera E. Gowdyk of Richmond.

Other results for the first day of the two-day show follow: Best Canadian-bred puppy in show, Smyle's Star of Success, owned by David Gallant of Vancouver. The cocker spaniel also won the Mrs. J. F. O. Wood's perpetual trophy for the best Canadian-bred puppy in show.

Best sporting dog was Whinbrae's Romany Rye, C.D., a golden retriever owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart of Alberni. The dog also won the trophy for the best Canadian-bred in sporting.

SPORTING PUPPY
Best Canadian-bred sporting puppy was Smyle's Star of Success.

Aladins' Torch of Ahab's Tent, an Afghan owned by Forrest H. Hansen and Donald D. McElvay of Seattle, was judged the best hound.

Bravura Style Lovers To Enjoy Richard Norris

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Lovers of the bravura style in music will be particularly happy attending tonight's concert by Victoria Symphony Orchestra and guest artist Richard Norris, at the Royal Theatre.

Not only does the solo pianist live up to his advance reputation as a notable proponent of the virtuoso music of Liszt, but the orchestra under Otto-Werner Mueller provides what, in many ways, is a quite incredible performance of Tchaikovsky's awesome Second Symphony.

In fact, the orchestra's virtuosity in the symphony finale even outshone the effect of the pianist's in the Liszt Concerto.

Mr. Norris, California-born and a disciple of the late great Dutch pianist, Egon Petrie, has such a fluent and comprehensive technique that he can play this music — the E flat major, No. 1 — without making his listener uncomfortably conscious of its prodigious difficulties.

Although the music is sheer showmanship, Mr. Norris minimizes this aspect by a style devoid of mannerism and a performance that is marked by sensitivity, a sympathetic touch and considerable grace in phrasing.

CLEAN, CRISP
The clean, crisp vitality of passage work and octaves is warmed by a pleasing romantic spirit in the more lyric episodes, but I wish that Mr. Norris had given us something other than Liszt with his encores.

It would have been interesting to have considered him in greater depth.

Orchestrally this was a less comfortable concerto performance than some Mr. Mueller has given us. Soloist and orchestra did not have as close a communion as one could desire for a satisfying total effect.

Brahms' profound and moving "Tragic" Overture opens the program.

Among the music that Mueller has special gifts for interpreting, is the philosophical-poetical creation of Brahms. Certainly the outline was here on Sunday, the indication of a potentially fine reading.

But we never really found our way into the heart of the matter, the players seeming to be more conscious of means than material.

APPREHENSION
In the Tchaikovsky, just at first, one felt some apprehension, particularly with regard to difficult string entries and rhythm.

But there came a lovely horn solo and then, in the second movement, a powerful rhythmic control developed.

The scherzo was vibrant, clean and buoyant. But it was in the finale that the orchestra rose to a pitch of sheer brilliance it has seldom, if ever, equalled.

Setting an extreme "allegro vivo" tempo, Mr. Mueller seemed to breathe fire into his players, inspiring them to a truly pulse-stirring conclusion.

Lower Cadet Age?
VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia air cadet committee recommended Saturday that the minimum age of air cadets be lowered from 14 to 13 years of age. At the annual meeting of the committee, attended by 150 delegates representing 36 squadrons throughout B.C., the resolution passed unanimously. It now will be sent to the Air Cadet League of Canada headquarters in Ottawa for consideration.

FAIRBANKS ... shared limelight ... PICKFORD ... bought all her films

TO HER OLD FILMS

Pickford Amazed At Paris Response

By DOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Presenting Taming of the Shrew, starring the movies' highest-paid, most popular couple, she in her first Shakespearean role.

Does that sound like Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton in their latest co-starring film? Yes, but the description also fits a movie that was made 37 years ago and soon will be seen once more by film audiences.

The Mary Pickford — Douglas Fairbanks version of the Shakespeare comedy will open an engagement at the Tivoli Plaza theatre in West Los Angeles Nov. 4. Matty Kemp, who oversees the film interests of the Toronto-born Miss Pickford, explained how it came about.

"The whole thing started last year when the Cinematheque Francaise in Paris wanted to have a retrospective tribute to Mary. At first she was reluctant to accept. She had bought up as many of her old films as she could find and held onto them jealously. She said that she had pleased her own generation and she wanted the films to be destroyed at her death."

But we never really found our way into the heart of the matter, the players seeming to be more conscious of means than material.

DESPITE THE CORN
Green Acres Zooms In First TV Ratings

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Some observers of the television scene drew this lesson from the first Nielsen ratings of the 1966-67 season: never underestimate the value of corn.

This is the attitude of certain sophisticates who sniff at the fact that among the top 10 shows in audience ratings were such offerings as Green Acres, Gunsmoke, The Andy Griffith Show and Beverly Hills Cop.

Green Acres captured the No. 2 position below the blockbuster Sunday night movie, The Bridge on the River Kwai. Do they grow corn on those Green Acres?

"I don't think so," says Jay Sommers, who created, co-wrote and produces the series. "I think it's a fairly sophisticated show."

DOESN'T CARE
Sommers, a rotund, owlish veteran of the gag-writing jungle, doesn't really care what the smart crowd thinks of Green Acres. It's his baby, and as long as the public buys it, that's all that matters.

The inspiration for the show came from Sommers' boyhood, of which two years were spent on a farm in Greendale, N.Y. His stepfather went broke trying to earn a living from the soil, and the experiences remained with the boy.

"The secret of Green Acres' success? 'I think it appeals to a basic human urge: everyone would like to buy a farm,' Sommers theorized. 'And we came up with a brilliant combination in Eddie Albert and Eva Gabor. They work together like a dream.'"

Smallpox Epidemics Still Rage in Areas

By WALTER C. ALVAREZ

When people tell me that today smallpox is not much of a disease, they are wrong. I can show them statistics recently gathered by the World Health Organization that show that last year in the world some 52,000 people had smallpox, and the usual one in 10 died. Epidemics still rage in the Orient, in Africa and in South America.

Alvarez

I was just reading a remarkable article by Peter H. Woods, a Rhodes Scholar who, while in Oxford, wrote up much research as to the health problems of the first Puritans who came to Massachusetts. He tells of the ship Talbot which left England in April, 1629 with 100 Puritans aboard. Unfortunately, one passenger — a Mr. Browne, had smallpox. As a result, soon a little girl came down with it in so malignant a form that before morning she was dead. The rest of the people on the ship were immune because they had all had smallpox. In those days everyone had to have it.

Strangely, in spite of the failure of the Puritans on the Talbot to get the disease in its acute form, they carried with them the live virus, and on reaching America, they gave smallpox to the Indians. This caused the poor natives to die off like flies. Never having had any contact with the disease, the Indians had no immunity to it. It was lucky for the Puritans that the smallpox killed off most of the Indians because otherwise the Indians might have killed off the Puritans.

Similarly, the early explorers, like Capt. Cook who visited Polynesia sometimes gave the people a terrible epidemic of either smallpox or measles. Evidently, for months, healthy persons can carry in their bodies a live virus.

I was much impressed a few years ago when I read the story of an Eskimo who traveled several days by dog-sled to Churchill — a small town on the shore of Hudson Bay. There he spent two days buying supplies, and then he traveled back to his village. Soon after he got home, most of the children in the place came down with polio. The Eskimo who had traveled did not get polio, and the people in Churchill did not get polio until some days after the Eskimo left there.

Shortly before the Salk vaccine started to wipe out polio, but after experts had learned how to demonstrate the virus in a person's blood, it was shown that anyone who came into a house where a child had polio, soon had the virus in him. Even the boy who delivered the groceries at the kitchen door could pick up the virus.

Some years ago, a man and his wife who were anti-vaccinationists decided to write a book to substantiate their belief in the uselessness of vaccine against smallpox. So they went into libraries and soon were reading about the terrible epidemics of smallpox that wiped out most of the Indians in the United States.

These Indians had never met smallpox before, and there was no one around to vaccinate them. I remember reading how tribes living on the shores of the Missouri River took the infection from some Americans who were on their way to the far west. Soon most of the Indians were dying so fast that the few who survived could not bury their dead. After reading the stories of these awful epidemics, the two honest and truly scientific researchers changed their minds and wrote an excellent book to show how awful smallpox can be when it strikes people who never had the disease and never were vaccinated. I read the book with great interest, and I wish that all those who dislike health officers could read it.

Recently, when I wrote a column begging my readers not to listen to those "anti's" who hate scientists, physicians, health officers, and laboratory researchers, a woman wrote to tell me I was all wrong, and that laboratory research has never done anything for mankind. She assured me that the almost complete disappearance of horrible and once very common diseases, such as diphtheria, typhoid fever, and polio was due to our better hygiene and food and sanitation.

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winners in the Saturday duplicate bridge game held by the Victoria unit, American Contract Bridge League, were:

1. Molly Collins and Margaret Kirby; 2. Joan and Paul Smith; 3. Anne and Earle Dye; 4. William Lamb and Keith Stapleton; 5. Charlotte Dohan and Pansy Raymond; 6. (tie) Gwen Humphrys and Doris D'Amico; Leslie Stewart and Brian Larkey.

FREDERICTON (CP) — Instead of informing their parents of having been graded at the school year's end, pupils in New Brunswick will be talking of making "continuous progress."

Under a long-term program unveiled Friday by Education Minister W. W. McDermid, the grade system will disappear in the province — probably beginning in 1968.

Mr. McDermid told a press conference the program will provide almost a tailor-made education for each student, depending on his rate of learning and his abilities.

"It is designed to provide the maximum amount of education for the maximum percentage of children," he said.

The soonest the province could reasonably hope to start the program is 1968, but pilot projects containing some of its elements already are under way in several schools.

He said the program is the product of years of study by educationists and represents the best thinking and research on education in North America.

MOVES AT OWN RATE

A key principle at the elementary and junior high school levels will be what is called "continuous progress" in which a student moves ahead at his own rate of learning.

At the senior high school level, a major principle is "subject promotion," involving the use of individual time-tables for students.

In elementary classes, so-called "levels of work" will be established as a substitute for grades, permitting a student to advance to higher levels as he masters the work.

The elementary stage will be for six years, but could be completed in from five to seven years.

For students unable to complete successfully the regular elementary program "in any reasonable number of years," a system of opportunity classes will be provided.

At the senior high school level, the principle of "subject promotion" will be introduced which officials said is a natural outgrowth of "continuous progress."

PROVIDES 3 FACETS

Three facets will be provided: college preparatory and technical, general educational and occupational preparatory and practical.

During the three years of senior high school, a student will be required to take 18 courses, with one credit for each course successfully completed. A student will need 15 credits to graduate.

Eight of the courses will be compulsory and the other 10 will be selected by the student in accordance with his future plans.

The practical program will be for slower-learning students who have reached senior high school after spending "considerable time" in elementary and junior high school.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other attractive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions be asked to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas of Canada.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Mike Trube, age 11, of Galveston, Texas, for his question:

When was fingerprinting identification started?

Electric power was tamed and trained to perform useful duties long before the experts knew what makes it work. The story of fingerprinting is somewhat the same. It was used long before the experts suspected it could be developed into a fool-proof system of identification. Nobody knows when the first person thought of using a thumbprint to sign his name, but the custom is very old. Hundreds of years ago, kings of the Far East often signed documents with their royal thumbprints. Such a signature was supposed to be very special — and so it was. We know now that it was different from every other thumbprint in the world. What's more, no one could have duplicated the prints of any of his majesty's fingers or thumbs. No one at the time suspected that fingerprints were different.

This idea occurred to a Professor Purkinje early in the last century. He studied countless sample fingerprints and worked out a system to classify them in nine groups. In 1823 he read a scientific paper at the University of Breslau suggesting that fingerprints could be used to identify people. This notion fascinated a lot of people, especially the British and the French.

Fingerprinting Accepted

Sir William Herschel developed a workable system for using fingerprints as signatures, and Sir William Galton toiled to persuade England to accept fingerprint identification. In India, Sir E. R. Henry worked with the Bengal police to develop a fingerprinting system for catching crooks. Henry later became London's top police commissioner and naturally put his ideas into practice. England and the United States still use improved versions of the Henry fingerprinting system.

Purkinje's paper of 1823 led the French to develop their own system, which they still use. Meantime, in the United States, Gilbert Thompson saw a way to use fingerprint identification to prevent forgery. Thompson was on a geological survey in New Mexico, and this first American fingerprinting was done on government commissary orders in 1882.

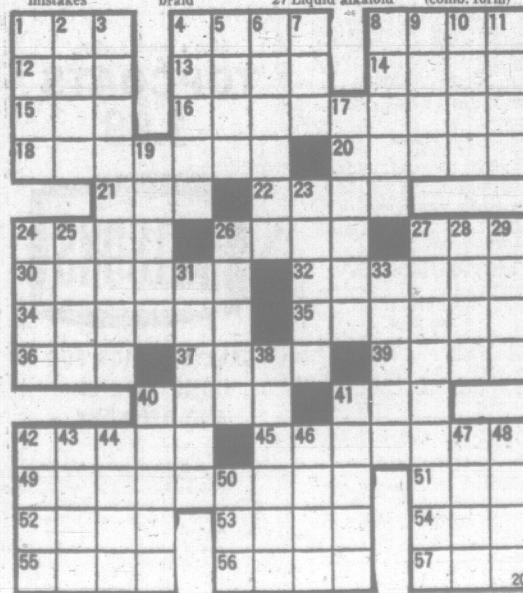

Several of police forces in the United States began using fingerprints, and in 1924 their collections were taken over by the new identification division of the FBI. This bureau now has the prints of more than 300 million people.

WRITERS ARE SUNG

The repertoire of the Stormy Clovers, Toronto folk-rock quartet, includes songs specially written for them by Gordon Lightfoot, Ian Tyson and poet Leonard Cohen.

How to Have Blooms In Winter Months

By JACK BEASTALL

Plants which flower during the winter months play an important role in local gardens, and the home gardener endeavors to add at least one each year.

Before their modest beauty can be enjoyed, we have to decide on a suitable place and then plant without delay.

Most of them can be bought growing in containers of one form or another, and therefore can be transferred to the garden now without any setback.

The first to come to mind, and suitable for any garden, are the winter flowering heathers. They are not particular as to soil, providing it is well worked and the plants set deeply so that the lower portions of the branches come out through the soil.

In the witch-hazel family we find several genera which contain species that flower during the winter.

First, there is the genus Hamamelis (hama-me-lis), the witch-hazel itself, of which H. mollis has a peculiar flower composed of four strap like petals to one inch long, and golden yellow in color.

A hybrid is H. intermedia, with a variety named Jalena, also listed as Copper-beauty. The petals are coppery-orange and slightly larger than those of H. mollis.

Flowering time for these can be any time from December into March, according to their position and the location of the garden. They have a perfume to those with a keen sense of smell.

The witch-hazels need quite a space when fully grown, for the eventual height can be around 10 feet with a spread from six to eight feet.

They require an open, sunny position, with some kind of shelter to the northeast to keep off our coldest winter winds.

SECOND PLANT BLAST KILLS 15 BELGIANS

MALINES, Belgium (UPI) — A huge explosion ripped through a munitions factory and damaged several nearby homes today. Officials said 15 persons were killed and at least 55 injured.

The blast was Belgium's second disaster in 48 hours. Nine persons were killed and seven injured in a chemical factory explosion and fire at Charleroi Saturday.

SOUTH VIETNAMESE CONCILIATORY

Peace Talk Marks Manila Conference

By JACK BROOKS
Special to the Times

MANILA — Seven Pacific nations marched arm in arm through the first day of the Asian summit here today in a session that went better than anybody expected.

Probable goal of the conference is a four-point program for peace and prosperity in Asia:

- Determination not to surrender to Communism in Viet Nam.
- Flexibility towards any Communist peace overtures.
- Regional co-operation to improve the lives of all Asian people.
- Concentration on pacification programs in Viet Nam, including a new amnesty for members of the Viet Cong who switch sides.

One diplomat involved in the talks said tonight: "I thought the meeting went better than it could possibly go. There was more unity apparent in the talks than I could have imagined with seven states involved."

An official communique on the talks is to be issued Tuesday afternoon.

JOHNSON SILENT

True to his promises, President Johnson played down his role in the talks. He spoke last and asked few questions. It is understood.

Sources also said no pressure was put any state to join in or agree with the others.

"They seemed to have agreed on most things before they even got here," a source said.

Highlights of the day's session were all reflected in the opening speeches and behavior of the leaders—plus one speech made later by South Viet Nam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Highlights were:

The anti-war attitude of chairman Nguyen Van Thieu, chief of state of South Viet Nam.

The restraint of President Johnson and the hopefulness of Ferdinand Marcos, president of the Philippines. Thieu, with Premier Ky at his side, made his most peaceful speech yet.

In Honolulu in February he had talked of "defeating" and "crushing" the Viet Cong. Since then he has talked of invading the north.

But at the summit here he declared: "Providing the principles of (protecting the territory and liberty of his people) are respected we are ready to examine any avenue which could lead to a just and lasting peace in Viet Nam."

NEGOTIATE WITH CONG

Presumably that would include negotiating with the Viet Cong which both Thieu and Ky have repeatedly said they would never do. Thieu also stressed his country is only "responding" to aggression and said its duration depends on what the aggressor does.

Then he added: "South Viet Nam has no desire of conquering or destroying any country or government. We shall ask in return no one attempt to destroy us and be happy to agree to stop fighting militarily once we are assured our freedom is no longer threatened."

Ky made his amnesty proposal in a speech devoted more to his "dream of a genuine social revolution" in South Viet Nam. He promised no retaliation to any Viet Cong who "come back safely and contribute to the task of rebuilding our nation." He said any who chose

DEATH TOLL SET AT 68 IN COLLISION OF SHIPS

MANILA (Reuters)—The death toll in a collision of two ships in Manila Bay rose to 68 today after the Philippine navy gave up hope of finding 21 missing passengers.

The missing persons are believed to have been trapped in cabins of the 776-ton inter-island passenger boat Pioneer Leyte, which sank after being in a collision with the 7,389-ton American freighter Golden State.

A total of 181 persons were rescued after the ships collided shortly after midnight Sunday night. The Golden State had only minor damage.

Flames Engulf Gasoline Tanker

MORGAN CITY, La. (AP)—Flames raged out of control through a loaded oil tanker 60 miles southwest of here today, forcing the crew to abandon ship. The U.S. Coast Guard said seven of the crew of 40 were missing.

The Gulfstar, a 572-foot vessel, was settling and believed sinking at mid-morning.

Another tanker, the Atlantic Larue, picked up 28 survivors, including Capt. Larry Larue. Two others were rescued by the Western Sun and seven were missing.

Larue said he believed the entire crew got off his burning ship. Most of the crew members were from Port Arthur, Tex., and sailed Sunday.

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter brought three badly burned sailors to a Morgan City hospital.

Coast guard planes, helicopters and cutters converged on the scene after the Gulfstar sent out an SOS distress signal, reporting a fire in its engine room and pump room.

Rescue ships were forced to keep their distance by the danger of an explosion. The Gulfstar was reported to be carrying 163,000 barrels of gasoline and intermediates.

Smoke and flames poured from the stricken vessel. The fire was believed to be feeding off bunker oil.

BENNETT

B.C. Grows Restless

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

British Columbia's official brief to the federal-provincial conference opening in Ottawa today repeated earlier demands in a significantly more angry tone.

The most menacing statement delivered by Premier Bennett in the brief to the conference was:

"The cases of discrimination against British Columbia need immediate correction if its citizens are to fully appreciate and support Confederation."

This conclusion followed Mr. Bennett's opening warning 12 pages earlier, that the conference was one of the most important since Confederation.

The results of our deliberations will largely determine the course the Canadian nation will take in its second century."

He emphasized his warning twice more in the text, telling the conference that "the people (of B.C.) are growing restless with the federal attitude" and they "have become highly resentful of the government of Canada continuing to ignore their pleas."

CRUCIAL AGREEMENT

The B.C. brief was released here this morning as 10 provincial delegations met with Prime Minister Pearson and his colleagues for a week of negotiations. The several topics include a crucial agreement on their respective shares of income taxes for the next five years.

He cited new evidence of B.C. prosperity but contended that it benefited all of Canada and the province was unwilling to be penalized any longer by long-standing federal fiscal policies.

He backed down somewhat in his previous criticism of the federal 11 per cent sales tax on materials used for hydro-electric projects. But he more than tripled his earlier estimate of the extra burden it creates for B.C.

Prime Minister Pearson's Ottawa would offer to pay half the operating costs of provincial education programs met one of the B.C. brief's demands for more assistance in this field.

But Mr. Bennett also asked for more sharing of hospital costs.

REVENUE GROWTH

The premier predicted that income tax revenues will grow faster than federal expenditures while provinces face the opposite situation.

He argued "past fiscal arrangements are outmoded" and called for totally new concepts, including an increase over the next five years of 10 percentage points in the provinces' share of personal income

3 Men Electrocuted

ALAMEDA, Calif. (CP)—Three men were killed and a fourth seriously injured today when a water well drilling rig touched a 14,000-volt overhead power line near this town, 150 miles southeast of Regina.

The water was estimated to be as deep as four feet at one point and several cars were washed from parking lots as water moved through the business section at about 15 miles an hour.

The residential area, on high ground, escaped the flooding. The Aluminum Company of Canada plant, the town's main industry, also escaped and was operating even though the eight-mile road from the residential area to the smelter was under 18 inches of water at 7 a.m.

The community's only road link to the outside — Highway 25 to Terrace — was severed in two places.

Extra Help To Education

OTTAWA — Prime Minister L. B. Pearson today offered the provinces over $90 million more next year for higher education, with additional amounts to come in the years ahead.

He said the federal government is willing to pay half the operating costs of education plus all the costs of job training for adults, amounting to $100 million next year. Ottawa already pays most of the cost of training and retraining adults for technological change.

He also dropped a broad hint in his opening statement to the federal-provincial conference that his federal government will have to raise taxes to provide this support for education.

"I feel bound to point out that the cost of this support for higher education must be carried by the taxpayers of Canada in one way or another — including the replacement of the revenue transferred," said the prime minister.

A federal government spokesman stressed at the opening of this crucial summit meeting that finance minister Mitchell Sharp's declaration made last September still stands. Sharp said that if provinces want more money they will have to impose their own taxes to raise funds that will probably have to be made up by additional taxes," said the federal spokesman.

The federal government proposes to transfer four percent of individual income tax revenue and one point of corporation income tax to the provinces. The text of Mr. Pearson's statement to the conference was issued late Sunday night to the premiers and the press.

Education Exception to Rule

He explained however that Mr. Sharp had made an exception in that statement at the tax structure committee meetings last month, to the question of education.

"We regard education as having such a high priority and so vitally important that the federal government makes an exception and is prepared to offer the provinces additional funds from the federal treasury, and the press.

How To Measure Provincial Need

The federal government suggested that the expenditure needs of the provinces in the field of higher education would best be measured by totaling the operating expenditures of the post-secondary institutions in each province.

This referred to the expenditures of universities, technical institutes and other post secondary schools or colleges that arise from the training of students who have their senior matriculation.

The prime minister's statement was complicated in its proposed fiscal transfer to the provinces to assist them in meeting rising post-secondary education operating and capital costs. The provincial premiers were analyzing it to see just how much more money their respective provinces would stand to gain.

Premier Daniel Johnson is expected to challenge immediately the move made by federal government to pay the costs for adult training on the grounds that it did not come within the definition of "education" and therefore was not invading the province's jurisdiction.

This new definition of "education" as laid down for constitutional purposes by the prime minister applies to students but does not apply to those who have been part of the labor force and return to class rooms to learn new skills.

Premiers Withhold Comment

The Quebec premier declined comment Sunday night. Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba could not be reached Sunday night and was reported arriving in Ottawa later in the evening.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and his group of experts were

Heavy Rains Flood Kitimat Business Area

KITIMAT (CP) — The Kitimat River, swelled by a weekend of torrential rain, flooded the low-lying business district in this northern community of 10,000 and severed nearby highways in at least three places early today.

At least 50 businesses were inches deep in water at the height of the early morning flooding. Six inches of water covered the lobby of the Gordon Hotel.

Six inches of rain fell during the weekend, but it stopped raining about 3 a.m. however, more showers are forecast for today.

The residential area, on high ground, escaped the flooding. The Aluminum Company of Canada plant, the town's main industry, also escaped and was operating even though the eight-mile road from the residential area to the smelter was under 18 inches of water at 7 a.m.

The community's only road link to the outside — Highway 25 to Terrace — was severed in two places.

Students Riot Outside Hotel

MANILA (UPI)—Anti-American student mobs battled police in a wild, gunshot-punctuated melee today outside the hotel where President Johnson and other heads of government are staying during the Manila conference.

It was the worst outbreak of anti-U.S. sentiment the president has experienced during his Far East tour. The Asian students, about 3,000 in number with 400 or so actually participating in the riot, shouted "Johnson go home!" and called the president an "Asian butcher."

One student was wounded in the neck and police said later he was hit by shots from a homemade gun carried by another demonstrator. Other students and some of the 150 police officers who quelled the riot dripped blood as rocks, bottles and firecrackers were hurled through the air.

The demonstration took place

out of sight of president Johnson's fourth-floor suite at the Manila hotel. The presidential quarters face in a different direction.

FIVE ARRESTED

Police arrested five students as ringleaders and charged them with assault and breaches of the peace. The demonstration was the worst in recent Philippine history, and some of the participants actually got inside the hotel lobby where a number of summit delegates stood watching the battle.

The students earlier had demonstrated outside the U.S. Embassy, then marched on the hotel where police admitted them into the grounds. Security men quickly moved in when the mob became unruly.

At least seven gunshots were heard. The incident marred an otherwise warm welcome to the Philippines for President Johnson.

Master Spy 'Sprung' by Russians?

LONDON (UPI) — Speculation grew today that a super secret Russian organization operating under the very nose of British security officials had engineered the prison escape of master spy George Blake, the man who betrayed Britain's own spies to the Kremlin.

There was no comment from Scotland Yard on the reports but it placed a "discreet" watch on the Soviet embassy, on Russian ships in the Thames and on Iron Curtain planes leaving England.

Many thought Blake already had been spirited out of the country.

Press reports today said Blake was responsible for the death or imprisonment of at least 40 of Britain's most important foreign agents and that the number of lesser spies betrayed to the Kremlin may never be known.

CPR Seeks Property For New Freight Pier

Second Ferry Due For Big Trailers?

By AB KENT

A site for its own freight ferry terminal is being sought near Swartz Bay by Canadian Pacific Railway.

A company spokesman today confirmed the company is planning to build a terminal to eliminate its temporary use of British Columbia Ferries facilities at Swartz Bay.

The CPR brought its first freight truck-trailer ferry into service this fall after a lengthy conversion of a tank landing craft into Trailer Princess.

It planned to use a government dock at Sidney to load vehicles for the voyage across Georgia Strait to downtown Vancouver.

But Sidney village commission passed a bylaw preventing trucks from using its streets from 10 p.m. to 10 a.m., forcing the CPR to move the terminal in order to provide overnight freight service.

The CPR is looking ahead to when it will be sole carrier of freight vehicles between the lower mainland and Vancouver Island.

SECOND FERRY
It is speculated the company will bring a second ferry into service within the near future, although spokesmen said they had no information on that subject.

By early next year the economics of freight-ferrying will force more carriers to use the CPR service, which is expected to necessitate an expanded operation.

Truckers who have relied on a drop-trailer system to keep down freight charges and operating costs on the waterborne portion of Victoria-Vancouver shipping, have been increasingly restricted in the number of trailers their trucks can drop on the government ferries.

They fully anticipate the discontinuation of drop trailers by next summer sailing season, when the ferries have all the private vehicle traffic they can normally handle.

ONLY ALTERNATIVE
The use of CPR freight ferry service is the only alternative, which some truckers believe the government ferry authority is forcing.

B.C. Ferries general manager Monty Aldous said the original policy of the service was to cater to passengers and private vehicles and drop trailer restrictions merely extend this policy.

Wage Talk Reports Promised

The public will be kept informed about progress of teacher salary negotiations, school board chairman John Porteous said today.

The chairman was replying to a newspaper report that negotiations this year will be conducted in secret. The report was attributed to a teacher's representative.

Mr. Porteous said the board will issue a press release after each negotiating session.

He said the board so far does not know the cost of this year's proposals by the teachers. He said officials are trying to work out the exact sum.

Mr. Porteous said teachers are asking increases ranging from 7 to 25 per cent in various categories.

On Saturday, Gerald Guest, a negotiator for the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, said both board and teachers want to avoid publicity while negotiations are under way.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the Privy Council and what does it do? H.S.G.

A. The Privy Council originally meant the King's inner ring of counsellors who took a special councillor oath and sat at the King's council board. Today in Canada the Privy Council is composed of all living members of cabinet, past and present. Over 100 men qualify as members of the Privy Council today and can preface their name with the term "Hon." In practice the Privy Council is just a medium through which the cabinet acts. Three or more cabinet members meet and pass cabinet orders which become Orders-in-Council and are automatically approved by the governor-general, acting as the governor-in-council.

U.N. Charter Anniversary Marked Here

Today's world is an international one can cover the globe in a few hours, United Nations Association members were told Saturday.

Dr. Malcolm Taylor, University of Victoria president, was speaker at a gathering of 150 persons in Empress Hotel marking the anniversary of the UN charter 21 years ago today.

People of the world are no longer strangers to one another, Dr. Taylor said. They are becoming known as people. They live in an "international village," made by the tremendous advances in communications in the space of a few years.

And about some things they can be distressingly casual — as in references to "nuclear hardware" — without stating the implications.

'LOVE — OR DIE'
Dr. Taylor said it is a time when, in the words of W. H. Auden, people "must love one another or die."

The role of the United Nations had not diminished — it is still a forum for nations split by different ideologies and political aspirations.

But it also needs a vehicle at its disposal for speedy and decisive action when danger threatens, Dr. Taylor said.

What of the future role? The speaker quoted American foreign secretary Dean Rusk, who pointed out the most dramatic reversal of intended role for the United Nations.

The UN may not always bring nations together, but on occasion keep them apart by becoming "man in the middle" as it did so effectively in the Congo and Middle East.

Dr. Taylor said the development of the international community is striking, no longer an ideal, but a fact for better or for worse.

Man Jailed For Stealing Friend's Car

A 28-year-old Duncan man who stole a drinking companion's car to drive home was given a four-month jail sentence in central court today.

Harold Lucier pleaded guilty to the Saturday auto theft.

Police told the court Lucier parted from his friend in Victoria saying he was going to call a taxi to return to Duncan. Several hours later his friend noticed his car was gone.

Lucier was arrested at Mill Bay in the stolen auto.

Man Pleads Not Guilty To Assault

A young Victoria man pleaded not guilty in central court today to a charge of assaulting with intent to rob a 64-year-old man Saturday.

James Griffiths, address unavailable, was remanded on $1,000 bail until Thursday afternoon.

Victim of an assault, James Barr of 2424 Wark Street, is in Royal Jubilee Hospital with a broken right arm. He is reported in "quite good" condition.

Mr. Barr told police he was attacked at 2:30 a.m. Saturday by a wrench-wielding youth as he walked north on Quadra Street.

When Mr. Barr told the youth he wasn't carrying a wallet he said the youth clubbed him and fled.

General Allard Here Tuesday On First Visit

General J. V. Allard, chief of defence staff for the Canadian Forces, will pay his first official visit to Victoria Tuesday since taking over his present position.

The general will meet Pacific Maritime Commander, Rear Admiral John A. Charles, during a tour of Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, in the morning.

BALLROOM RECEPTION MARKS LAUNCHING OF CARR BOOK

Publication of the book, "Hundreds and Thousands, the Journals of Emily Carr," will be marked with a reception tonight in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

Invitations for the affair, which is not open to the public, have been issued by Mrs. W. H. Clarke, president, and the board of directors of Clarke Irwin & Company, publishers of the book.

Chief speaker will be provincial archivist Willard Ireland and a group of Emily Carr's paintings taken from private collections will be on display.

Art Critic Rapped On Emily Carr Book

A sharp reply to Times art columnist Robin Skelton was issued today by Mrs. W. H. Clarke, president of Clarke, Irwin & Co., the publishers of "Hundreds and Thousands: The Journals of Emily Carr."

She took issue with his bitter attack on the book in his Saturday night column on the eve of Emily Carr Week, which also marks the launching of the publication.

Mrs. Clarke is in Victoria as hostess of a special reception in the Empress Hotel tonight to honor the famous artist.

Text of Mrs. Clarke's statement:

"I have read the article by Robin Skelton given such prominence in the Saturday issue of the Victoria Daily Times on 'Hundreds and Thousands: The Journals of Emily Carr.' I cannot call it a review because the writer completely fails to attempt an evaluation of the author's work; he concentrates instead in an immoderate way on matters which, after mature thought, the publishers had decided were out of place in a volume of this nature — an index and footnotes — and he showed a complete ignorance of production costs in his comment on the 12 colored plates contained in the book. His doubts about the reliability of the text are insulting and utterly unfounded. Whatever his motivation, it was not that of the publishers who have taken a genuine pride in bringing to the public this valuable record of the years between 1927 and 1941 in the life of Emily Carr, a period during which her work and thought underwent a profound change and development. Even a cursory examination

Film Klee Wyck Showing Tuesday

The film Klee Wyck will be shown Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. at Assembly Hall of Metropolitan United Church, to mesh with other Emily Carr Week activities.

The Amica Unit of Metropolitan United Church Women is sponsoring the showing of the centennial commission film.

Halfway House For Women Proposed Here

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Halfway Houses for women recovering from alcoholism are needed in Canada.

So says Miss Beatrice Wilson of Toronto, associate secretary of the national board of women of the United Church of Canada, now visiting Victoria.

The United Church now operates Halfway Houses for men at Hamilton, Calgary and Edmonton. They provide a home-like atmosphere for men who have been cured of compulsive drinking but lack the confidence to return to normal life.

"They have proved their usefulness," Mrs. Wilson said, "and with the spread of alcoholism among women, I believe we could cater for them also."

EXPERIMENTING
Miss Wilson said the United Church is experimenting with two Halfway Houses in Winnipeg for young men who have completed terms in jail.

"The idea is the same — to restore their confidence in a natural, home-like environment and to help them find employment. We try to avoid any kind of institutional atmosphere."

On a national speaking tour, Miss Wilson is guest of honor at a one-day conference of United Church Women in First United Church today. She was to speak at a dinner beginning at 5:30 p.m. at which Mrs. R. J. Young, vice-president of the Victoria presbytery, was to be in the chair.

TOO SILENT
"Women are active in many fields of our church work," Miss Wilson said, "but I believe they should take a more active role in policy-making. Too often they are the silent members at church council meetings."

"I believe, too, that we should be more active in social service effort such as senior citizen activities, home nursing and auxiliary work in hospitals."

Miss Wilson became the first woman member of the Toronto presbytery of the United Church in 1944. The presbytery now has 25 women out of a total membership of 100.

The Victoria conference of United Church Women opened with a worship service this morning and was followed by group discussions, reports and a question period.

50 Callers Support Drive To Cut High Food Prices

The man who wants housewives to protest high food prices said today he has had about 50 telephone calls of support in the last few days.

Gerry Gieskens, 558 Sumas, said a small meeting of interested persons was held and another will be held shortly.

Then, he hoped, a public meeting could be called.

Some of the women who called him favored an open-air market in Victoria where the public could buy directly from the producer, he said.

Last week he called on housewives to refuse to purchase any, but the most essential items in supermarkets.

And he asked them to call him at 383-7905 to join the protest.

Tug & Barge, Ltd., said no definite decision has yet been made on her future. But he admitted it would be costly to re-equip her, especially since the company now has the Sudbury II to handle deep-sea tows. Built as a naval corvette in 1941, the Sudbury was bought by Island Tug in 1954 and refitted for rescue operations.

THEY KNEW HE WAS COMING SO ...

A cake in the shape of a ship was presented to Premier Bennett by a B.C. Ferries crew Saturday to mark the premier's 25th year in politics.

The impromptu tribute was made to the premier by D shift on the Queen of Vancouver on the 9 a.m. run from Swartz Bay to Tsawwassen.

Ship cooks just finished decorating the cake as the ferry approached Tsawwassen. As the premier was leaving he was asked to stay in the dining room where the crew assembled to make the presentation.

FINANCING PLAN

Oak Bay to Bare Hospital Formula

By JIM HUME

Greater Victoria municipal leaders will meet this week to discuss an Oak Bay proposal designed to solve hospital financing problems.

But Oak Bay Reeve Alan Cox today declined to reveal his proposals.

"This is just an Oak Bay proposal for other municipal leaders to consider," he said. "I don't think it would be right for them to read those proposals in the press before I have had a chance to state my case or my reasons for the proposals."

He did admit, however, that a meeting will be held in the near future to discuss his formula.

"I have requested a meeting and I think it could be said that it will be held in the near future, in fact almost immediately."

In Parksville Friday, when the Vancouver Island Regional Hospital Council met for its annual fall meeting to discuss hospital financing, one of the least-kept secrets was the Oak Bay proposal.

At that time it was suggested that Oak Bay would soon be proposing to the other municipalities that future increases in per capita grants be earmarked for hospital purposes.

Reeve Cox this morning refused to confirm or deny that his proposal would take this form.

"I am just not prepared to comment either way until other municipal leaders have had a chance to hear what I have to say," he said.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell first brought the per capita grant proposal to light when answering a question from the floor by Coun. Frances Elford of Oak Bay.

Coun. Elford had asked the minister why 2 per cent of the 5 per cent sales tax had not been devoted to hospitals as originally promised by the provincial government.

Mr. Campbell never did reply to the Oak Bay question, but he did suggest that hospital financing problems in the past could have been solved if the municipalities had earmarked the per capita grant increase of the past few years for hospital purposes.

INCREASE PROMISED
Mr. Campbell also noted in his reply to Coun. Elford that a further increase in per capita grants had been promised by the provincial government for 1967.

His comments sparked pre-lunch discussion on the possibility that he had jumped the gun on an Oak Bay formula promised Oct. 12 by Reeve Cox to a meeting of the Victoria and District Hospital Planning Council.

At that meeting Reeve Cox said his proposal—which he declined to outline—was an interim financing plan for hospital construction.

He said then, as he repeated this morning, that he was not prepared to divulge details until formal discussions had taken place with other municipal leaders.

But at Parksville the Oak Bay secret was the topic of several conversations.

SET ASIDE
It involves the setting aside of future per capita increases to handle immediate hospital needs which, in the Greater Victoria area, have reached the critical stage.

Asked this morning if his council had approved such a move, Reeve Cox answered with an emphatic "no."

He repeated that his suggestion was at present no more than that.

"Whatever I have to say, and I am still not prepared to state details, it is as yet only a suggestion. It must remain so until after full discussion with other leaders," he said.

ENGLISH STUDENT HITCH-HIKES 9,000 MILES

It's All Tucked in His Rucksack

By TONY IZZARD

Home to John Lewin is whatever he can carry on his back.

The 18-year-old Englishman arrived in Victoria today complete with wardrobe, dining room suite and bedroom. All were packed into a rucksack barely large enough to hold a month's sock supply.

But in John's case, his wardrobe consists of a couple of shirts, a spare pair of slacks and miscellaneous sweaters.

His dining room suite is a plate, a cup and a knife, fork and spoon.

And his bedroom is a sleeping bag.

Not much of a home. But for John it's all he's going to have for the next year.

A university student from Cambridge, the blond-haired teen-ager is hoping to see the world — compliments of his thumb.

Since arriving in New York on a university charter flight in July, he has hitch-hiked some 9,000 miles through Canada and the U.S.

With only a few hundred dollars in his pocket, he has worked at various jobs from Chicago to Vancouver in order to keep the wolf from the door.

In Kitchener, Ont., he worked as a pipe cleaner at a rubber factory.

In Catskill, N.Y., he was a dish washer.

In Vancouver he was a banquet waiter.

Not bad for a youngster who, until arriving in North America, had no experience at anything except school work.

Son of a school principal, his trip began the day he was accepted as a geography student at Leicester, England, university.

Instead of entering the first year, he decided on a year of adventure and travel.

Now, he'll start his university course in the fall of 1967.

Meanwhile, he'll head for California in the next few days to see the places that so far have been only names on a map.

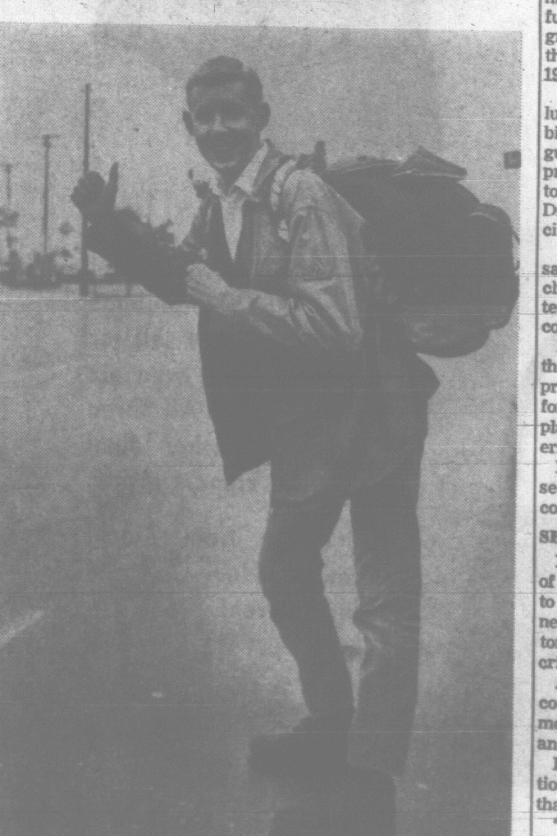

After that he'll cut across the southern U.S. before deciding what country to see next.

"Maybe I'll go to Japan for a while," he said. "Then I'd like to see Australia and New Zealand."

"But before going back to England I'm going to return to Canada to see Montreal and the World's Fair."

While in Victoria, John has one special desire:

"I've heard there are some fabulous homes here with butlers and maids. I'd love to see inside one."

SEEING THE WORLD before starting university next year is John Lewin, of Leicester, England.

CPR Seeks Property For New Freight Pier

Second Ferry Due For Big Trailers?

By AB KENT

A site for its own freight ferry terminal is being sought near Swartz Bay by Canadian Pacific Railway. A company spokesman today confirmed the company is planning to build a terminal to eliminate its temporary use of British Columbia Ferries facilities at Swartz Bay.

The CPR brought its first freight truck-trailer ferry into service this fall after a lengthy conversion of a tank landing craft into Trailer Princess.

It planned to use a government dock at Sidney to load vehicles for the voyage across Georgia Strait to downtown Vancouver.

But Sidney village commission passed a bylaw preventing trucks from using its streets from 10 p.m. to 10 a.m., forcing the CPR to move the terminal in order to provide overnight freight service.

The CPR is looking ahead to when it will be sole carrier of freight vehicles between the lower mainland and Vancouver Island.

SECOND FERRY

It is speculated the company will bring a second ferry into service within the near future, although spokesmen said they had no information on that subject.

By early next year the economics of freight-ferrying will force more carriers to use the CPR service, which is expected to necessitate an expanded operation.

Truckers who have relied on a drop-trailer system to keep down freight charges and operating costs on the waterborne portion of Victoria-Vancouver shipping, have been increasingly restricted in the number of trailers their trucks can drop on the government ferries.

They fully anticipate the discontinuation of drop trailers by next summer sailing season, when the ferries have all the private vehicle traffic they can normally handle.

ONLY ALTERNATIVE

The use of CPR freight ferry service is the only alternative, which some truckers believe the government ferry authority is forcing.

B.C. Ferries general manager Monty Aldous said the original policy of the service was to cater to passengers and private vehicles and drop trailer restrictions merely extend this policy.

Wage Talk Reports Promised

The public will be kept informed about progress of teacher salary negotiations, school board chairman John Porteous said today.

The chairman was replying to a newspaper report that negotiations this year will be conducted in secret. The report was attributed to a teacher's representative.

Mr. Porteous said the board will issue a press release after each negotiating session.

He said the board so far does not know the cost of this year's proposals by the teachers. He said officials are trying to work out the exact sum.

Mr. Porteous said teachers are asking increases ranging from 7 to 25 per cent in various categories.

On Saturday, Gerald Guest, a negotiator for the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, said both board and teachers want to avoid publicity while negotiations are under way.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the Privy Council and what does it do? H.S.G.

A. The Privy Council originally meant the King's inner ring of counsellors who took a special councillor oath and sat at the King's council board. Today in Canada the Privy Council is composed of all living members of cabinets, past and present. Over 100 men qualify as members of the Privy Council today and can preface their name with the term "Hon." In practice the Privy Council is just a medium through which the cabinet acts. Three or more cabinet members meet and pass cabinet orders which become Orders-in-Council and are automatically approved by the governor-general, acting as the governor-in-council.

Even a cursory examination of the book would have revealed to him what a rich and wonderful document it is.

"In view of Mr. Skelton's extraordinary distaste and the curious report headlined in the Daily Times of October 7th it is perhaps also necessary for me to note that the publishers postponed the publication date of the journals for a month, to coincide with Emily Carr Week, at the request of its Victoria sponsors, and that any change in the arrangements to launch the book was solely due to an unfortunate breakdown in the original plans made in conjunction with the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria. Rather than abandon our support of Emily Carr Week altogether we were forced to make alternative arrangements.

STUDENTS ASK

Does Berton Really Believe It?

By ELIZABETH FORBES

If I got the message, Pierre Berton seemed determined to put across when he spoke in the Student Union Building on the Uvic campus, then there is a war going on in Canada.

It's a bloodless war of course, but a war to the finish.

The struggle is centred around transfer of power from the "old guard" to the new, from the "image makers" who would keep the status quo and a generation that says break it.

This take-over generation is much younger than any that has gone before. Much stronger and much more vocal because it includes for the first time in the experience of this country, Second World War babies grown now to impatient maturity.

Although he stands with the old guard by accident of birth, Mr. Berton insisted his sympathies are all with the new.

In fact, he conceded nothing to the older generation, not even the benefits of experience gained from the years. Time, he said, also brought hardening of the arteries.

In one of the few instances that he quoted statistics, it was to show that today 50 per cent of Canada's population is in the 25-and-under age group.

It is from this restless, seeking mass, that he believes leaders in every field, from politics to business, would soon be recruited.

He warned that this new guard would scrap many of our accepted rules of procedure, change our moral standards (they are out-of-date anyway, he inferred) and replace them with freedoms that would allow everyone to do pretty much as he liked.

He tossed off some of these freedoms as they related to be savoured and then acquired. They included free love and free living, less work and more leisure, freedom to read anything that is printed with no restrictions of any kind and at the other end of the scale, years of free education.

It was even suggested that eventually, those who seek education will be paid to remain in university as long as they wish.

In a question period that followed, the speaker was asked how such freedoms would be financed. By taxation, he said. "If you want the good things of life, you must be prepared to pay for them."

Who would pay these taxes he was asked, presuming that 50 per cent of the population was still 25 years and under and enjoying leisure time, free love and continuing education. The other 50 per cent, was the quick reply.

No one pointed out that in that group there would be a hefty number of the despised "old guard" nearing pension age and therefore not eligible for higher taxes.

Another questioner urged Pierre Berton to explain how he would convince the people that such taxes were necessary. He'd leave that to heads of government far better qualified for the job than himself, he said glibly.

Then he passed quickly to another raised hand.

It all made for an entertaining evening. And I suppose it left those students still young enough to believe in some sort of far-out Utopia, fully convinced that anyone over 25 in the audience was very definitely "old guard."

Not all, however. There were students who accepted Mr. Berton's ideas with reservations.

For instance, the group near me as I moved out of the hall.

A tall young man with an earnest questioning face was saying to those around him "I wonder how much of that he really believes."

The answer was a succession of raised eyebrows and expressive shrugs.

A series of film shorts, entitled Scotland on the Screen, will be presented at the McPherson Playhouse Nov. 3 at 8 p.m. by the St. Andrews and Caledonian Society.

U.K. CHAMPIONS MEET UVIC DEBATING TEAM

Four University of Victoria students will match wits Nov. 1 with two British debaters.

The Britishers are students Lord James Douglas-Hamilton of Edinburgh University and Ian Forrester of Glasgow University. They are touring Canadian universities.

They will take a stand against the Uvic proposal "That Extremism in the Defence of Liberty Is No Vice" in a formal debate at 12:30 p.m. in the student union building. Uvic debaters will be Mike Hutchison and Gail Nash.

The Britishers will split to debate with Uvic students Steve Stark and Nick Lang in an evening session at 8 o'clock on the topic "That Party Politics Is for Men Without Principle."

Judges for both debates are still to be chosen. Lord James Douglas-Hamilton, 24, second son of the Duke of Hamilton and Brandon, attended Eton, Oxford's Balliol College, and Edinburgh University, where he is working towards his LL.B. honors degree.

He is a former president of the Oxford Debating Union and president of the debating group at Edinburgh University, where he organized a "teach-in" on Rhodesia in 1965.

Ian Forrester, 21, holds MA and LL.B. (Hons) degrees from Glasgow University and is president of the Dialectic Society there.

Toy Pekingese Wins Opening Day Honors

Bravura Style Lovers To Enjoy Richard Norris

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Lovers of the bravura style in music will be particularly happy attending tonight's concert by Victoria Symphony Orchestra and guest artist Richard Norris, at the Royal Theatre.

Not only does the solo pianist live up to his advance reputation as a notable proponent of the virtuoso music of Liszt, but the orchestra under Otto-Werner Mueller provides what, in many ways, is a quite incredible performance of Tchaikovsky's awesome Second Symphony.

In fact, the orchestra's virtuosity in the symphony finale even outshone the effect of the pianist's in the Liszt Concerto.

Mr. Norris, California-born and a disciple of the late great Dutch pianist, Egon Petrie, has such a fluent and comprehensive technique that he can play this music — the E flat major, No. 1 — without making his listener uncomfortably conscious of its prodigious difficulties.

Although the music is sheer showmanship, Mr. Norris minimizes this aspect by a style devoid of mannerism and a performance that is marked by sensitivity, a sympathetic touch and considerable grace in phrasing.

CLEAN, CRISP
The clean, crisp vitality of passage work and octaves is warmed by a pleasing romantic spirit in the more lyric episodes, but I wish that Mr. Norris had given us something other than Liszt with his encores.

It would have been interesting to have considered him in greater depth.

Orchestrally this was a less comfortable concerto performance than some Mr. Mueller has given us. Soloist and orchestra did not have as close a communion as one could desire for a satisfying total effect.

Brahms' profound and moving "Tragic" Overture opens the program.

Among the music that Mueller has special gifts for interpreting, is the philosophical-poetical creation of Brahms. Certainly the outline was here on Sunday, the indication of a potentially fine reading.

But we never really found our way into the heart of the matter, the players seeming to be more conscious of means than material.

APPREHENSION
In the Tchaikovsky, just at first, one felt some apprehension, particularly with regard to difficult string entries and rhythm.

But there came a lovely horn solo and then, in the second movement, a powerful rhythmic control developed.

The scherzo was vibrant, clean and buoyant. But it was in the finale that the orchestra rose to a pitch of sheer brilliance it has seldom, if ever, equaled.

Setting an extreme "allegro vivo" tempo, Mr. Mueller seemed to breathe fire into his players, inspiring them to a truly pulse-stirring conclusion.

Lower Cadet Age?
VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia air cadet committee recommended Saturday that the minimum age of air cadets be lowered from 14 to 13 years of age. At the annual meeting of the committee, attended by 150 delegates representing 36 squadrons throughout B.C., the resolution passed unanimously. It now will be sent to the Air Cadet League of Canada headquarters in Ottawa for consideration.

For instance, there is a chinchilla "flaw-away coat" little longer than mini-skirt length at $12,500, a Nigerian wildcat jacket and skirt with overbust at $1,195, and a natural Indian tiger coat with collar and cuffs of natural golden Russian sable.

One of the budget items offered is a 24-carat gold-plated purse, "inspired by a beetle box." The purse sells for $45 plus 90 cents state tax but the Christmas book suggests that a sapphire and diamond bracelet at $70 go well with it.

TO HER OLD FILMS

Pickford Amazed At Paris Response

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Presenting Taming of the Shrew, starring the movies' highest-paid, most popular couple, she in her first Shakespearean role.

Does that sound like Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton in their latest co-starring film? Yes, but the description also fits a movie that was made 37 years ago and soon will be seen once more by film audiences.

The Mary Pickford — Douglas Fairbanks version of the Shakespeare comedy will open an engagement at the Tivoli Plaza theatre in West Los Angeles Nov. 4. Matty Kemp, who oversees the film interests of the Toronto-born Miss Pickford, explained how it came about:

"The whole thing started last year when the Cinematheque Francaise in Paris wanted to have a retrospective tribute to Mary. At first she was reluctant to accept. She had bought up as many of her old films as she could find and held onto them jealously. She said that she had pleased her own generation and she wanted the films to be destroyed at her death."

DESPITE THE CORN

Green Acres Zooms In First TV Ratings

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Some observers of the television scene drew this lesson from the first Nielsen ratings of the 1966-67 season: never underestimate the value of corn.

This is the attitude of certain sophisticates who sniff at the fact that among the top 10 shows in audience ratings were such offerings as Green Acres, Gomer Pyle, The Andy Griffith Show and Beverly Hillsbillies.

Green Acres captured the No. 2 position below the blockbuster Sunday night movie, The Bridge on the River Kwai. Do they grow corn on those Green Acres?

"I don't think so," says Jay Sommers, who created, co-writes and produces the series. "I think it's a fairly sophisticated show."

DOESN'T CARE
Sommers, a rotund, owlish veteran of the rag-writing jungle, doesn't really care what the smart crowd thinks of Green Acres. It's his baby, and as long as the public buys it, that's all that matters.

The inspiration for the show came from Sommers' boyhood, of which two years were spent on a farm in Greendale, N.Y. His stepfather went broke trying to earn a living from the soil, and the experiences remained with the boy.

"The secret of Green Acres' success? 'I think it appeals to a basic human urge; everyone would like to buy a farm,' Sommers theorized. 'And we came up with a brilliant combination in Eddie Albert and Eva Gabor. They work together like a dream.'

IN MEMORIAM

DAY-"Clara". In ever loving memory of my dear beloved wife, who passed away from this world on October 20, 1966. I seem to see in the soft dim light of a far-off land. And I think of her when the sun's rays go down in the far-off west. I miss you so, Clara, as the time passes on. Than I did on the day of your passing. For absence can never close the loving heart which is still with you. And the lamp of my love is still burning for you. Your love has been the truest in all my life. For no one on earth could take your love from me. For you are still the dearest of all. Always missed by her loving husband, Bob.

Flames
Engulf
Tanker

MORGAN CITY, La. (AP)—Flames raged out of control through a loaded oil tanker 60 miles southwest of here today, forcing the crew to abandon ship. The U.S. Coast Guard said seven of the crew of 40 were missing.

The Gulfstar, a 572-foot vessel, was settling and believed sinking at mid-morning.

Another tanker, the Atlantic Prestige, picked up 23 survivors, including Capt. Larry Larue. Two others were rescued by the Western Sun and seven were missing.

Larue said he believed the entire crew got off his burning ship. Most of the crew members the port from which the Gulfstar was rescued, Tex. stag sailed Sunday.

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter brought three badly burned sailors to a Morgan City hospital.

Coast guard planes, helicopters and cutters converged on the scene after the Gulfstar sent out an SOS distress signal, reporting a fire in its engine room and pump room.

Rescue ships were forced to keep their distance by the danger of an explosion. The Gulfstar was reported to be carrying 163,000 barrels of gasoline and intermediates.

Smoke and flames poured from the stricken vessel. The fire was believed to be feeding off bunker oil.

SOUTH VIETNAMESE CONCILIATORY

Peace Talk Marks
Manila ConferenceBy JACK BROOKS
Special to the Times

MANILA—Seven Pacific nations marched arm in arm through the first day of the Asian summit here today in a session that went better than anybody expected.

Probable goal of the conference is a four-point program for peace and prosperity in Asia:

- Determination not to surrender to Communism in Viet Nam.

- Flexibility towards any Communist peace overtures.

- Regional co-operation to improve the lives of all Asian people.

- Concentration on pacification programs in Viet Nam, including a new amnesty for members of the Viet Cong who switch sides.

One diplomat involved in the talks said tonight: "I thought the meeting went better than it could possibly go. There was more unity apparent in the talks than I could have imagined with seven states involved."

An official communique on the talks is to be issued Tuesday afternoon.

Those taking part are the leaders of the U.S., Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, The Philippines, South Viet Nam and South Korea.

JOHNSON SILENT

True to his promises, President Johnson played down his role in the talks. He spoke last and asked few questions, it is understood.

Sources also said no pressure was put any state to join in or agree with the others.

"They seemed to have agreed on most things before they even got here," a source said.

Highlights of the day's session were all reflected in the opening speeches and behavior of the leaders—plus one speech made later by South Viet Nam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Highlights were:

The anti-war attitude of chairman Nguyen Van Thieu, chief of state of South Viet Nam.

The restraint of President Johnson and the hopefulness of Ferdinand Marcos, president of the Philippines. Thieu, with Premier Ky at his side, made his most peaceful speech yet.

In Honolulu in February he had talked of "defeating" and "crushing" the Viet Cong. Since then he has talked of invading the north.

But at the summit here he declared: "Providing the principles (of protecting the territory and liberty of his people) are respected we are ready to examine any avenue which could lead to a just and lasting peace in Viet Nam."

NEGOTIATE WITH CONG

Presumably that would include negotiating with the Viet Cong which both Thieu and Ky have repeatedly said they would never do. Thieu also stressed his country is only "responding" to aggression and said its duration depends on what the aggressor does.

Then he added: "South Viet Nam has no desire of conquering or destroying any country or government. We shall ask in return no one attempt to destroy us and be happy to agree to stop fighting militarily once we are assured our freedom is no longer threatened."

Ky made his amnesty proposal in a speech devoted more to his "dream of a genuine social revolution" in South Viet Nam. He promised no retaliation to any Viet Cong who "come back safely and contribute to the task of rebuilding our nation." He said any who chose to "Continue on Page 3"

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Hall, of Vancouver, co-owner of George Royal, says the five-year-old may be retired after representing Canada in the Washington International at Laurel, Md., on November 11.

In an interview following George Royal's victory in Saturday's Canadian International Championship at Woodbine racetrack, Hall said he and Ernie Hammond, the other half of the partnership, are on the verge of accepting a purchase offer from a Kentucky syndicate that plans to stand the bay horse at stud.

Traffic Snarled

Traffic was snarled on Bay Street for a while this afternoon following two traffic accidents.

The first accident occurred when an unidentified woman driver slammed her brakes on too hard close to Butler Bros. and they "have become highly resentful of the government of Canada continuing to ignore their pleas."

The vehicle was delayed while a vehicle was got through to take the youngster to hospital with a cut head.

Only minutes later, a turning truck tipped over a busman mini-police car outside Butler Bros., causing a further hold-up.

Driver, Constable Ralph Warren was unhurt, and the car was driven away after being righted.

B.C.
Grows
RestlessBy JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

British Columbia's official brief to the federal-provincial conference opening in Ottawa today repeated earlier demands in a significantly more angry tone.

The most menacing statement delivered by Premier Bennett in the brief to the conference was:

"The cases of discrimination against British Columbia need immediate correction if its citizens are to fully appreciate and support Confederation."

This conclusion followed Mr. Bennett's opening warning 12 pages earlier, that the conference was one of the most important since Confederation.

"The results of our deliberations will largely determine the course the Canadian nation will take in its second century."

He emphasized his warning twice more in the text, telling the conference that "the people (of B.C.) are growing restless with the federal attitude" and they "have become highly resentful of the government of Canada continuing to ignore their pleas."

CRUCIAL AGREEMENT

The B.C. brief was released here this morning as the 10 provincial delegations met with Prime Minister Pearson and his colleagues for a week of negotiations. The several topics include a crucial agreement on their respective shares of income taxes for the next five years.

He cited new evidence of B.C. prosperity but contended that it benefited all of Canada and the province was unwilling to be penalized any longer by long-standing federal fiscal policies. He backed down somewhat in his previous criticism of the federal 11 per cent sales tax on materials used for hydro-electric projects. But he more than tripled his earlier estimate of the extra burden it creates for B.C.

Prime Minister Pearson's weekend announcement that Ottawa would offer to pay half the operating costs of provincial education programs met one of the B.C. brief's demands for more assistance in this field.

But Mr. Bennett also asked for more sharing of hospital costs.

REVENUE GROWTH

The premier predicted that income tax revenues will grow faster than federal expenditures while provinces face the opposite situation.

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister L. B. Pearson today offered the provinces over $90 million more next year for higher education, with additional amounts to come in the years ahead.

He said the federal government is willing to pay half the operating costs of education plus all the costs of job training for adults, amounting to $100 million next year. Ottawa already pays most of the cost of training and retraining adults for technological change.

He also dropped a broad hint in his opening statement to the federal-provincial conference that his federal government will have to raise taxes to provide this support for education.

"I feel bound to point out that the cost of this support for higher education must be carried by the taxpayers of Canada in one way or another—including the replacement of the revenue transferred," said the prime minister.

A federal government spokesman stressed at the opening of this crucial summit meeting that finance minister Mitchell Sharp's declaration made last September still stands. Sharp said that if provinces want more money they will have to impose their own taxes to raise it.

The federal government proposes to transfer four percentage points of individual income tax revenue and 2.2 per cent corporation income tax to the provinces.

How To Measure Provincial Need

The federal government suggested that the expenditure needs of the provinces in the field of higher education would best be measured by totalling the operating expenditures of the post-secondary institutions in each province.

This referred to the expenditures of universities, technical institutes and other post-secondary schools or colleges that arise from the training of students who have their senior matriculation.

The prime minister's statement was complicated in its proposed fiscal transfer to the provinces to assist them in meeting rising post-secondary education operating and capital costs. The provincial premiers were analyzing it to see just how much more money their respective provinces would stand to gain.

Premier Daniel Johnson is expected to challenge immediately the move made by federal government to pay the costs for adult training on the grounds that it did not come within the definition of "education" and therefore was not invading the province's jurisdiction.

This new definition of "education" as laid down for constitutional purposes by the prime minister applies to students but does not apply to those who have been part of the labor force and return to class rooms to learn new skills.

Premiers Withhold Comment

The Quebec premier declined comment Sunday night. Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba could not be reached Sunday night and was reported arriving in Ottawa later in the evening.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and his group of experts were studying the federal proposals that added up to 30 pages. He said he would hold his comments until Monday morning.

Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta said he had not yet read the prime minister's text. He had no comment. He said he Continued on Page 2

PM Challenges
Quebec ClaimsBy STAN McDOWELL

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson directly challenged major Quebec constitutional claims in his advance statement to the federal-provincial conference opening here today.

First indications from the Quebec delegation were that the challenge, even though sweetened by cash which the province badly needs, would mean a fight.

Pearson's statement, issued on the eve of the conference, asserted the federal government's right to act in the fields of manpower, culture and research, all of which have been claimed by the Quebec government as masters of provincial jurisdiction.

At first glance provincial officials estimated that the federal government's plan to transfer funds unconditionally to the provinces to meet their educational needs would mean between $25 and $27 millions to Quebec in the next fiscal year. This would be a substantial step toward the $45 millions Quebec had asked for as the first instalment in a five-year, step-by-step transfer of resources from Ottawa to Quebec which would total $225,000,000 by 1971-72.

The fact that the transfer of funds proposed by the federal government would be unconditional, even though dictated by

Students Riot
Outside Hotel

MANILA (UPI)—Anti-American student mobs battled police in a wild, gunshot-punctuated melee today outside the hotel where President Johnson and other heads of government are staying during the Manila conference.

It was the worst outbreak of anti-U.S. sentiment during his Far East tour. The Asian students, about 3,000 in number with 400 or so actually participating in the riot, shouted "Johnson go home!" and called the president an "Asian butcher."

One student was wounded in the neck and police said later he was hit by shots from a homemade gun carried by another demonstrator. Other students and some of the 150 police officers who quelled the riot dripped blood as rocks, bottles and firecrackers were hurled through the air.

The demonstration took place

out of sight of President Johnson's fourth-floor suite at the Manila hotel. The presidential quarters face in a different direction.

FIVE ARRESTED

Police arrested five students as ringleaders and charged them with assault and breaches of the peace. The demonstration was the worst in recent Philippine history, and some of the participants actually got inside the hotel lobby where a number of summit delegates stood watching the battle.

The students earlier had demonstrated outside the U.S. Embassy, then marched on the hotel where police admitted them into the grounds. Security men quickly moved in when the mob became unruly.

At least seven gunshots were heard. The incident marred an otherwise warm welcome to the Philippines for President Johnson.

Master Spy 'Sprung' by Russians?

LONDON (UPI)—Speculation grew today that a super secret Russian organization operating under the very nose of British security officials had engineered the prison escape of master spy George Blake, the man who betrayed Britain's own spies to the Kremlin.

There was no comment from Scotland Yard on the reports but it placed a "discreet" watch on the Soviet embassy, on Russian ships in the Thames and on Iron Curtain planes leaving England.

Many thought Blake already had been spirited out of the country.

Press reports today said Blake was responsible for the death or imprisonment of at least 40 of Britain's most important foreign agents and that the number of lesser spies betrayed to the Kremlin may never be known.

A political storm descended on Prime Minister Wilson over the escape.

Conservative legislators served notice they will seek to censure the government for failing to keep Blake, a double agent, under closer wraps.

Sentenced in 1961 to 42 years as the most dangerous spy of the post-war years, he was kept without special security in a jail from which eight escapes already had been made this year.

The Daily Sketch reported that escapes from British jails now are running at the rate of 10 a week. Three more prisoners, as yet unnamed, vanished today from London's Wandsworth jail, from which one of the Great Train Robbery gang got away two years ago.

Home Secretary Roy Jenkins announced today that Admiral of the Fleet Lord Mountbatten will head a committee of inquiry into security conditions in British prisons.

The Conservative Opposition protested at once against the government's refusal to name a special committee specifically

Greek-born Philip Deane, who spent 33 months with Blake in a Korean prison camp, told a reporter he believes that Blake's trial, sentence and escape were all staged by British authorities to delude the Communists.

STUDENTS ASK

Does Berton Really Believe It?

By ELIZABETH FORBES.

If I got the message, Pierre Berton seemed determined to put across when he spoke in the Student Union Building on the Uvic campus, then there is a war going on in Canada.

It's a bloodless war of course, but nevertheless a war to the finish.

The struggle is centred around transfer of power from the "old guard to the new," from the "image makers who would keep the status quo and a generation that says break it."

This take-over generation is much younger than any that has gone before. Much stronger and much more vocal because it includes for the first time in the experience of this country, Second World War babies grown now to impatient maturity.

Although he stands with the old guard by accident of birth, Mr. Berton insists his sympathies are all with the new.

In fact, he conceded nothing to the older generation, not even the benefits of experience gained from the years. Time, he said, also brought hardening of the arteries.

In one of the few instances that he quoted statistics, it was to show that today 50 per cent of Canada's population is in the 25-and-under age group. It is from this restless, seeking mass, that he believes leaders in every field, from politics to business, would soon be recruited.

He warned that this new guard would scrap many of our accepted rules of procedure, change our moral standards (they are out-of-date anyway, he inferred) and replace them with freedoms that would allow everyone to do pretty much as he liked.

He tossed off some of these freedoms as tasty tidbits to be savored and then acquired. They included free love and free living, less work and more leisure, freedom to read anything that is printed kind and no restrictions of any kind at the other end of the scale, years of free education.

It was even suggested that eventually those who seek education will be paid to remain in university as long as they wish.

In a question period that followed, the speaker was asked how such freedoms would be financed. By taxation, he said. "If you want the good things of life, you must be prepared to pay for them."

Who would pay these taxes he was asked, presuming that 50 per cent of the population was still 25 years and under and enjoying leisure time free love and continuing education. The other 50 per cent, was the quick reply.

No one pointed out that in that group there would be a hefty number of the despised "old guard" nearing pension age and therefore not eligible for higher taxes.

Another questioner urged Pierre Berton to explain how he would convince the people that such taxes were necessary. He'd leave that to heads of government far better qualified for the job than himself, he said glibly.

Then he passed quickly to another raised hand.

It all ended for an entertaining evening. And I suppose it left those students still young enough to believe in some sort of far-out Utopia, fully convinced that anyone over 25 in the audience was very definitely "old guard."

Not all, however. There were students who accepted Mr. Berton's ideas with reservations.

For instance, the group near me as I moved out of the hall.

A tall young man with an earnest questioning face was saying to those around him — "I wonder how much of that he really believes."

The answer was a succession of raised eyebrows and expressive shrugs.

The six color films on Scottish life and natural beauties range from 15 minutes to half an hour. Narrator will be H. Forsyth Hardy, director of Films of Scotland and Edinburgh Film Festival secretary.

Films on the program are: Holiday Scotland, a tour of castles, abbeys, Loch Lomond and the Trossachs; The Edinburgh Festival, featuring music, art, ballet and opera events; Hebridean Highway, following the Road to the Isles; The Hollow Mountain, which spotlights Scotland's recent industrial development; Living in

U.K. CHAMPIONS MEET UVIC DEBATING TEAM

Four University of Victoria students will match wits Nov. 1 with two British debaters.

The Britishers are students Lord James Douglas-Hamilton of Edinburgh University and Ian Forrester of Glasgow University. They are touring Canadian universities.

They will take a stand against the Uvic proposal "That Extremism in the Defence of Liberty Is No Vice" in a formal debate at 12:30 p.m. in the student union building. Uvic debaters will be Mike Hutchison and Gail Nash.

The Britishers will split to debate with Uvic students Steve Stark and Nick Lang in an evening session at 8 o'clock on the topic "That Party Politics Is for Men Without Principle."

Judges for both debates are still to be chosen.

Lord James Douglas-Hamilton, 24, second son of the Duke of Hamilton and Brandon, attended Eton, Oxford's Balliol College, and Edinburgh University, where he is working towards his LL.B. honors degree.

He is a former president of the Oxford Debating Union and president of the debating group at Edinburgh University, where he organized a "teach-in" on Rhodesia in 1965.

Ian Forrester, 21, holds MA and LL.B. (Hons) degrees from Glasgow University and is president of the Dialectic Society there.

KITIMAT

Business Area Flooded

KITIMAT (CP) — The Kitimat River, swelled by a weekend of torrential rain, flooded the low-lying business district in this northern community of 10,000 and severed nearby highways in at least three places early today.

At least 50 businesses were inches deep in water at the height of the early morning flooding. Six inches of water covered the lobby of the Gordon Hotel.

Six inches of rain fell during the weekend, but it stopped raining about 3 a.m. However, more showers are forecast for today.

The water was estimated to be as deep as four feet at one point and several cars were washed from parking lots as water moved through the business section at about 15 miles an hour.

The residential area, on high ground, escaped the flooding. The Aluminum Company of Canada plant, the town's main industry, also escaped and was operating even though the eight-mile road from the residential area to the smelter was under 18 inches of water at 7 a.m.

The community's only road link to the outside — Highway 25 to Terrace — was severed in two places.

AT ROYAL TONIGHT

Bravura Style Lovers To Enjoy Richard Norris

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Lovers of the bravura style in music will be particularly happy attending tonight's concert by Victoria Symphony Orchestra and guest artist Richard Norris, at the Royal Theatre.

Not only does the solo pianist live up to his advance reputation as a notable proponent of the virtuoso music of Liszt, but the orchestra under Otto-Werner Mueller provides what, in many ways, is a quite incredible performance of Tschalkovsky's awesome Second Symphony.

In fact, the orchestra's virtuosity in the symphony music even outshone the effect of the pianist's in the Liszt Concerto.

Mr. Norris, California-born and a disciple of the late great Dutch pianist, Egon Petrie, has such a fluent and comprehensive technique that he can play this music — the E flat major, No. 1 — without making his listener uncomfortably conscious of its prodigious difficulties.

Although the music is sheer showmanship, Mr. Norris minimizes this aspect by a style devoid of mannerism and a performance that is marked by sensitivity, a sympathetic touch and considerable grace in phrasing.

CLEAN, CRISP

The clean, crisp vitality of passage work and octaves, is warmed by a pleasing romantic spirit in the more lyric episodes, but I wish that Mr. Norris had given us something other than Liszt with his enclosures.

It would have been interesting to have considered him in greater depth.

Orchestrally this was a less comfortable concerto performance than some Mr. Mueller has given us. Soloist and orchestra did not have as close a communion as one could desire for a satisfying total effect.

Brahms' profound and moving "Tragic" Overture opens the program.

Among the music that Mueller has special gifts for interpreting is the philosophical-poetical creation of Brahms. Certainly the outline was here on Sunday, the indication of a potentially fine reading.

But we never really found our way into the heart of the matter, the players seeming to be more conscious of means than material.

APPREHENSION

In the Tschalkowsky, just at first, one felt some apprehension, particularly with regard to difficult string entries and rhythm.

But there came a lovely horn solo and then, in the second movement, a powerful rhythmic control developed.

The scherzo was vibrant, clean and buoyant. But it was in the finale that the orchestra rose to a pitch of sheer brilliance it has seldom, if ever, equalled.

Setting an extreme "allegro vivo" tempo, Mr. Mueller seemed to breathe fire into his players, inspiring them to a truly pulse-stirring conclusion.

Lower Cadet Age?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia air cadet committee recommended Saturday that the minimum age of air cadets be lowered from 14 to 13 years of age. At the annual meeting of the committee, attended by 150 delegates representing 36 squadrons throughout B.C., the resolution passed unanimously. It now will be sent to the Air Cadet League of Canada headquarters in Ottawa for consideration.

TO HER OLD FILMS

Pickford Amazed At Paris Response

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Presenting Taming of the Shrew, starring the movies' highest-paid, most popular couple, she in her first Shakespearean role...

Does that sound like Eliza Taylor and Richard Burton in their latest co-starring film? Yes, but the description also fits a movie that was made 37 years ago and soon will be seen once more by film audiences.

The Mary Pickford-Douglas Fairbanks version of the Shakespeare comedy will open an engagement at the Tivoli Plaza theatre in West Los Angeles Nov. 4.

Both Taylor and Richard Burton in their latest co-starring film? Yes, but the description also fits a movie that was made 37 years ago and soon will be seen once more by film audiences.

The whole thing started last year when the Cinematheque Francaise in Paris wanted to have a retrospective tribute to Mary.

At first she was reluctant to accept. She had bought up as many of her old films as she could find and held onto them jealously. She said that she had pleased her own generation and she wanted her films to be destroyed after her death.

DESPITE THE CORN

Green Acres Zooms In First TV Ratings

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Some observers of the television scene drew this lesson from the first Nielsen ratings of the 1966-67 season: never underestimate the value of corn.

This is the attitude of certain sophisticates who sniff at the fact that among the top 10 shows in audience ratings were such offerings as Green Acres, Gomer Pyle, The Andy Griffith Show and Beverly Hillsbillies.

Green Acres captured the No. 2 position below the blockbuster Sunday night movie, The Bridge on the River Kwai. Do they grow corn on those Green Acres?

"I don't think so," says Jay Sommers, who created, co-writes and produces the series. "I think it's a fairly sophisticated show."

DOESN'T CARE
